Surveys For Two Years.

Montreal, Dec. 1.—Arthur St. Laurent, engineer in charge of the Georgian Bay Ship Canal surveys, who was here yesterday, says the 425 miles have been divided into the Mississippi, the Ottawa and Montreal districts, and each district sub-divided into three sections, in all, with 145 men, and the surveys will take two years, but Mr. St. Laurent says that no insurmountable engineering difficulties will be encountered.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR CROUP.

(From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.)

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croup cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by All Druggists.

Licensed Crime.

GAINED FORTY POUNDS IN THIRTY DAYS.

For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no benefit from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them. Inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. We have a good trade on the Tablets—Holley Bros., Merchants, Long Branch, Mo. For sale by All Druggists.

EAST AND WEST IDEALS.

Chinese Official States Why Chinese Ask to Be Let Alone.

Twice within half a decade the spectacle has been presented of a primitive civilization rebelling against the intrusion of modern methods of thought and action. Two Boers in 1899 fought primarily for their religion and what it stands for in their social development. The Chinese arose in 1900 to expel innovators upon time honored customs and ideals. Pertinent to the Chinese question is the argument of a Chinese official residing in England during the Boxer war. It is significant as an eastern view of the west. The writer says:

"Our civilization is the oldest in the world. It does not follow that it is the best, but neither, I submit, does it follow that it is the worst. On the contrary, such antiquity is, at any rate, a proof that our institutions have guaranteed to us a stability for which we search in vain among the nations of Europe. But not only is our civilization stable; it embodies, as we think, a moral order, while in yours we detect only an economic chaos. Whether your religion be better than ours I do not at present dispute, but it is certain that it has less influence on your society. You profess Christianity, but your civilization has never been Christian, whereas ours is Confucian through and through. But to say that it is Confucian is to say that it is moral, or, at least, that moral relations are those which it primarily contemplates, whereas with you (as we see to us) economic relations come first, and upon these you endeavor afterward to graft as much morality as they will admit."

The Chinese and English views of the family are then compared, in the one case the child being trained to individualism, in the latter to socialness and competition, and in the other to continue lifelong in the relations to which he is born. The Chinese look first to society, then to the individual. As a man begins so he ends, a member of his family group, and to this condition the whole theory and practice of his life conform. He is taught to worship his ancestors, to honor and obey his parents, and to prepare himself at an early age for the duties of husband and father. Says the writer:

"No man in China is isolated save by his own fault. If it is not so easy for him to grow rich as with you, neither is it so easy for him to starve; if he has not the motive to compete, neither has he the temptation to cheat and oppress. Free at once from the torment and the apprehension of distress, he has leisure to spare from the acquisition of the means of living for life itself. He has both the instinct and the opportunity to appreciate the gifts of nature, to cultivate manners and to enter into humane and disinterested relations with his fellows. The result is a type which we cannot but regard as superior, both morally and aesthetically, to the great bulk of your own citizens of Europe. Admitting that we are not what you call a progressive people, we yet perceive that progress may be bought too dear. We prefer our own moral to your material advantages, and we are determined to cling to institutions which, we believe, insure us the former even at the risk of excluding ourselves from the latter."

In the opinion of this writer western people subordinate life to wealth. He says: "They are less cheerful, less contented, less industrious, less law-abiding; their occupations are more unhealthy both for body and mind; they are crowded into cities and factories, divorced from nature and the ownership of the soil."

As to Government in China, we read here:

"You can hardly realize the condition of a people that are able almost wholly to dispense with it. Yet such is our case."

"Government with us is based on the consent of the people to a degree which you in the west can hardly understand, much less imitate."

"In China Government is neither arbitrary nor indispensable. Destroy all our authorities, central and provincial, and our life will proceed very much as before. The law we obey is the law of our own nature. Come what may, the family remains, with all that involves; the attitude of the mind remains; the spirit of order, industry and thrift."

