

THE WILD ROSE

---

Through the long dreaming summer,
Through the wind and the rain,
This dear little flower
Still blooms on the plain.
And its beauty doth hallow
The place where it grows;
This rose of the Westland,
The fragrant wild rose.