Sad Death At Avonport

On Monday afternoon Avonport was deeply stirred by a distressing and fatal accident. Ella the seven year old daughter of John Selby, section foreman of the D. A. R., came home from school and went out doors to play with other children. They were burning the grass near the station when the little girl's clothing took fire. She ran for home and before any grown up help could extinguish the fire she had sustained such injuries that she died that night. The little girl was a very bright child and though suffering intensely she was fully conscious until relieved by death from her pains. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all in their affliction, only one child remains to them.

A Valuable Booklet

The season has arrived when house owners are thinking about the question of painting and we would suggest to those of our readers who have not yet bought their supply of ready mixed paints that they call at the store of T. P. Calkin & Son and secure a copy of a most instructive and interesting booklet entitled "PAINTING? Get endurance Truths First." The argument in this booklet about the question of paint quality is one of the most convincing that we have ever read.
