

SPORTOGRAPHY

DOPING THE MAJORS.
If you put your ear to the ground you may hear the stealthy footsteps of Old Man Trouble, Mr. Ball Player. The old scout will arrive along with war-time attendances and, more especially, the wartime baseball tax, said to be now en route, writes Ed. Wray in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. If magnates see in the charge of 10 per cent. to be levied against their gross receipts for war revenue purposes, the abolishment of profit, their first move to correct this unfavorable change will be retraction.

The only thing that can be cut down notably is the salary list. This can be considerably whittled away if need be. The National league list is 22 men, a figure that could be cut to 18 or less, under stress of circumstance.

Five pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and four outfielders is, of course, the lowest limit under which a major league club could operate. It would have to be favored with the greatest good luck to last out the season at that. By having convertible fielders and pitchers, useful in other departments of play, it could be done. This retrenchment would save National teams six salaries, and American league clubs five.

In other words a $2,500 average, the National league clubs could retrench $15,000 a year and the American $22,500.

But that isn't all, Bo. If the players see the handwriting on the wall blazoning forth the slogan "closed gates," they'll consent to a reduction. Even if they don't consent, conditions are now such that the magnate can coerce them, turning them loose under the ten days' clause.

Perhaps $15,000 more could be saved by stripping the salary list, making a total saving in the National of at least $30,000 and more in the American. That would enable even the league's weakling clubs to get by without loss and even to make a little money.

There is no Dave Fultz and no third league for the players to fall back upon, now. Rather than close their gates no doubt some such plan would be adopted. And the players, rather than be idle, would probably consent—or enlist. In either case Uncle Sam would get his.

They are beginning to turn on the New York Giants. Here is what Lester Rice wrote in the Brooklyn Citizen the day the Cardinals went into the lead in the National league. The mighty have fallen, and upon the rest of those teams vitally concerned in the race, the moral effect of the fall should be stimulating to ambitions and something of a nerve tonic.

Had the giants as was expected by many of their illustrious followers, continued their invincible ways of the early days of the season for perhaps a week or two longer, they would probably have clinched their claims before some of their weaker brothers were properly started.

The west particularly would have offered small opposition to a club that could not be swayed from the winning pathway by Brooklyn or Boston.

It would have accepted with grace what appeared to be fate's inevitable. But now that St. Louis has found its way to the peak, much of the tinsel and the glamor has been stripped from the New Yorkers, and hereafter they will find that more than a swagger and a disdainful air are needed for the purpose of grabbing a pennant rag.

During the winter the cry, "The Giants are unbeatable," was raised, and so fast did it spread that most everybody commenced to accept it as something not to be denied.

Even the Giants believed it so and they grew to be insolent and remarkably conceited.

Some of their followers called it over-confidence and feared the Giants would hold their opponents so cheaply they would lose through carelessness.

But it was simply egotism of an exaggerated sort and now that they have been taken down a peg and it has been clearly shown that they are not invincible, the Giants will be nearly so hard to beat.

The 1917 Cardinal team is beginning to shape up like a faster club than the 1914 aggregation, writes Dick Collins in the St. Louis Republic. Betzel can't play second base like Hug, but Hornsby discounts Butler and Smith or Defate will handle third as well as Beck. Jack Smith fills Magee's place in the outfield. Becher is a far better player than Dolan or Riggert, and Cruise is improving every day. Hug wouldn't trade Gonzales even up for Wingo. The pitching staff is the big problem. Hug had two absolutely reliable men in 1914, Perritt and Sallee. He thinks he has two this year in Ames and Doak. The Cardinal pennant chasers of 1917 commenced to climb much sooner than Brennan's bunch of 1911, or Hug's fighting gang in 1914. These two teams played their best ball in July and August. Poor pitching checked Brennan's flag rush. Roger had a great ball team; Koney, Huggins, Hauser, Mowery, Hagee, Ellis, Oakes, Evans, Harmon, Sallee, Steale, Golden, Geyer, etc., Harmon and Sallee were the only dependable pitchers after September 1.

Hug's scrappy 1914 Cards hung on to the last jump, giving the Boston Braves a nip and tuck battle all the way. That team lined up as follows: Snyder, Wingo, Perritt, Sallee, Gringer, Niehaus, Robinson, Miller, Huggins, Butler, Beck, Magee, Riggert, Cruise and Clay. Dolan, Schuyler Britton's bonus kept this squad in the race from start to finish.

HUSTLERS LOSE AGAIN.
ROYALS WALLON REBELS
Montreal, May 22.—The Royals with the help of Gerner's good pitching and hard hitting, took the final game of the series from Richmond here today 3 to 2. Gerner allowed but four hits, while Stewart allowed thirteen. An error by Damrau was responsible for Richmond's runs. The score:

Richmond . . . 00000200—2 4 2
Montreal . . . 10100222—3 13 3
Batteries—Stewart and Reynolds; Gerner and Howley.
Rochester, May 22.—Providence defeated Rochester yesterday 7 to 2. Both Schultz and Stryker were wild. Bowell drove in three runs with a triple to right centre in the fifth and tripled again in the seventh. The score:

Providence . . . 000050101—7 10 3
Rochester . . . 000000011—2 10 2

MUNICIPAL NURSERY FOR CHILDREN

Southwark, London, has a municipal nursery for the children of munition workers. The children are cared for while the parents are at work in the munition factories.

