BY DELTA-6 AND GODFRIED

This is an important notice to all York students who do not wish to lose their school for all eternity.

Last Monday, President of York, Harry Artwork met with members of the Intergalactic Council of Safe Highway Travel. Bondo, minister of Sex Education and Galactic Farm Welfare said, 'We met last week and discussed the issue of roads on York campus which are one of the worst in the Milky Way. Two options were raised - either rearrange the traffic signs on campus or blow up York to make room for an Intergalactic Highway, to be constructed by the Vogons.'

'Unfortunately, since Harry Artwork has been out for tea and has had a really bad rash, we were forced to come to a decision without him. In his place, however, was the G-1000 which suggested that we blow up York.'

In the light of the fact that York will be destroyed, Bob, a student, has begun to cry and riot and swears he will never stop until his demands have been met. His demands are as follows: he would like the entire Scott library to be on one floor so he doesn't have to walk up the stairs; he would like York's main campus to be contained in one building; and lastly, he would like a large dome constructed of an unknown material to be placed over York such that it will act as a force shield against Vogon construction crews.

However, since this has been written, Bob has been crushed by a rocket powered steamroller zooming through the outer reaches of Jane and Finch. Peter DoNotKnow, president of CWHSF, was at the scene and was seen cheering the steamroller on and muttering under his breath 'Damn students, you'd think York was built for them.'

Upon Bob's death, the Vogon's attempted to appease his spirit by reading some original Vogon poetry; unfortunately the book was missing from the Scott Library. Ironically, the book was out in Bob's name, so the Vogon's figured that he had already read it and so there was no point and resumed steamrolling activities as usual.

Tomorrow at dawn steamrollers are being brought in along with vacuum cleaners and a Maytag dishwasher (just in case). The highway is to be named Fred, but will bear a plaque displaying this engraving - 'This highway is dedicated to Harry Artwork.'

Spring bulbs planted in late October around campus by Provost Elizabeth Hopkins were viciously unearthed over the weekend. Security found two plastic sand buckets and shovels under a pile of leaves near the scene of the crime. Estimated damage $50 and one upset provost.

A man shouting, "I need this spot" was removed by Security from Harry Arthurs' private parking space last Thursday. The man, clutching the pole guarding Arthurs' spot, had been spotted earlier in the week by an alert parking attendant, endlessly circling all York parking lots for a space. Metro Police escorted him off campus.

A delirious student was escorted off campus by Metro Police last Thursday for causing a disturbance in Scott Library. The student, unable to find books for his research paper, snapped and began rearranging the books on the third floor alphabetically rather than by the dewey decimal system. Scott Library officials estimate the damage as endless hours of overtime to arrange the system.

Four students were trampled in Central Square for failing to move out of a doorway to the Curtis Lecture Hall. An angry mob of people mowed down the group because they were talking and swinging their large knapsacks, hitting passersby, and definitely not moving. Estimated loss: Nil although one of the angry mob twisted her ankle.

A student passed out in the womens' washroom near 11 Central Square last Tuesday as she was overcome by strong hairspray fumes. The student was revived and taken to hospital. A hairspray ban was placed in said washroom, causing a further Security incident when angry students rolled their eyes and threatened the attending Security officer with wands of mascara and lipstick.
