Decline of Man.

Nervous Weakness, Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility, cured by "Wells Health Renewer." $1.

— This is reported to be a great year for partridges in Maine. The woods are said to be full of them. A few days ago over 500 dead ones were put aboard a train on the eastern divsion of the Maine Central Railroad to be taken to market. They were shipped from towns between Olemon and Vanceboro.

— Some scoundrel or scoundrels effected an entrance into Dr. Cunningham's store last Monday and carried off the contents of his till, a small amount fortunately. The grating in front of the shop was lifted, thereby giving admission to the cellar, and through it to the shop, the exit being made through the back door.—Spectator.

POTATOES.—Boston advices of the 25th inst. state: Potatoes continue to come along in bad order and large quantities, and have to be disposed of at whatever buyers are willing to give. Early Rose seem to be more affected by the rot than the white varieties, but all are more or less injured. Prices range all the way from 25 to 70 cents per bushel.

— Counterfeit P. E. Island notes, very cleverly executed, but on bad paper, are in circulation in Halifax. Pewter fifty cent pieces are also being passed, and while new are very deceptive. The notes can be detected by the softness of paper, and the fifty cent pieces are somewhat lighter in weight than the genuine coin, and of course have not the clear ringing sound of the silver when struck.

— DEATH OF CANON WALSH.—Very Rev. Patrick Canon Walsh died at Bedford last Thursday morning, aged 62. The deceased was a man of much ability and force of character. He was ordained a Priest Oct. 18, 1846, in St. Mary's Cathedral, by the late Archbishop Walsh, and was subsequently a Priest at Prospect, Windsor, etc., and in the United States. He was educated at Truro and All Hallows. The funeral took place on Saturday morning after High Mass, from St. Mary's Cathedral.

"THE JERSEY LILY."—Mrs. Langtry, professional beauty and actress, arrived at New York last week. The seats for her opening performance at the Park Theatre last Monday, were sold at Auction last week and realized enormous prices. One box sold for $320. Seven seats in one row—first choice—brought $112 50. Single seats sold as high as $10 apiece. Dress circles seats were sold at prices ranging from $10 to $2. Seats in the gallery brought $2. The sale of seats was said to be the best ever held in New York.

— The preparations for the Canadian exhibit at the International Fisheries Exhibition are gradually assuming shape. A collection of fish preserved in alcohol will include the crustacea and molluscs used for cod bait along the coast, which is supplied by the mackerel, herring, capelin, sand eels, small trout, blay, and squid. The fishing houses have been preparing exhibits of salt cod in barrels, dry cod, (three sizes), cod in tubs, cod oil, used for lighting purposes, medical cod liver oil, salt herrings in barrels, whale oil, seal oil, salmon, trout, etc. The collection also includes maps and views of the fishing coasts, charts and statistics.

NEW NOTES.—The new $4 Dominion of Canada bills have been issued, and resemble American notes more than any note yet issued in the Dominion. In the centre of the face of the note is a splendid engraving of the Marquis of Lorne, and in the right hand corner the great seal of the Dominion. The figure 4 is on each of the upper corners, but are not engraved the same, the one in the left being smaller and more fancy than the other. The back of the note has the words "Dominion of Canada," surrounded by 4's on the usual ground. The notes are striking in appearance, and are more handsome than some of those in use.

— The St. Croix Cotton Mills are now making heavy shipments to the Upper Provinces. The products of the Londonderry works, the sugar refineries at Halifax and Moncton, and the cotton factories, all find a ready sale in Ontario, Quebec, and the West. The Truro hat factory is another industry that has grown to important dimensions almost entirely by reason of its Montreal trade. A Truro gentleman, recently in Moncton, says this industry is now one of the most important in Truro, employing a large number of skilled workmen, and that it could not exist but for its sales in Montreal. Inter-provincial trade is growing rapidly.—Moncton Times.

ELLIS THE ADULTERER, SENTENCED.—On Saturday the case of Edwin H. Ellis, the evangelist, charged with committing adultery with Mrs. Rose, of Maine, was tried before Judge Watters in the County Court, St. John. After hearing the evidence His Honor directed the jury that guilt was clearly proven in the case. The jury remained out nearly three hours, and brought in a verdict of "Guilty." The Judge immediately passed the sentence of the Court. He said the evidence was amply sufficient to warrant the jury in finding a verdict of guilty, and he ordered that Ellis pay a fine of $400, or failing payment of the fine that he be imprisoned in the County Jail, the term of imprisonment not to exceed two years.

