SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS.

Since Fitzsimmons has been matched to fight O'Brien not a person has written to ask how old Ruby Robert is. This is a shocking state of af-

Now a cable dispatch comes to the effect that the New Zealand Rugby team, which is making the folks h'over 'ome look easy at the football game, does not train, nor lives the simple life, but on the contrary, does some real cut-up things. Here's what the dispatch says:

A surprising feature of the Antipodeans is that they do not train at all. Eat, drink and live pretty much as a any clean, healthy young Englishman who is not an athlete might do. They exercise when and how they like, smoke, some of them cigarettes, as the fancy strikes them, and, as one of them put it: "With the exception of periodical practice and games we live much as other men do, who go to business and still keep healthy and in good condition. Nearly all our boys smoke; they can always be seen at a match having a cigarette at half time."

The New Zealanders have upset all the popular training for athletes. This will not be good reading for the Hamilton papers, who insisted some time ago that because the Tigers did not score more points against the Vics., that members of the team were smoking cigarettes, etc.

Young Corbett is out with the announcement that he is going to take a long rest. The Denver boy some time ago laid out a plan, by which he would meet most of the second raters in his division, and by defeating them get on with Nelson again for the championship. Corbett fought Young Erne, Goodman, and Tipman, and escaped without much harm, but with little glory. He then stacked up against Russel, a flaxen-haired Swede at Philadelphia. Russel swapped punches with Corbett, and beat him up. After that, he desires to rest, and we venture to prophesy, that will be about all

N. Dyment is bound to come to the front in the racing game, and on Saturday bought the good stake horse, Kinleydale, from Sidney Paget's stable, paying $11,600 for the colt. The colt's sire, Kinley Mack, was a great race horse, and splendid things are expected of the colt. Tongorder has been a disappointment, but at that, he does not owe Dyment much money. Those who backed him in the races are not as well pleased, however.

Prince Louis of Battenburg has given a cup for competition between the boxers of the British navy and those of the American navy. This is somewhat startling to the followers of the sport in this country, who have declared that no good thing could come out of the boxing game. There is this to be said, however, that the game in England is clean; they have no scandals in connection with it at all. It is eminently fair and honest. Were it honest in America, it would not be so bad. The class of people who attend and manage boxing matches in England are better than in America. All of which is submitted to a learned judge in New Brunswick.

Robert Fitzsimmens, finding that the public did not clamor for him as the successor to Henry Irving, decided to insure a Christmas turkey through the medium of his intellectual hands. Mrs. Fitz is being educated for the operatic stage, and as grand opera training is expensive, that also impelled the freckled fury of fisticuffs to put his 'ooks and huppercuts again into commission. Many of those who follow the game of wallops affect to believe that Fitz has made a mistake in hooking up with so young a man as O'Brien. The old chap confesses to 44 (and there is a strong belief that he conceals some three or four hard winters), while O'Brien is just 27. But Fitz knows his man. He had O'Brien flopping around the floor in a sixround Lout in Philadelphia a few months ago, and but for the watchful care of the referee, who required 18 seconds to count ten while O'Brien was down, the Jumping Jack would have been counted out. Fitz figures that if he could hit O'Brien in six rounds and bring him down, he certainly will reach him in the twenty rounds that the next bout is scheduled to go.

The consensus of opinion is that no man in the game has a better right to claim and defend the heavyweight title than Fitz. There is a man who has won three championships in his time-the middle from Jack Dempsey, the heavy from Jim Corbett, and the light heavy from George Gardner. He never was beaten except by one man, Jeffries, and no one else could beat the man who whipped Fitz. Therefore, the old boy is entitled to all the glory that goes with his great record. If he can successfully defend the title, he will be recognized as a real heavyweight champion, not a pretender like Col. Hart, of Kentucky, who never decisively whipped a heavyweight of class in his life. It is not so long ago that Fitz larruped O'Brien, that the old chap should have lost much steam, and if his hands are anyways good when he faces O'Brien, the artful dodger of the ring will get his medicine in large Trotting horsemen followed the Ohio election with considerable interest. These men, it will be recalled, vowed vengeance on Gov. Herrick after his inauguration. Before election he had promised, according to their claims, to act in their interests in the Chisholm bill matter. But when it came up, the governor turned down the harness racers, and Ohio trotting suffered a blow that put Glenville off the map. The opposition of the horsemen, of course, is not the cause of Gov. Herrick's defeat, but it is an odd coincidence that he should be the only man on his ticket to be turned down. It is not believed that the new executive will look upon pool selling with more kindly eye than his predecessor. The question that interests now is whether or not he will take action prejudicial to Oakley, Columbus and the minor Ohio meetings.—Detroit Free Press.

Varsity got away with the Ottawa College team in easy fashion. The Ottawa bunch have now awakened from their dream of winning the intercollegiate championship. We will have to wait to see the Ottawa papers to see what chance the Varsity has with the Ottawa pets the Rough Riders.

The Hamilton Tigers did not do such a great stroke of work on Saturday when the Argonauts held them to a 22 to 10 game. On the form the Tigers have been showing the last few weeks, they do not look the unconquerable bunch they were early in the season. Varsity could have besten their heads off on Saturday, as their back division would make that Tiger outfit look like selling platers in a stake race. Hamilton, you will have to get some faster than that.

Duke Darroch was elected president of the O. H. A. on Saturday to succeed John Ross Robertson. He is to be congratulated on being elected to the office, especially following such a man as Mr. Robertson. Mr. Darroch is no novice in hockey affairs, and his experience should stand him in good stead. He should be firm in dealing with the cases that shall come up before the executive, and in no case should he play favorites. The executive looks fairly strong. By the way, that Hogtown cry seems to have got in its work, as Toronto men on the executive are very conspicuous by their absence. It is up to this new outfit to prove that they are as good. Stinson went off with him for the minute that remained.

The Argos wings, man for man, were far superior to the Tigers, with the possible exception of Lyon, who shone brilliantly throughout the entire performance. His fast sprinting took him always to the ball and time and again he downed an Argonaut in his tracks.
The Tigers had their strongest line-up, and while excuses may be offered for their reversal in form, nothing plausible can be advanced to explain weaker showing than usual. The Toronto-Argonauts have improved wonderfully in the forward division and after the game was over their supporters looked back to the first half with worried minds.

'VARSITY TRIMS OTTAWA COL-LEGE.

Ottawa, Nov. 11 .- Toronto 'Varsity, champions of the Intercollegiate Rugby Union, had little trouble in disposing of Ottawa College on 'Varsity oval today. While the game abounded in good hard play, it was scarcely ever in doubt, 'Varsity winning by a score of 19 to 5. The Torontonians were a superior team all round, but notably on the back division, where the punting from tight corners by Gordon Southam was the feature of the match. College scored a try early in the first half, and it was the only occasion on which they every got over 'Varsity's goal line. Before half-time both Burns and McInnes, the latter on a 40-yard run, had scored tries for Varsity one of which was converted, making the score 11 to 5. In the second half a try by Burns, converted, and two rouges, constituted the scoring, the play ending, 'Varsity 19, College 5.
