

Dunlop.

Miss Sarah Penock, of Bayfield road, has been visiting here. A TRAMP, INDEED.—Monday of last week saw a strange specimen of the genus tramp in our midst. He was apparently hale and hearty, about fifty years of age, but a victim of intemperance. Twenty-four years ago he had imbibed so freely that he had lain out one winter's night, the result being that both feet were so badly frozen that amputation a few inches above the ankle became necessary. Science had, however, found a substitute for his pedic extremities, and by the aid of tin blocks or plates fixed to the stumps he had been enabled to move about and earn a living. He had done some work this winter sawing cordwood near Port Elgin, and was now making his way toward Petrolia. On the way down he was cared for by Capt. A. Bogie and W. Strachan, the latter giving him a night's lodging. By removing one of the tin blocks he made one leg shorter than the other, and by walking with the leg in the furrow made by the other runner, and the short leg in the ridge he priginated slowly but surely on his way, aided by a stout staff. Our general admitted that him to town, and made efforts to get him a pass by rail, but the mayor could not grant it. The stranger declined to be a lodger in the goal until the warm weather set in. He was shown the Bayfield road, and a good deal of a steady resolute manner in his determination to depend on the charity of the farmers by the way rather than become an inmate of the goal. He refused to give his name, and some of those who met him are anxious to learn more of him, if any of the Bruce papers can give the desired information.

A Huron Salvationist.

The last copy of the Huron Cry has the following notice of an old Huronic and former resident of Goderich: Edward Van Bredon is the second son of Col. Van Bredon of the celebrated Waterloo family, his ancestors were all military men of superior rank in the Dutch and French armies. He was born in Montreal on the 24th May, 1812, during the time of its occupation by the Great Napoleon and was an infant in that city at the time of its destruction and the consequent disastrous retreat of that renowned Emperor. In 1819 he left Amsterdam for the United States, and in 1827 removed to Canada. He settled at once in his present location, and at that time Huron was a wilderness. He is the only survivor of the band of pioneers who first opened the Queen's Bush, the side of which to-day is covered by prosperous towns and villages and many smiling homesteads. He drove the first team from Goderich to Galt in 1828, and being appointed perambulating mail carrier, he used to tramp over the country with the mail bag, of which he carried the key, and delivered the mails to the various homesteads on his route; and when on his appointment he carried the first mail in that district there were only three white settlers on his route from Goderich to Galt, a distance of some 60 or 70 miles. When he first squatted upon the site of the present flourishing town of Goderich, 500 Indians in full war paint, bearing war on the party, but they were purchased peace with a few trinkets, but as he says, "never thought of the souls of these poor savages, or of their leaving Salvation for those latter-day cranks, called the Salvation Army, in whose ranks I through God's mercy, am to-day a soldier." He goes on to say, "the first Presbyterian church in Huron, was built at Harpurville, I drove the scattered inhabitants eight miles to church on Sunday, carrying with us folder for our horses. In those days there were no grand hotels at which to refresh ourselves as now, anywhere than there were no cushioned pews in church, or fiery for fashionable christians. I also assisted in teaching school with Dr. Scott, of Goderich, who was medical man and school master combined, being the only one in the county of Huron, but he was of such intemperate habits that we had to dissolve partnership. I next attended the Methodist church in Goderich, and afterwards the Episcopal Church in Clinton.

Literary Notices.

The Canadian Methodist Magazine for March 1887. Price $2 a year; $1 for six months 20 cents per number. The leading article in this number is one on Edinburgh and its memories. The numerous engravings of the picturesque old town are of special interest. Lady Brassey grows enthusiastic over the lovely scenery of the West Indies, the engravings of which are very fine; as are also those of the magnificent scenery of the Rocky Mountains, accompanying the Editor's "Across the Continent." The striking paper by Dr. Clark, Superintendent of the Toronto Asylum for the Insane, on "Half-hours in a Lunatic Asylum," with specimens of "lunatic literature," will attract much attention. General Superintendent Dr. Williams contributes another admirable paper on Minor Forts of Methuen, and T. Bowman Stephenson, LL.D., one on Aspects of Social Life at the Antipodes. A number of other papers and a strongly-written story, editorial notes on the fishery question, etc., make up a capital number. Something About Watches. Mr Morgan has in his collection a gold watch in the shape of an acorn, which discharged a diminutive wheel lock pistol at a certain hour. The Earl of Stamford possessed a small egg shaped watch, the cases cut out of jacinths and the case set round with priceless diamonds on an annealed border. The earliest watch known was called the "Nuremberg Egg." The odd name given to these watches was due partly to the city where they were made, and partly their shape, which resembled an egg. A curious looking watch, believed to be of the time of Queen Elizabeth, and now in the hands of Fitzgibbon's collection, is in the form of a silver duck. The feathers are chased on the silver. The dial plate is encircled with a gilt ornamental design of floriated scrolls and well executed angels' heads. The wheels work on small rubbers.