Washington Letter.

(Regular Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31st, 1882.

The city is just beginning to receive its winter complement, and to look once more like the Capital of the United States. Many of the fashionable people, who have been away during the summer, have returned, and the familiar faces of certain statesmen alone are wanting to remind us that this is the seat of government of the gigantic young nation in the annals of the planet called the Earth; the only planet and annals, by the way, about which either Mr. Beecher or Mr. Ingersoll knows much.

The first thing that strikes the five months absentee on his return to the Capital is the Washington monument. Fortunately it only strikes him figuratively; if it should strike him square, the hypothesis of physical indestructibility might be proved absurd by a melancholy example. This monument, that is intended to overtop every monument in the world, already overtops everything in Wasnington and is still climbing skyward. It promises to realize all that its projectors designed, and will doubtless be the most impressive, beautiful and I must say astounding piece of architecture in the world. I, of course, do not mean to say that it will reflect as much genius in design, or science and labor in execution as many other architectural triumphs of the world, as for instance St. Peter's, St. Paul's, or the Cathedral of Cologne; but for awe, inspiring grandeur, and chaste sublimity, this plain white shaft, its base on a level with the ocean, and its head in clouds, excells them all.

Another thirds has yet to be added to its stature, and then will come the question of its surmounting figure. What shall it be? Various designs have been suggested by native and by foreign artists. No design has been definitely adopted. A statute of Washington, in order to present a recognizable likeness from such an attitude, will have to be more than collossal size, and a horse of proportional size would be out of the question. Besides Washington has already one collossal equestrian statue in the city; and a sentiment is growing in favor of honoring Washington more, and the horse, and all that the horse typefies, less. We have already a glut of collossal bronze equestrian monuments to war; so many indeed, as to be out of accord with our peaceful annals, and the genius of institutions which are not military, but civil.

The monuments to peace in the United States, are sufficiently visible to the student and the philosopher and to any one in fact who reads and reflects. But it were better that the triumphs of peace and industry, statesmanship and science should be so symbolized and honored, as to make them palpable to fools.

I would like to see on the top of this monument, a statute of Washington as he stood at the close of his precidental term, willing to leave his exalted station for the farm; and by him, with an electro light in his hand, to make them visible in the darkest night, his distinguished cotemporary, known in both hemispheres as the first to apply electricity, Benjamin Franklin.

Such a group would be a suggestive and an impressive history. It would be thoroughly modern and American. It would speak more eloquently of that which is greatest in our past, and most auspicious for the future of mankind, than all the monuments to war in Christendom and Heathendom grouped together.

Protection for Railway Employees.

Every time an accident occurs by a railway employee getting his foot caught in a railway frog, there is a loud cry for an invention to obviate such accidents. Hitherto inventive genius has been wanting in this particular respect. We are of opinion that this will be said no longer. An I. C. R employee in Truro has, we believe, supplied just the invention that is wanted—a very simple contrivance. It is simply a curved bar of spring steel fastened into the throat or "boot-jack" portion of the frog, level with the rail, and sufficiently stiff to bear the weight of a man, but which will bend downwards under the flange of a car wheel, and resume its original position when the wheel passes over. The attachment can be fixed into any of the frogs now in use. The inventor is Mr. Burpee Starratt, and he and Mr. F. G. Smith are taking out patents for the United States and Dominion. After a careful examination of the pattern we have no doubt this invention is just the thing that is wanted. We commend it to the attention of railway men. We hope the genius and enterprise of Messrs. Harris and Smith will be handsomely rewarded in the widespread adoption of what we believe to be a very valuable invention.

Flies and Bugs.