BOWLING OPENING

The Dufferin Bowling Club will have its formal opening on May 24. The morning will be devoted to practice, and getting acquainted with new members. The match, President vs. Vice-Presidents, will take place at 2 o'clock and a splendid day is looked forward to, as the grounds and surroundings never looked better, and the newly decorated club house added greatly to this attractive place of summer pastime.

The list of players for the day is as follows:

Vice-Presidents
Section No. 1.—G. Breerton, W. F. Wilson, G. C. Lawrence, R. D. Dymond, J. Gardner, I. Moyer, G. Dowling, T. W. Clark, Dr. A. H. Carley, J. D. Ansell, J. H. Minshall, S. A. Jones, Art. Harp, E. M. Buck, J. Rowan, Ed. McKinley, D. H. Coyne.

Section No. 2.—F. C. Harp, E. A. Hughes, S. G. Bull, J. S. Dowling, J. W. Burgess, F. McGregor, H. B. Collins, G. W. Hawken, J. R. Vary, R. A. Whyte, J. Hagey, W. H. Johnson, J. A. Howie, T. Darwen, McLeod, Geo. Kew, P. A. Tipper.

Section No. 3.—W. J. Kieckley, A. A. Lister, O. Morris, T. M. Cowan, A. Sedgwick, F. R. Redditt, J. J. Hurley, F. C. Munn, H. J. Davidson, P. W. Harp, A. Brandon, H. Hinchcliffe, A. Squibb, Geo. Winter, Elgar Higgin, T. W. Henry.

Section No. 4.—R. Gorman, H. R. Stone, A. McAdam, C. Cuthbertson, L. Hussey, R. Elliott, T. H. Miller, N. F. Sheppard, J. H. Bailey, W. L. Silverthorne, S. P. Davies, A. E. Foulds, A. G. Olive, A. Tweedie, H. Hagey, H. C. Annis, W. J. Bailey.

Section No. 5.—J. G. Townsend, F. J. Reid, Dr. Watson, T. Burke, Howell Roy, A. C. Percy, Maj. W. C. James, H. B. Lawkins, J. H. Lake, P. Benedict, C. H. Brown, A. A. McIntyre, R. J. Hopper, L. Watson, C. E. Mills.

Jinks saved his coin for years and years, the dollars earned in sweat and tears. "I have no use for banks," said he; "they never did appeal to me. Why hand my savings to a gent who may elope with every cent, and spend his days, till life is done, where extradition doesn't run? Methinks I have more sense than that; I have some brains beneath my hat. The hard earned dimes for which I grind, I'll hide away where none can find, and when I'm old I'll have a roll that will be soothing to my soul." And so, in nooks and crannies, then, he hid away the iron men. In corners underneath the stairs, and in old tables, cots and chairs, he stored away the good long green, and muttered oft, with mind serene, "The banks won't get my precious marks—'fear those money lending sharks!" And thus he saved till he waxed old; and then one morning, fair but cold, with northeast winds and signs of snow, the fire fiend came and laid him low. His shack was burned, with all it held, and Jinks just stood around and yelled. He'd lost his all in wintry age; we put him in a padded cage, and there, with other bachelors, he still remains and curses banks.

GIANTS BACK ON TOP; CUBS DROP

Philadelphia Moves Up To Second Place in National League

ST. LOUIS AGAIN WINS
Braves Defeated By Matty's Reds in Close Encounter

New York, May 21.—New York went back into first place by defeating Pittsburgh here today in the third game of the series by a score of 4 to 2. Tesreau held the visitors to two hits for eight innings, but Pittsburgh made a strong finish, scoring two runs in the ninth on a double, two singles and a force play. The score:

Pittsburg . . . 10000002—3 5 1
New York . . . 12000100—4 9 2
Batteries—Jacobs, Miller and Fletcher; Tesreau and McCarthy.

Chicago not only lost today's game to Philadelphia, 4 to 3, but also dropped from first to third place in the National League race, while Philadelphia moved up to second place. The home team won the game in the second inning by making five successive singles off Douglas and a single off Prendergast, the rally netting four runs. The score:

Chicago . . . 010000110—3 8 0
Philadelphia . . . 04000000—4 9 0
Batteries—Douglas, Prendergast, Demaree and Wilson; Rixey and Killifer.

At Brooklyn
St. Louis bunched four hits on top of two errors in the second inning today, scoring four runs off Cheney enough to win, as Meadows pitched all right. The score was 6 to 2. Marquard who relieved Cheney, was touched for five hits and two runs, one of the latter being a home run by Fred Smith. The score:

R.H.E.
St. Louis . . . 040100100—6 10 1
Brooklyn . . . 10010000—2 7 2
Batteries—Meadows and Gonzalez; Cheney, Marquard, Bell and O. Miller.