Confucianism, according to this writer, is the exponent of the ideal of work. "The duty of man is to labor, and primarily to labor on the soil is a fundamental postulate of our religion; hence the worship of Mother Earth, the source of all increase; hence the worship of heaven, the giver of light and rain."

Pictures of the Eyes.

A writer in the Connoisseur thinks that the fashion of painting the eyes in miniature is worth reviving. It affords opportunity for much skill, and an imitation of an eye, he says, is a delightful treasure to possess, and to cherish as a memorial of the person in whose beauty it was once a distinguishing feature. Richard Cosway is believed to have been the artist who introduced the idea of painting the eyes, and it is said that the first work he executed was a commission from Mrs. Fitzherbert to paint her right eye as a present for the Prince Regent. In return for this gift the Prince had his eye painted and set into a ring, giving it as a birthday gift to Mrs. Fitzherbert.

Not Necessary.

Mother—I understand Mr. Huggard is to call upon you again this evening?

Ethel—Of course, mamma. We're engaged.

Mother—What! Don't I tell you not to give that young man any encouragement at all?

Ethel—Yes, mamma, but he didn't need any encouragement.

Envy.

Maud—I envy the Japanese army. Lillian—Why?

Maud—They get mixed up in so many engagements, you know.

MRS. BRADLEY CAN EAT AND SLEEP

She Was Rescued From A Terrible Condition by Dodd's Kidney Pills And Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I am thankful to say I can eat most anything, and can sleep comfortably." These are the words of Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, D'gby Co., N. S., but only those who know Mrs. Bradley's previous condition can appreciate all those words mean, or how much she owes to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills. Let Mrs. Bradley tell of it herself.

"I had Dyspepsia for over nine years," she says, "I tried the best doctors and never got relief. I had to starve myself from eating. I had given up all hope of ever having any help. No tongue can tell what I suffered. Six boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six of Dodd's Kidney Pills completely restored my health."

If Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure extreme cases of Dyspepsia like that of Mrs. Bradley, how much more easily will they cure your indigestion?

BEYOND ALL DESCRIPTION.

Was the experience of Mrs. E. V. Carter, of Danville, had with rheumatism, which resisted everything till Nerviline was tried, and it cured. "The only relief I ever got was from rubbing on Nerviline," writes Mrs. Carter. "It penetrated to the very core of the pain and eased my suffering after a few applications. I have used many rheumatic remedies, but none had the soothing, pain subduing power of Nerviline, which I recommend highly." Try Nerviline yourself. Good for internal use and excellent to rub on Price 25c.

High aims form high characters, and great objects bring out great minds.

"Take care of the pennies and the pounds will take care of themselves." Large things are but an aggregation of small things. If we take care of the small things we are in effect taking care of the large things which the small things combine to make.

Take care of what you eat, when you eat, and how you eat, and your stomach will take care of itself. But who takes care of such trivial things? That is why, some day, the majority of people have to take care of the stomach. When that day comes, there is no aid so effective in undoing the results of past carelessness as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, and restores the organs of digestion and nutrition to a condition of healthy activity. It cures biliousness, heartburn, flatulence, indigestion, palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities and a score of other ailments which are but one symptom of disorder in the stomach and its allied organs.

FAST FORCING FORWARD.

Idaho is one of the best watered states in America. People are moving there because hot winds and destructive storms are unknown and because its matchless climate generates physical and mental vigor and guarantees good health. Idaho has rapidly grown in popularity during the past five years and settlers in its irrigated valleys have met with more than ordinary success. This fact has induced a large influx of eastern capital in the state, with the result that its growth has been rapid. If you have in mind a change for the general improvement of your condition in life, or if you are seeking a climate beneficial to health, Idaho will meet these requirements. The easiest—in fact the only direct route to Idaho points is via the Union Pacific. This road runs two trains daily from Chicago and Kansas City to all points in Idaho, Montana and the great Northwest. For full particulars and descriptive information inquire of J. O. Goodsell, T. P. A., 14 James Building, Toronto, Canada; F. B. Choate, G. A., 122 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.
