PREPARING TO ABANDON FREE TRADE.
 The new imperialism greatly extends the scope of our national aspirations. As Canadians we are, of course, vitally interested in our own tariff, and as imperialists we are interested in the tariff of Great Britain, or rather, in the projected imperial tariff. The conditions of the empire are such that it will, perhaps, never be possible to have a uniform tariff arranged by an imperial body for the whole empire. The nearest approach to an imperial tariff appears to be some such arrangement as that proposed by the British Empire League, viz.: the imposition of an imperial duty of 5 or 10 per cent. in addition to the regular tariff in force in every state of the empire. This 5 or 10 per cent. tariff would give the Mother Country and the colonies imperial solidarity. It would unify the empire in a way that could be effected by no other process. We believe the time is ripe for giving effect to the project. At any rate, the proposition should be fully discussed at the coming conference between the Mother Country and colonies. Canada ought to favor the proposal, because its adoption will solve two important problems. In the first place, the imposition of a uniform tariff of 5 or 10 per cent. throughout the empire, the revenue therefrom to be used for imperial defence, will provide a simple solution of the problem as to our responsibility towards the defence of the empire. In the next place, such a duty would give us what we think we should have, viz.: a preference in the markets of Great Britain. The proper manipulation of the tariff would settle the two important questions of imperial defence and imperial trade. We may not be able to secure absolute free trade within the empire, such as exists within the United States, but we can, at least, have preferential trade within the empire. This proposed 10 per cent. tariff will give us this.

Canada has taken the first step to secure preferential trade within the empire. Our tariff is higher against the United States than against Great Britain. The proposition before the empire is merely the extension of this principle. The Canadian preferential tariff should be extended into an imperial preferential tariff. Under the Canadian system we take off 33 1/3 per cent. in favor of the Mother Country. Under the imperial system we would effect a similar object by adding 10 per cent. against all foreign countries. If a preferential tariff is good for Canada, it ought to be good for the empire. What Sir Wilfrid Laurier recommends for Canada he ought to recommend for the empire.

The evidence accumulates to show that Great Britain has become aroused to the necessity of discriminating against foreign nations in trade and commerce. Protection is being forced upon the Mother Country by argument, by experience and by the stress of circumstances. The current number of the Fortnightly Review contains two papers which show how public opinion in Great Britain has veered round from the free trade to the protection theory. One of these papers is by John Atkinson Hobson, distinguished as one of the new school of English economists. His article tells of the approaching abandonment of free trade. The public confidence in the free trade policy, he tells us, "has evaporated during the last thirty years," and as evidence sustaining the assertion he refers to the fact that "the rank and file of the Conservative party, predominant in wealth and influence to a degree unprecedented in our history, is almost to a man protectionist, one only of its leaders retaining the reputation of a convinced free trader. Moreover, 'socialism, in all its various forms and degrees, implying an increased use of the state as an instrument of public policy, has so eaten into the older radicalism that the former intellectual approbation of free trade as an integral portion of the laissez faire principle of government now remains little more than the discredited gospel of a doctrinal remnant." After referring to the commercial supremacy of the United States and Germany, attained under protection, and showing thereby how the confidence of the British in their free trade policy has been shattered, Mr. Atkinson advances another strong argument to prove that Great Britain will be compelled to adopt protection. The whole weight of democratic forces, he tells us, is opposed to direct taxation, which is inseparable from a free trade policy; "governments are more and more compelled to rely on indirect taxation for new revenue, while in the United States and in our self-governing colonies any extension of the direct taxation system is scouted by practical statesmen as impracticable." England, too, because of the South African war, must now bear the burden of heavily increased gov-

SMALLPOX STATISTICS.
 In spite of all precautions that have been taken to suppress it, smallpox continues to spread all over the continent. The disease is becoming more evenly distributed, and no place is exempt from the danger. It is only when we collect the statistics that we become aware of the extent and seriousness of the epidemic. The official reports of the U. S. Marine Hospital service state that there were 22,263 cases of smallpox in the United States during the last week, as against 9406 during the same period of the year. The comparative numbers of deaths are given as 661 and 136 respectively. During the weeks of this year and last, showing that the ratio is nearly quadrupled. The disease has probably made about the same headway in Canada as in the States. Its advance has been slow and uniform, however, that we have failed to recognize its seriousness. Isolation and vaccination must be rigidly adopted if the disease is to be eradicated. It will be easier to stamp it out now than later when it has made still further headway. It seems to be generally admitted by the medical profession that the effects of vaccination are not continuous through life. Immunity from the disease is more or less dependent on the frequency of vaccination, says Dr. Augustus H. Henshaw, of New York, who has vaccinated 10,000 school children of that city. Universal vaccination should be the order of the day.

