

At the time of the battle, the centre of the French line was in the vicinity of St. Bridget's Asylum, their left wing extending towards the St. Lawrence, and the right to the St. Charles Valley, down which they retreated after the defeat. After passing the Toll Gate, for about a hundred yards, the visitor will be upon the ground occupied by the English centre, the left wing extending towards the St. Charles, and the right towards the St. Lawrence.

At the western part of the Plains is the locality known at the time of Wolfe's victory as the Ruisseau St. Denis, through whose vale the ascent was made.

The Sillery Convent, called the Convent of Jesus Marie, and the Church of St. Columba, stand on the heights above Sillery, where in times past there were camps of the Algonquin tribes of Indians, at that time protected by the French from their foes the Iroquois. In connection with this Indian settlement, is the discovery, a short time since, of the remains of the Jesuit Missionary, Emmanuel Masse, to whose memory a monument has been erected by several citizens. A church was built on the spot by the commander of Sillery, in 1677.

Woodfield Cemetery, appertaining to St. Patrick's Church, is a most beautiful spot; at present there are few monuments to be seen, as the acquisition has been but recently made, but in Mount Hermon, the Protestant Cemetery, there are very fine monuments, and among them one in remembrance of a heart-breaking incident, the death of many newly-arrived immigrants by the burning of the steamer "Montreal." Descending to Champlain street, and very near the foot of the Citadel, will be noticed the place where Montgomery fell on the occasion of his assault on the city, on the midnight of 31st December, 1775. Passing through the Lower Town, which is the mercantile locality, there is nothing of great interest to attract attention, except the ancient style of architecture of many of the houses. Very nearly opposite the Quebec Bank is where Arnold erected a barricade, and from which he was dislodged after a severe skirmish, in which the Canadian Volunteers covered themselves with glory.

The drive out by the St. Foy road is one of the most beautiful round the city, and commands a grand view of the St. Charles Valley, the Laurentides, and the St. Lawrence, below Quebec, reaching as far as Cape Tourment; and in fine weather the spray from Montmorency Falls
