Spiritual Reading

The general intention of the Apostleship of Prayer for this month is Spiritual Reading.

"The sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God."

On this text Rev. Walter Elliott, C. S. P., writes as follows:

The Word of God here referred to, my brethren, is both spoken and written, for we call hearing a sermon hearing the word of God; and the Holy Scriptures are God's word by excellence—whose power is that of a sword, "a living and effectual sword, reaching unto the division of the soul and the spirit."

*** A discernor of the thoughts and interests of the heart" (Heb. iv. 12)

Holy Church insists on our hearing this divine book—read every Sunday at Mass. And for the reading of the New Testament daily, our Holy Father, the Pope, grants a plenary indulgence. That little book should be known by heart by every one of us, at least the four Gospels. I had rather know that divine narrative by rote than all the tables of the arithmetic. Mark it as a sign of predestination to eternal life if you are habituated to so much as fifteen minutes daily reading of this supreme book of all literature, filled as it is with the maxims of a good life, a book whose author is God and whose eloquence is the charm of all devout souls. Besides the Scriptures, there is a vast world of holy literature. The writings of the saints and of saintly men and women are, according to St. Augustine, "letters from Paradise"—letters from God, news of God and of His heroes. Why this is heavenly beatitude by anticipation.

A Help For Prayer.

The Christian child has his catechism at his finger tips, which trains him to the main principles and practices of his faith. Should not the grown-up Christian have his manuals of proficiency equally well possessed? They are the four Gospels. Some complain that they are wholly distracted by their prayers, the soul's thoughts being far off from the tongue's utterance. But the soul is often better served by the eye than by the tongue. No man can easily read Christ without praying to Him. An ideal prayer is that of reading the whole Bible, when the whole man is a living petition to God, the hand grasping the words, the voice proclaiming them, and the mind sending them upwards to the mercy seat, "an oblation and an odor of sweetness in the sight of the most High" (Eccles. xxxv. 8).

Saintly Companions.

Consider the benefits of reading about the saints. It is a wonderful comfort to have good company in the journey of life; and it is also a necessary corrective of our defects, especially of those which grow at the root of such essential virtues as charity and chastity. We are constantly rent asunder by contrary emotions. We no sooner flit into a peaceful harbor, free at last from the storms of passion and the pirates of the high seas; than we are beset by land pirates of evil examples, and fooled by the delusions of the world; fretfulness and cowardice within and fraudulent claimants of our love without. But when even a single one of our favorite saints sounds the maxims of the Gospel in our souls, we are reassured. We are so feeble-natured that the invitations of Christ's love need their echoes in the voices of His and our dearest friends, if they would catch and hold our attention. All heaven seems sometimes necessary to draw us upward towards God. The efficacy of religious attractions depends often on his more recollected moments—familiar knowledge of their writings, our mind a picture gallery of their heroic deeds. When one has read so much about holy personages that he can speak of them with a feeling of confidence as: My saints, my angels, he is mingling affectionately and very profitably among Christ's intimates. Sensible and convincing proofs of their protection; their guidance in even particular matters of daily care and responsibility will not long be wanting to him who is fond of reading about them.

If one is working at a delicate task of painting or embroidery, and another comes between him and the window, he says: "You are standing in my light." In this case sunshine is private property—"my light." But if anyone were himself made of light, then if he stands in "our light" it is all the better for us. This is our Saviour in His divine generation called by Holy Church "Light of light," and St. John says of Him: "In Him was life, and the life was the light of men" (John i. 9). He both gives human light to us and He transmits to us that of the Godhead, which shines upon us in and through Him. Now this marvelous enlightenment of our soul, our Lord shares with His saints

To Suffer From Headaches

MAKES LIFE MISERABLE.

It takes a person who has had and is subject to headache to describe the suffering which attends it. The dull throbbing, the intense pain, sometimes in one part of the head, sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something amiss with the system. The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches the seat of the trouble is due to its success in relieving and permanently curing the cause of the headache.

Mrs. Anderson, 415 15th Ave. East, Calgary, Alta., writes: "For three years I was troubled all the time with sick headaches, and suffered also with constipation, and kept breaking out in pimples and sores on my face. I tried everything but I just a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters. I took two bottles, and my skin is as clean and pure as a baby's, and I have never been troubled with the headache since."

"Waiter," said one of them, "is a pineapple a fruit or is it a vegetable?"

"It's neither, gentlemen; a pineapple is a hextra!"—Harper's Weekly.

COULD NOT STRAIGHTEN UP For Lame Back.

Women are coming to understand that weak, lame, and aching backs from which they suffer are due to wrong action of the kidneys.

The kidneys are overtaxed—given more work than they can do—and the back aches and pains it is almost impossible to do her housework, for every move and turn means pain.

On the first sign of any weakness in the back Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken, and this do away with suffering from kidney trouble.

Mrs. A. J. Lalonde, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"I am writing to tell you what a wonderful cure Doan's Kidney Pills did for me. I was suffering with a lame back, and for about seven days could hardly straighten up for the pain. I had used quite a few of other kinds of pills, and received no relief. Just then my sister came and told me about Doan's Kidney Pills, and what they had done for her, so I decided to try them. I used three boxes, and I am completely cured, and I do not hesitate to recommend them."

Price, 50c. per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
