

BROMPTON

I visited eighteen times, and the attendance has always been large. This field is improving rapidly. A subscription has been made for the Church Society, which will be handed in on the first of January, and this collection with that of Hardwood Hill, will amount to about forty-five dollars, which is to the praise of the inhabitants as it is their first time of giving.

The School-house where the Missionary holds Divine Service, is about nine miles from Sherbrooke, and it might be supposed the Church families might attend there, but the Church in Sherbrooke, being so filled that there are several families in the town that cannot obtain pews, it behoves a Missionary to attend to this place.

REPORT ON THE MISSION OF LAMBIE'S MILL AND LOWER INVERNESS.

There is much that is cheering to report as to the outward progress of this Mission. God grant that it may throughout be what I know it is in some instances, the fruit of a more serious feeling of responsibility.

I have taken a stand with regard to the support of the Church, which I conceived it to be my duty to take, disagreeable though it were to myself. Feeling it to be a Clergyman's duty to speak plainly on any neglect which appeared to call for plain speaking most imperatively, I could not shut my eyes to the fact that there was one sin of omission very much indulged in, viz : that of neglecting the support of religion. The result of my teaching is, I am happy to say, a more evident interest in, and sympathy with the Church and its welfare, and no misunderstanding whatever, as far as I can perceive, of the motives which induced the stand I took.