At Boston
Griffiths sacrifice fly to right field, with the bases full and one out in the tenth, allowed Scott, to score today with the run that won for Cincinnati 2 to 1. Chase was safe in the sixth on Fitzpatrick's single with two out, and scored on Griffiths' double. Without singled in the seventh, took third on Konetchy's single, and scored to Smith's sacrifice fly to Thorpe. Cincinnati gave Schneider remarkable support. The score:

Cincinnati . . . 0000010001—2 6 0
Boston . . . 0000001000—1 6 3

Buy War Bonds
Chicago, May 22.—The American League has decided upon the immediate subscription of $100,000 for Liberty bonds. President Johnson announced yesterday. Eight of the clubs will subscribe $12,500 each.

President Johnson also announced that the league would donate the proceeds of the game to be played in New York June 10th, to the first American Engineering Corps sent to France. He estimated that the receipts would be between $10,000 and $12,000.

Gray Outfielder Hurt
Aurora, Ill., May 22.—John Murphy, an outfielder under orders to report to the Providence club of the International League to-day, was suffering from a broken collar bone, sustained in a semi-professional game when he ran into a flag pole. Physicians expressed doubt of his chance to play again this season.

The liquor interests of the United States are making a strong fight against legislation forbidding, during the war, the use of cereals or grain in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, as approved by the Senate in an amendment to the Espionage Bill. When the amendment reaches the House a strong fight will be made to kill it.

To The Editor of The Courier

A TRIBUTE TO THE BRANTFORD PATRIOTIC SOCIETY
Brantford, May 18, 1917.
To the Editor Brantford Courier, Brantford, Ont.

Dear Sir:
Kindly allow me to draw your attention to the real work that is being done by the Patriotic Society of Brantford.

I was an Imperial soldier on Reserve at the outbreak of war—had my wife and child in U. S. A. and was on business in London. I served two years and 49 days with the colors during the present conflict, was wounded, buried alive and gassed, was discharged on the 18th of November, 1916.

Owing to some delay at the War Office, my pension, etc., has not yet been granted. They were also some trouble about my wife's separation allowance. I received no assistance and no help of any kind until late brought me to the City of Brantford, where I met Mr. McDonald, Secretary of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, who presented my case to the Patriotic Fund and they have undertaken to not only clothe and care for me but also defray my expenses home to Helmetta, N. J., beside caring for me on the way down. This is the only assistance I have received since my discharge from the Army. They have also undertaken to see that the matter of my pension, etc., is settled by the authorities.

I may mention that I was born in the service and three, perhaps four, brothers, have given up their lives. I cannot express how good it feels to know that there are some who appreciate the risk us chaps have taken. Through the kindness of this Society I feel indebted to the City of Brantford and my visit will ever remain a pleasant memory.

I am, Sir,
Yours Respectfully,
Francis P. O'Carroll

FOOD PRODUCTION VITAL TO VICTORY

Increased Help Upon Farms Causes Opening of Employment Bureau

The progress made by the reorganization of Resources Committee in the general campaign which is being pressed by the provincial Government to increase food production, is reflected in a special circular issued by the committee and which is practically an inventory of the machinery which the committee has set in motion to achieve their objective. The committee aims first to increase production on the farm by the use of methods which involve little or no extra labor. This is being done by facilitating the use of tractor-implements, loaned through the department of agriculture, and the spread of knowledge of more intensive agricultural methods.

The problems of increased acreage and decreased labor facilities are coupled together in the sum of the committee's efforts, and they now have completed a labor organization which, drawing from High Schools, colleges, offices and factories, should provide a sufficiency of casual labor during the growing season to give a reasonably effective impetus towards greater food production within the province. Employment bureaus have been opened in Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and London, and each of the 45 district representatives of the Department of Agriculture is acting as agent for the large labor exchange which is under the charge of Dr. W. A. Riddell, superintendent of the Trades and Labor branch of the Department of Public Works.

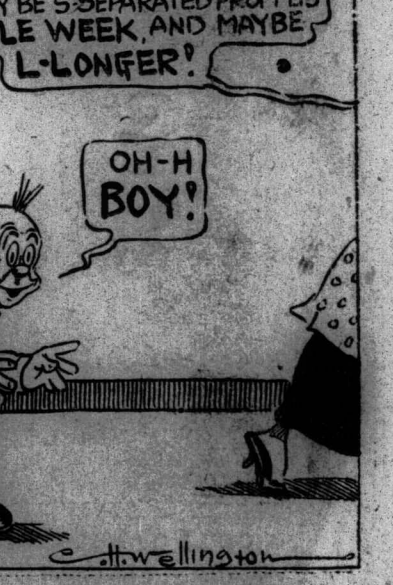

The sympathetic co-operation of the farmer, in the crisis of the situation. To gain this, the committee is endeavoring, through the district representatives of the Department of Agriculture and through practical farmers throughout the province, to impress upon the farmers the great fact that the need of the nation calls for service on the land this year, of such quality as shall show that the men on the farms are back of the men at arms.
