MISSION AT ST. BASIL'S.

Beautiful, lovely, fine, grand, were some of the adjectives applied to the mission now going on at St. Basil's, by the women who last week had the good fortune to be amongst those taking part. The exercises under the direction of Rev. Father Cullen, C.S.S.R., and Rev. Father Mulligan, C.S.S.R., of Saratoga, began on Sunday, the 10th inst., and continued with unremitting zeal throughout the week, ending for the women at 3 p.m. on Sunday last. The attendance both morning and evening was exceptionally fine, and to quote Father Mulligan when speaking from the pulpit on Sunday morning, the women of St. Basil's did "nobly." Even the early hour for the first mass, 5 o'clock, did not prevent a good attendance, and the devotions and exercises went on with always increasing fervor, until the close on Sunday afternoon saw the church packed with the women of the parish, many having to stand. Some from other parishes, too, took part and all voiced the good results of the mission and the good work and zealous labor of the priests who conducted it. At the solemn high mass on Sunday in honor of the Feast of the Seven Dolors, the sermon of Rev. Father Cullen on human respect was his last of a series of practical and stirring addresses of the week. The rendering of the Plain Chant Mass by the choir and the offertory solo, Pro Peccatis, from Rossini's Stabat Mater, sung artistically and impressively by Mr. J. J. M. Landy, added to the solemnity of the occasion. At this mass, the opening of the mission for the men was announced to take place in the evening, and every man in the parish was urged to be present and every woman was urged to assist the men both by prayer and practical effort. The ceremonies in connection with the "closing" for the women were particularly impressive. Rev. Father Mulligan when he addressed the women for the last time, chose as his subject the story of Tobias, enumerating the many mercies that had come to the youth through the mercy of God and the ministrations of the Angel. The speaker showed that during the past week the women of St. Basil's had likewise been favored with many and great mercies, and how like Tobias and David they were now ready to cry out "What shall I render to thee, O Lord? The best that I can, could be made was to give themselves anew into His keeping, as they had done on a former occasion when they were first received into the church. The congregation were asked to rise and renew publicly in the presence of one another, before our Lord, in the Blessed Sacrament on the altar, in the presence of the Trine God, the Blessed Mother of God and the whole court of Heaven, the vows they had made at Baptism. Outside the rain came down slowly and softly, seemingly in harmony with the Feast of the day and the spirit of the time, and within the very atmosphere was pregnant with solemnity as in answer to the earnest appeal "do you renounce Satan" from the black-robed missionary in the pulpit, the answer came full though somewhat tremulously from the standing women, "I do renounce him." Again came the earnest voice, "and all his works," and still again "and all his pomps," and again the many voices answered with one accord, "I do renounce them." The missionary then imparted first his own blessing and then that of the Holy Father, to all present, and while the women still knelt with bowed heads and with the sanctity and silence of the last few moments yet upon them, the voice of the missionary was again heard in humble words of farewell, words asking pardon if in their zeal for souls any harsh word had fallen from their lips, and a request that those to whom they had ministered would remember them in their prayers, and especially might they be remembered when the news of the death of either reached the congregation. Hymns to the Blessed Virgin and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament were then given after which the women dispersed, carrying with them the odor of a well spent week and many resolutions for the future. A good beginning makes a good ending. Though it is too early to speak of the men's mission as a whole, yet its beginning gives warrant for its end. "Magnificent" was the term used by the missionaries in describing the turn-out that marked its commencement, and the close will doubtless fulfill the promise of its beginning. St. Basil's parish has undoubtedly profited to the utmost by the opportunities offered by the mission, and gratitude and praise for the untiring and devoted missionaries are on the lips of all.

INTERESTED IN PUBLIC MATTERS.

Mr. Michael J. Haney, one of Toronto's best known Catholics, is also one of her citizens who is most interested in the general welfare and progress of our city. Mr. Haney is now before the public as one of the four who have taken upon themselves the task of planning a new General Hospital. For the work Mr. Haney has many qualifications, chief amongst which are his executive business ability and his open and generous heart. A prominent contractor and a member of the late firm of Ryan and Haney, he is well known among the business men of the Dominion, and his many, though modestly bestowed, charities have made his name familiar to our educational institutions. Mr. Haey resides in Rosedale and is a member of the Parish of Our Lady of Lourdes. The daily press speaks of Mr. Haney as a "source of strength" to the Hospital Trust, and his office as one of the

DEATH OF MR. THOS. P. COFFEE

The news of the death of Mr. Thos. P. Coffee which occurred in London, England, has caused regret and surprise to his numerous friends and acquaintances in Toronto. Mr. Coffee was managing director of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, and was in Britain in a business connection when attacked by the illness which despite the best of medical care, proved fatal. Mr. Coffee was the son of Irish parents, who settled in Guelph in 1846, and was born on March 17, 1860. His father, Mr. Dennis Coffee, was a successful business man in Guelph, owning and operating quarries near that city. His son, Thomas P., was educated at the parochial and high schools, Guelph, and began the study of law in the office of Col. A. H. Macdonald, and was called to the bar in 1882, afterwards practising in Guelph as the head of the firm of Coffee, Field & Wessler, and later of Coffee & Buckingham. In 1897 he moved to Toronto, accepting the important position of managing director of the Trusts & Guarantee Company. He was also connected with other successful financial institutions. In 1902 Mr. Coffee married Madeleine, daughter of the late Mr. Bernard Hughes. Mrs. Coffee died about eighteen months ago, and there is only one child, an infant daughter, surviving. Deceased was a member of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, holding several prominent offices in the society. He was always interested in athletics and other manly sports. He was a member of the Toronto Lacrosse Club, Toronto Yacht Club, Granite Curling Club, and some other similar clubs. He was a quiet and unassuming nature, kindly in disposition, and a general favorite with his staff and those he came in contact with. He was a Conservative in politics and for ten years was alderman in the city of Guelph. Deceased leaves, besides his father, one of Guelph's oldest residents, two sisters, Mrs. Kehoe of Nebraska, U. S., and Miss Coffee of Guelph, and two brothers, Rev. John Coffee, S. J., of Guelph, and F. C. Coffee of Toronto. The body will be brought to Toronto and the funeral will take place from his late residence, 111 Maple avenue, Rosedale, to Mount Hope Cemetery, where lie the remains of his young wife. Mr. Coffee was a practical Catholic and when in the city a regular attendant at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, where the funeral Mass of Requiem will be said. R.I.P.