POLITICAL INTELLIGENCE.
 In West Huron, Mr. William Proudfoot, formerly a partner of Hon. J. T. Garrow, has frequently been mentioned as a candidate for the legislature, and, by some, it was thought that he would receive the nomination, now that Mr. Garrow has been appointed to the bench. It is, however, understood that when the vote is taken, Mr. Proudfoot will not be a candidate for the legislature, and in that event, it is said, he will be elected to the legislature, as far as West Huron is concerned.

A convention of the prohibitionists of Lincoln County will be held in St. Catharines next Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church, and a similar union action shall be taken in the coming elections.

"The redistribution of seats in Northern Ontario," said a prominent merchant of Sault Ste. Marie, on Saturday, who is in the city on a visit, "is a conservative and a good thing. I know the country well, and I am confident that they will win the majority of the seats."

The Port Arthur and Rainy River District would without doubt be the choice of Mr. Conmee, he thought, but Fort William and Lake of the Woods would be the choice of the Conservatives, if he was well-known in the riding. Algoma, too, was, in his mind, sure to go to the Conservatives, and a seat in the convention would be held on March 25, when it was thought that Mr. Smyth of Rydal Bank would be the chosen standard-bearer. In East Nipissing no Conservative candidate had been nominated, and the seat, it was thought, would return a supporter of the government. In Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. Macmillan's election was conceded, and in Manitowish, Dr. Gurney was the man the Conservatives looked to as the coming representative of the riding.

The executive of the Central Conservative Association meets to-night to make arrangements for the holding of the nominating convention on Friday evening. The officers elected were: President, Dr. Gurney; Secretary, E. A. James; corresponding secretary, D. H. Pinkney; recording secretary, P. C. Irving; treasurer, F. N. Rutledge; librarian, P. C. Coates; graduates representative, A. A. Wanless; 4th year representative, J. Madden; 3rd year representative, H. F. White; 2nd year representative, J. M. Williams; 1st year representative, C. R. Young and A. G. Lang.

S.P.S. Officers.
 The general elections of the Engineering Society of the School of Practical Science took place on Friday evening. The officers elected were: President, Dr. Gurney; Secretary, E. A. James; corresponding secretary, D. H. Pinkney; recording secretary, P. C. Irving; treasurer, F. N. Rutledge; librarian, P. C. Coates; graduates representative, A. A. Wanless; 4th year representative, J. Madden; 3rd year representative, H. F. White; 2nd year representative, J. M. Williams; 1st year representative, C. R. Young and A. G. Lang.

FOR-EIGHT-MONTH HIGHLANDERS GIVEN A ROUSING SEND-OFF

Thousands of Citizens Turn Out to Wish Them Success in New York.

The scene at the Armouries on Sunday afternoon when the team of the 48th Highlanders left for New York to represent Canada at the military tournament at Madison Square Garden resembled the days of two and three years ago, when half Toronto turned out to say good-bye to the boys who were afterwards to uphold Canadian valor on the gory field of faraway Cuba. This time the crowd was not so large as the first, but the enthusiasm was no less. The boys were given a rousing send-off by the thousands of people lined the thoroughfares through which the Klitties marched.

Shortly after noon hour the members of the team commenced to arrive at the Armouries. The regimental baggage was prepared, packed away in large cases and hurried to the depot. In the meantime the crowds gathered in the vicinity of the Armouries waiting to see the "pick" of the Highlanders walk out. Sergeant Harding, the chief caretaker of the building, was on duty at the entrance door, and was kept busy holding the crowd back. At 4:30 o'clock Lieut.-Col. Macdonald ordered the men to parade, and immediately 42 branny and fine-looking Highlanders stepped to their places, in marching order. They were drawn up in a line, and an imposing spectacle was presented. Every man was erect and his uniform exact. Lieut.-Col. Macdonald and Lieut.-Col. Davidson personally inspected every man and expressed pleasure at the splendid showing made.

The Highlanders at New York will take part in the sixth annual tournament of the Military Athletic League of America, which opens to-day in Madison Square Garden. They will take part in the tug-of-war, and will be seen at all performances. They will leave for home next Saturday night.

 A. R. Colquhoun's Advice to United States re Philippines.

London, March 23.—Archibald Ross Colquhoun, the author of "The Mastery of the Pacific," who will deliver an important address before the Colonial Institute at the coronation season, takes a hopeful view of the Philippine situation. He tells me that the present resistance is really a guerrilla war, and that the general impression is that the war will be a long one. The contest has been stiffened by the sentimentality of the Filipinos, who are struggling for freedom when there is no Filipino nation, and resistance is forced upon them. He adds that the general opinion is that the war will be a long one.