COUNTY NOTES.

Local News From Many Sources.

Items from all Parts of Huron get on the News-Exchange. E. Chesser has sold his 40 acre farm in Goderich township, near Clinton, to Thomas Churchill, who owns the adjoining property, for the sum of $8,025. Mr Chesser intends to move to Toronto. The new Presbyterian church, Hensall, is to be opened for Divine service on the 6th of March. The church is fine one and reflects credit on all connected with it. Mr J. C. Klausin has the contract of upholstering the seats. Gideon P. Rie, Huron's heavy-weight athlete, has been distinguishing himself at athletics in the Sunny South. At a tournament in Livermore, California, he carried over, thing before him and defeated Carroll, the "Brooklyn Giant," in every contest. Mr L. Hunter, of Uxborne, has sold the fine Canadian heavy draught entire colt which he purchased some time ago from Mrs Mustard, of Brucefield, to an American buyer for the sum of $300. This colt was just 29 months old, and weighed the day it was sold 1,855 lbs. This is ahead of many imported horses of the same age. SCOTT ACT CASE.—Last week, Mr Milne, of the Queen's hotel, was summoned before the mayor, on information laid by inspector Paisley, for violating the Scott Act, a quantity of liquor also being seized. The offence was clearly proven and the statutory fine of $50 imposed, but the mayor reserved the decision as to the disposal of the liquor until Wednesday when he decided that it should be destroyed.—Clinton News.

Mr. Wm. Logan, sr., one of Huron's early pioneers passed away on Tuesday last at the ripe age of 90 years. Since the death of her aged partner who died a few years ago, she lived with her son, Rev. John Logan, East Thbury. Her remains were brought to her grand daughter, Mrs Wm. Eider, Hensall, on Wednesday, and buried on Thursday morning in the Rodgerville burial ground. Mr A. Thompson, of Exeter, was severely kicked by his horse last Saturday. It appears he was about to start for home when he found that the animal was ill. He called Dr MacArthur, who administered a dose of medicine and left another to be given in an hour, which Mr Thompson attempted to administer, when the struggling beast kicked him in the face, inflicting a fearful gash, which he bled profusely. From the fact that he was so far from the animal as to escape the full force of the blow he owes his life. He was able to start for home the following day.

A Tribute to M. C. Cameron.

Every Reformer, not only in Huron, but in Ontario, who leans with regard to the defeat of that sturdy champion of the people's rights, Mr M. C. Cameron. The old war horse has fought many hard battles and won many glorious victories, but defeat is something new to him. We are assured, however, that the defeat is only temporary and that the old war horse will be seen in the arena of the Courts. He had a hard and bitter fight. Every weapon, fair and foul, was unsparringly used against him, but, despite the efforts of his opponents, he would have been safe but for the interference, caused no doubt by the uncertainty of some of his friends. We hope that all such have now learned a lesson they will not soon forget, and that they will be led to severely repent of their folly.

Council adjourned to meet again first Monday in April. JAMES PATTON, Clerk.

While we have reason to feel pleased with the large gains secured by the Liberals as a whole, we are sorry to see Mr M. C. Cameron, of West Huron, defeated by 27 votes. Mr Cameron is one of the ablest parliamentarians in the Dominion and his defeat was the especial object of the whole Conservative party. But Mr Cameron is not defeated, and even should he not succeed in sitting for West Huron in the next parliament he will certainly have another constituency placed at his disposal.—Luckin's Sentinel.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Events Occurring at the U. S. Capitol.

