several plays seen here already this season of this nature is this week added another-Denman Thompson's and George W. Ryer's comedy-drama "Our New Minister" presented at the Grand. It is a three-act story telling of some of the things which happened when Thaddeus Strong, a young clergyman of "advanced ideas" took a charge in Hardscrabble, N.H., and incidentally shows to some extent the truth of the proverb relating to a dog with a bad name, in the matter of one Lem Ransom, with a discreditable past but, a promising future. When Strong arrives he is taken for a horse thief by the village constable.
But that doesn't matter to him, for he wants to be talked to as a man who is willing to "swap horses or sell lightning rods." He befriends Miles that doomst matter to help, and where the severed time in States prison, but has cores of the control of the play and the comments heard in the play a