Flies, roaches, ants, bedbugs, rats, mice gophers, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

— On the arrival of the night train on the Canada Atlantic Railway at the new station on Eligin street, Ottawa, Oct. 25, the unusual sight of a bare-headed man lying asleep on the cow-catcher was seen How he got there was a mystery to many, and probably no other man than the engineer could explain the enigma. It seems Mr. H B. Wood, who resides at No. 39, Mosgrove Street, went driving in the direction of Hurdman's bridge about 8 o'clock last evening. He passed Cassidy's hotel at the bridge on his return shortly after 9 o'clock, and drove in the direction of the railway bridge. A few minutes afterwards Mr. Cassidy heard the night train coming with a rush and the locomotive whistling "down brakes." It appears Mr. Wood's horse wondered on the railway track, just south of the bridge, and Mr. Wood falling asleep the vehicle was left standing at right angles across the rails, the horse being a little to one side. On came the iron horse, and in a twinkling the buggy was caught on the cow-catcher, torn away from the horse and hurled over the declivity into the river below. Mr. Wood, by the suddenness of the shock, was cleverly landed on the platform above the cow-catcher with the buffalo robe in which he was wrapped still around him. Strange to say he did not wake till the station was reached, but reposed calmly in his novel position while being whurled through the air at the velocity of thirty miles an hour. His hat was blown off during his involuntary trip, but he is thankful for his escape with only the loss of the buggy. The horse escaped without a scratch and was caught this morning.

— Campaign is over, and those who were up in arms against each other in the political tussle now join hands and march to the druggists for a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. See advertisement.

Unprofitable Business.

A couple of cases recently tried in the Supreme Court at Truro, N. S., should prove a warning to persons who seek to make a living by trading on the credulity or dishonesty of others. A family named Hurd, living at North River, N. S., professed to sell counterfeit money that could not be known from the genuine article. Once a man negotiated with them they had him in power. When a victim paid for the counterfeit article they handed him a sealed package, which he afterwards found to his sorrow contained only brown paper. To institute proceeding against the Hurds would expose his share in the swindle, and so the victim discreetly kept silent. Recently, however, the Hurds tried this game on a man named Morrison. They agreed to sell him $1000 of a "certain kind of money" for $150. Morrison paid the price demanded, but he was not to be put off with a parcel of blank paper. By some means he got possession of $800 genuine money belonging to the Hurds, and carried it off. Baffled at their own tricks the Hurds appealed to the law, and prosecuted Morrison for "taking and carrying away by force" the sum mentioned. Of course the evidence was against the prisoner, and he was convicted and sentenced to four years in Dorchester penitentiary. Two of the Hurds—Oliver and Hennigar—were then tried for obtaining money under false pretences. They were to give one of their victims—Hugh D. Alton—$400 of money "according to samples" for $100. Alton gave up the $100 and received a package from them, which on opening subsequently he found to contain only blank paper. At the close of the trial, the Judge instructed the Jury to acquit, saying that although a crime had been proved, there was no count in the indictment under which they could be convicted on the evidence adduced. Fortunately for the ends of justice, these rascals were not allowed to escape. David and Oliver Hurd were tried for breaking into a house and stealing an organ, and, having been convicted, were sentenced to seven years imprisonment. Hennigar Hurd was committed to trial, and the "business" is wound up for the present at least.

TELEGRAPH NOTES FOR THE WEEK

Yarmouth, Oct. 30.—The robbers of Potter's cash box on the highway, about a month ago, have been discovered, and the box, together with about one hundred dollars of the money, obtained. Yesterday, as some religious exercises were being held in the jail, one of the offenders, named Charles Duerdod, made a rush out of the corridor through the outer main door, securing it as he went by means of a stick on the outside, and so bothering his pursuers as to make good his escape. A reward of twenty-five dollars is offered for his apprehension.

London Oct. 30.—The Pall Mall Gazette is informed that the Government have decided that Lord Dufferin, British Ambassador at Constantinople, shall go to Cairo for a time to take direction of negotiations of the Egyptian affairs.

London, Oct. 31—Mount Etna is showing great and increasing activity and emitting fire and volumes of smoke.