The Dependent Pension Bill—Illness of Hon. S. S. Cox—Trouble all Along the Line. From our Special Correspondent. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23rd, 1887. The sensation of the week at the Capitol was the attempt and failure in the House of Representatives to pass the Dependent Pension bill over the President's veto. Crowds of spectators filled the galleries, and the debate, which was quite interesting, at times became exciting by interruptions, personalities and stinging retorts. There was much noise and confusion, and the scenes upon the floor were such as have not, within a long while, been witnessed there. Three hundred members were present at the time the vote was taken, and 290 affirmative votes were therefore necessary to pass the bill over the veto. But the final vote was 195 yeas to 125 nays, which showed that 29 Democrats changed their votes since the bill originally passed. To what extent this veto by the President and the support given him by the House will enter as elements into the great political campaigns of the coming year cannot be clearly predicted, but that these points will be worked for all they are worth by the leaders of the Republican party admits of little doubt. It was a right courageous act on the part of the President to veto this bill, knowing the hostile sentiment that would arise against him throughout the country. It is conceded that the Democrats also who first voted for the measure and then de-crowded to sustain the President, exhibited a good deal of courage, although it will be charged in the case of some of the Northern members who changed their votes that their motives were not wholly disinterested. Hon. S. S. Cox, the New York Congressman, who has been quiet all over since New Year, left his room for the first time to be driven to the Capitol so that he might vote to sustain the President's veto. He looked wan and worn and required the aid of a strong cane to get to the floor. He entered the Hall quietly and almost unnoticed, so that when his name was announced in the roll-call and his voice responded "No," everybody looked up in surprise. In a moment he was surrounded by his colleagues who were disposed to subject him to a more vigorous handling than his weak condition justified. President Cleveland was the first to learn that the Pension bill had been defeated. Before the roll call had been completed Speaker Carlisle handed a small piece of paper to his clerk who was writing, and who rushed immediately to the telegraph office in the corridor. Immediately the instrument was ticking, and before the reading clerk had finished the list, and before the vote had been announced in the House, the President in the Executive Mansion knew the result of the day's work. Work is accumulating with great rapidity upon the President's hands as the Congressional session draws to a close. He remains at his desk long into the night examining bills and transacting other business. His determination last week to resign had been deferred the last hours to hurriedly sign bills which he had not been permitted to examine, gave great satisfaction then, and he will doubtless adhere to the same course at the approaching adjournment. The best men in Congress of both sides thoroughly approved of his resolve not to resign laws by affixing his name to measures which he had had no chance to learn anything about. The President has said in the last few days that he did not see any special necessity for calling an extra session of the adjournment of the Senate. Some of the members of the Senate, however, who he may ask the Senate, which is a permanently organized body, to remain in session beyond the fourth of March. There are some important nominations which he wants to submit, but which he is not sure he will have to decide upon before the end of this session. Among them are the Interstate Commerce Commission and those for Secretary of the Treasury and United States Treasurer. The question has arisen as to the President's power to appoint the Interstate Commerce Commissioners after the adjournment of the Senate. Some of the senators argue that the Constitution does not empower the Executive to appoint, during vacation, to a newly created office which is to be filled by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Others hold that there is no difference between filling a new office and a vacancy that may occur during a vacation of the Senate, and that there are decisions by Attorney Generals covering the point.

Tory Resolutions. Malcolm Colin Cameron, whom Ruf. fanly assailants fondly call "Ananias,"—Toronto Telegram (Ind.). On Tuesday a six-year-old daughter of John Duren, hotelkeeper, Shanawville was drowned in the river while coasting with her brother. It is understood in London that Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick will temporarily succeed Sir Charles Tupper as High Commissioner, to give place in turn to Sir John Macdonald when the latter is in a position to hand over the leadership of the party to Sir Charles.

The ninetieth anniversary of the birth of Emperor William of Germany, which falls on March 22, will be observed with unusual ceremony by the Austrian Court. A state dinner will be given at Vienna in honor of the event, and the entire staff of the German Embassy will be invited to attend. Mr. Labouchere writes to the New York World:—"I bear that Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice, brother of the Marquis of Lansdowne, who is now residing at Rowood, intends to re-enter the House of Commons at the first opportunity, having quite recovered his health. I understand he is now converted to the Home Rule doctrine, so he will figure as a supporter of Mr Gladstone."

