

Now that defeat is upon her, Germany will do more desperate deeds of cruelty ; but the end, soon or late, will come. And the Prime Minister of England has rightly said :

“ When we come to the end of this war —which please God we may—we shall not forget, and we ought not to forget, this horrible record of calculated cruelty and crime.”