DR. WALLACE IMPROVING.

The news of an improvement in the condition of Dr. M. Wallace is everywhere received with a genuine feeling of thankfulness. Late reports of the serious illness of the talented and genial physician had brought sorrow to the hearts of his many personal friends and to the distressed who from time to time have been objects of his comprehensive and unstinted charity. Thousands have doubtless prayed for his recovery, and now the hope that the improvement may be lasting is sincere and widespread.

Stop!—Not Thief, But Subscriber

The undersigned having started eastward on a collecting tour for the "Catholic Register," hereby gives notice to all concerned that during this week he can be seen with the naked eye on some of the beautiful streets of the town of Cobourg. The life of a newspaper collector he has always found to be both pleasant and profitable, and it has often astonished him why there are not more of our ambitious young men engaged in an undertaking so full of bright possibilities. Of the generous manhood of patrons of the Catholic press he has been frequently struck, as they have struck him with full payment of their subscriptions. True, he had to explore cellars and garrets as well as some sequestered haunts, in pursuit of recalcitrant subscribers, and if there was any striking—and he may as well own up, that occasionally he enjoyed a little sport of this character—the weapon used was that magnificent Irish oak stick presented to him by that sterling Irishman and devoted Catholic—Chevalier Heney of Ottawa.

An Expert in Plain Chant

The new Cathedral of Covington, Ky., is the first church in this part of the country to adopt absolutely the recommendations of the "Motu Proprio" of Pope Pius X. on church music. Bishop Maes has engaged Prof. Harold Becket Gibbs, of London, England, one of the foremost authorities on Gregorian music in the world, to take the position of Director of Music and Master of the Singers of the Cathedral. Prof. Gibbs will at once organize a male choir of sixty voices, which will perform the entire liturgical text of the Solemes Method of the Gregorian Chant, of which he has been a student under the world-famous Prior of Solesmes, Dom Andre Mocquereau, for over twelve years, both during the residence of the community in France and now in their exile home, the Isle of Wight, England. As soon as the Plain Chant is on a sound basis Mr. Gibbs will proceed to the Palestrinian and contemporary schools, so highly commended by the Holy Father. The services of a large chorus of ladies will also be utilized for non-liturgical purposes, as well as for illustrating the many lectures he will give. The antiquarian spirit will also be appealed to in the course of lectures on Greek and Byzantine music, which will follow. It is understood that a feature of the Cathedral music, eventually will be congregational singing, as ordered by the Holy Father, who urges that the Gregorian Chant be largely restored in all churches, so that the faithful may again take their part in the Divine Office, as was the case in olden times. The Catholic Telegraph gives a sketch of the career of Prof. Gibbs, which is of wide interest because he is now perhaps the ablest and most experienced exponent of ecclesiastical music in this country. For many years he was a prominent figure at the annual church congresses, where, in company with the leading musicians of England, he gave daily lectures on the various types of ecclesiastical music. His most successful efforts were made at the Bradford Church Congress of 1898, where, by the side of Sir Walter Parratt (Master of the King's Music), Dr. Percy Buck, and other celebrities, he conducted his choir through a series of intricate and elaborate compositions, in Gregorian as well as in Greek tonality. He has also been lecturer at Hampstead Conservatory of Music, which ranks with the Royal College of Music, and at Oxford. He was assistant organist at All Saints' church, London, which the present King and Queen, when Prince and Princess of Wales, attended on Sundays when in town. Consequently he has many times had the honor of performing before their majesties. He had the further distinction of accompanying the services on the occasion of the silver wedding of their Majesties. He was for six years Principal of Nottingham College of Music. He was also Professor of the London Organ School for many years.

Count De Brazza Dead.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The Minister of the Colonies to-day received a cable despatch from the Governor of French West Africa announcing the death of Count de Brazza, the explorer, who had been seriously ill at Dakar. The Minister notified Countess De Brazza, saying that France had lost one of her most glorious citizens. President Loubet also telegraphed his condolences to the Countess. Count De Brazza was returning from a special mission to Central Africa, to investigate charges of cruelty against natives, when he was attacked by acute dysentery, which was aggravated by the fatigues of the voyage, and he became unconscious and died. Pierre Paul Francois Camille De Brazza, Count De Savorgnan, was born on a vessel in the harbor of Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 26, 1852. Educated in the Jesuits' College, Paris, he entered the French navy and was naturalized as a Frenchman in 1874. The following year he was sent to explore the basin of the River Ogoewe, Western Africa, and in 1879 he commanded another expedition for the African Association, and founded the towns of Franceville and Brazzaville. The Government sent him in 1883 to consolidate French authority and he became Commissary-General of the new settlements in 1886. He led still another expedition in 1891, which kept him abroad for six years.