New York, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Seguin, 36 years old, wife of Dr. Seguin, noted specialist on brain diseases, shot and killed her three young children, aged six, five and four years respectively, this afternoon. She then killed herself. Mrs. Seguin took the children to an empty spare room at the top of a five story house, in the absence of her husband and when the servants were engaged in the basement. She locked herself in with them. The servants believed they had gone for a walk. Mrs. Seguin's brother called at five, and, with suspicions aroused by the long absence of the family made a search of the house. The mother and children were found dead, all shot through the head. The children's hands were tied on their back with whip cord. They were blindfolded with handkerchiefs, and, from all appearances, it seemed they must have been shot while playing at blindman's buff with their executioner. The only cause that can be assigned for the deed is insanity in the mother.

Tripoli, Nov. 1.—The Porte is much alarmed at the decision of the British Government to send Lord Dufferin to Egypt. A council of Ministers decided to ask an explanation The Grand Vizier to-day requested Lord Dufferin to postpone his departure. Lord Dufferin replied that it was impossible for him to comply with the request. The Porte has telegraphed to Lord Granville, asking that the departure of Lord Dufferin be delayed.

Cairo, Nov. 1.—It has been decided to equip with the utmost speed a small force which will be despatched in the hope of saving Khartoum and checking the advance of the False Prophet until the organization of the army.

London, Nov. 1.—The Times' Cairo correspondent telegraphs that DeLesseps' evidence before the prosecution committee is generally considered unfavorable to Arabi, as proving conclusively that whenever Arabi exerted himself to prevent the commission of outrage he was able to do it.

Pressburg, Hungary, Nov. 3.—Excesses against the Jews here have recommenced. Drunken rioters plundered their shops and killed a woman. Ten rioters have been arrested.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Revolutionary manifestos were posted in Paris and Marseilles last night. They were printed on red paper. Two hundred of them were posted near the Louvre, the palice of the Luxembourg and the Jardin Desplantes. They express the deepest hate for the Bourgeoisas and declare war to the death against them. Explosive materials have been discovered in a coal depot and the telegraph office of St. Pourcain.

London, Nov. 5.—Anthony Trollope, the novelist, while at dinner on Friday, was seized with some kind of a fit, which largely overpowered his mental faculties.

It is stated that Arabi will divide his defence into two parts, the first to comprise the period before the war, in which he acted under the orders of the Khedive; the second, the time after July 10th, in which, he claims, he acted by the command of the Sultan. If Arabi is able, as is pretended by his counsel, to show that the Sultan has all along been secretly abetting him in his rebellion, it will open up one of the most remarkable chapters of Oriental duplicity and dishonesty ever disclosed. It will explain the extreme reluctance of the Sultan to proclaim Arabi a rebel, and the intense desire he at present feels that the trial should not be proceeded with. It will prove also, in a very conclusive manner, that the Turks are incapable of keeping faith, and that any alliances or treaties that may be made with them, are of no value whatever as safeguards that they will pursue any particular line of conduct. Such disclosures will strengthen the hands of those who declare that "the Turk must go"; that Europe must be freed from this semi-barbarous horde that has so long been encamped on its soil.

A Perilous Fall.

A GEORGETOWN MAN TUMBLES OVER THE PRECIPICE AT NIAGARA—ESCAPES A FEARFUL DEATH.

A last (Friday) night's Niagara Falls despatch says: About 8 o'clock this evening a person from the American side of the river reported to the Ontario police force that he heard some one shouting for help beneath the precipice. Officers Wynn and McMicking proceeded at once to search along the bank of the river. When about a quarter of a mile above the railway (Susp. Bridge) they heard some one crying for help. They at once procured ropes and with the assistance of a few citizens, who volunteered to assist the officers to rescue the unfortunate man from his perilous position, which took them until 11 o'clock, by aid of ropes and Indian rubber ladders, etc., he having fallen 80 feet, and there being a down pour of rain during the time making everything very slippery, dangerous and difficult. When the man was brought to terra firma he seemed little the worse of his terrible fall and gave his name as J. A. Tompkins, an excursionist from Georgetown, Ont, a paper-maker. It seems that he was hurrying along the river bank from the Falls to catch the train and in the dark got too close to the precipice and fell over. Dr. Oliver examined him and found no bones broken, he escaping with a few bruises. The fall must have been broken by the shrubbery. The doctor says he will be able to go home in a day or two unless internally injured. This man, although being very fortunate in his fall, shows how much the iron fence which the Government is building along the river bank is needed to protect pedestrians.
