

3. What kind of a man was Herod?

Bring out the opposites of the virtues as found in John. If more convenient do so as the lesson proceeds. Humble John. Proud Herod, etc., etc.

4. Now turn to the Golden Text, and press home the truth. First, of course, explain that the heart means the will, the life, and out of the heart or the will come the thoughts that guide our lives.

John the Baptist kept his heart.

Herod the king did not keep his heart.

One was self-controlled.

One was not.

Which am I like? Point out in some childish ways, suitable to your class, some ways of watching. How many will watch their hearts this week?
