

des plats dont a mange Rouviere dans le cours de ses voyages.
 7. Quelle opinion ce monsieur a-t-il de ses qualites de convive?
 8. Partagez vous cette opinion? 9. Qu'est-ce qui manque, selon lui, aux beussines?

II.

1. It is by his friend that he has been struck. 2. That is where the lemons used to be. 3. Isn't your name John? 4. Here is something which demands your attention. 5. I should not like to be always travelling like you. 6. For twenty years I have been dining every day at the same hour. 7. You must have eaten some very odd things during that time. 8. One ought not to roast coffee too much. 9. There has never happened to me such an accident. 10. Go and tell Jeannette to come here. 11. He asked my pardon because his arrival was so unforeseen. 12. If you would grant us a few days, you would be better entertained. 13. Thank you, but I shall have to go in a few minutes, as I told you. 14. In China they eat swallows' nests with castor oil. 15. There is no food which is better, I assure you. 16. He flattered himself that he was (use inf.) easy to get along with. 17. Did you accept any invitations from the Indians? 18. These snipe have only one fault, they are overdone.

PAGES 7, 8.

I.

1. Je vous demande un peu où vous avez pris ce macaroni-là.
 2. Qu'est-ce que c'est que le Cuisinier royal? 3. Comment savez-vous que j'ai demeuré en Italie? 4. Oh Mme. Dupuis avait-elle envoyé chercher le macaroni? 5. Quel temps fait-il? 6. Pourquoi Mme. Dupuis est-elle contente de son curé? 7. Comment Tom trouve-t-il la femme de son ami? 8. Quelles excuses ce dernier fait-il pour elle?

II.

1. That is a curious dish on the warmer. 2. It is for you that they have served it. 3. I sent to the grocer's for it. 4. You know Jeannette was sure to lose her head over it. 5. Perhaps he has a little more macaroni. 6. You ought to try and have that grocer arrested. 7. Bring M. Rouviere some more wine, Marianne. 8. I don't know what to do. 9. I am not joking when I say that this rice-cake would have been perfect if you had made it yourself. 10. Whatever you do you will not change her habits. 11. If you