WEST HURON.

Opinions of the Press on the Defeat of Mr. Cameron.

TONY 'FUN.' We are informed that the patriotic young Tories of London have forwarded a coffin to Mr M. C. Cameron, of Goderich. We dare say that this piece of ruffianism is regarded by its authors as a severe condemnation of Mr Cameron's political conduct, but Mr Cameron will not fail to consider who the authors of this insult are, and will treat it with the contemptuous indifference it deserves. If Mr Cameron had not made himself a terror to evil doers, he would not have been so hated by the leaders of the Tory party. We don't suppose the parties who perpetrated the "joke" are capable of dislike on their own account any more than so many others. They merely reflect the feelings of those who have thriven by political fraud and political corruption. It is, we dare say, a source of gratification to Mr Cameron to know that every-boddy in the country dislikes him, and is ready to exhibit that dislike after his own idiotic fashion.—London Advertiser. THE CONTEST IN CLINTON. All day Tuesday the politicians were very active, a great many rigs were brought into requisition and the streets presented a very lively appearance. Both sides worked hard, but early in the day it was noticeable that very unfair and improper means were resorted to by the Conservatives. Some laboring men were shamefully intimidated by their employers, others were sent away out of town, and still others by the payment of a large day's wage, were coaxed not to vote. Two or three cases of direct bribery have been brought to light. In one a man was paid $10 for a bag of potatoes, to be delivered next fall, and in another a voter received $4 for a day's work for which he was ordinarily paid 75 cents. In a third case a man was awarded the sum of $100 for wearing these very men who were bribed, so that under dread of a charge of perjury they could not declare how they had been tampered with. These things will be brought to light in good time, and much more that at present need not be referred to.—New Era. One of the good men who fell before the enemy on Tuesday was M. C. Cameron, of West Huron, who was defeated by 27. The greatest exertions were made to defeat him. The whole strength of the Government was thrown against him, because of his fearless exposure of the corruption of the Government and the hoodling of its supporters.—St. Marys Argus. The Tories are making a great row over Mr M. C. Cameron being defeated in West Huron. They have nothing to crow about. West Huron was a Tory seat by the gerrymander five years ago, and Mr Cameron went in and carried it, against a large Conservative majority to begin with, by a majority of 29. Now that he has lost the seat by a small majority, it can only be said that he has been defeated in a Conservative constituency made to order by Sir John.—Mitchell Recorder. London Advertiser: Three good men were defeated in the West in the persons of Messrs. D. M. Cameron, M. C. Cameron and J. H. Fairbanks. Their loss in the House will be seriously felt, and all lovers of good and honest government must regret their defeat.

A SMALL DOG.—Mr David Martin of Guelph, writes to the World as follows:—"I see in your issue of Saturday, Feb. 12, that the smallest dog in the world died in Boston. Now I own a bitch 10 months old—and she is as lively a little thing as anyone ever saw—that weighs 1 lb. 5 oz., lighter than they boast about. She will never be any larger and is perfect."

The Rev. Joseph Cook lately said of Henry Ward Beecher in Boston: "One almost thinks he would have lived longer if he had died earlier."

THE TORIES CLAIM ONE. Judging by the telegram sent by Mr Simon X. Cimon, member elect for Charlottetown, to De Justice, he will not be found in Parliament to fall in with the Tories' classification as a supporter of the Government. He says:—"The candidate of the opposition, representing Sir A. P. Coran, practised oration on a large scale. The new bills of the Union Bank are now extensively circulated in the county."—Montreal Post. The London papers are now receiving the minutiae of the Tory election. Prof. Youmans, just deceased, at one time was entirely deprived of his eyesight, and he invented a machine, as did Prescott, the historian, which enabled him to write. Baring Brothers, of London, cleared $5,000,000 on the job of floating Guinness's Stout company, and were so pleased that they gave on Christmas a year's salary to each of their employees. Mr G. G. Charteris, the Treasurer of Kent county, died the other day. He had been a resident of Canada over 40 years, held the Treasurership over 30 years, and was the second Mayor of Chatham.
