

NEW SECRETARY FOR COLONIES CHAMPION OF STRENUOUS LIFE

WHEN NOAH BUILT HIS ARK

He did not buy his clothes from us, because we were not in business then.

However, we are strictly in it now. If you are going to need a new suit or an overcoat you should look us up. We are easy to find—opposite St. James' Cathedral, King Street East.

You'll find the best Raincoats in town here.

free imports, and to preach preferential trade for our colonies. Glasgow is a peculiarly fitting place for the promulgation of such a doctrine, as the city owes its prosperity to colonial trade, and is where Adam Smith declared that defence was greater than opulence, and pressed for reciprocal trade between the colonies and the mother country. Mr. Chamberlain's scheme shows how to work out a practical plan to give a preference to the colonies and encourage colonial markets.

lets, the only ones showing any capacity for growth. The colonial trade directed to foreign countries will be increased employment to our workmen and capital.

GIVEN ROYAL SEND-OFF.

Birmingham, Oct. 6.—Joseph Chamberlain set out from here this morning on his fiscal campaign, amid every demonstration of good-will from his fellow-citizens. Hundreds gathered at the railroad station and alternately sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "The Land of the Living." The Duke of Devonshire, who was made for a speech, but the only expressed opinion that he could be trusted from the former Secretary for the Colonies was in reply to congratulations on the appointment of his son as Under-Secretary of the Exchequer, when Mr. Chamberlain admitted that there was a "lot of difficulty" before the party, but he thought they would "get through with them all right." Mrs. Chamberlain accompanied her husband on his speech-making tour, which began at Glasgow to-day.

Diphtheria at Stratford.

Stratford, Oct. 6.—Two children of one of the Junior classes of the Roman Catholic school, who were taken to school on Friday. The cases were reported to the Medical Health Officer on Saturday, and on Sunday the children were taken to the hospital. The children were taken to the hospital on Sunday, and the children were taken to the hospital on Sunday.

IT'S A MISTAKE

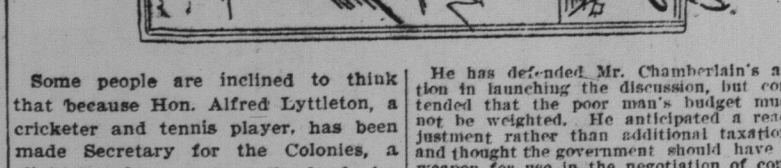

To Attribute Coffee Ills to Poor Grades of Coffee.

Many people lay all the blame for the diseases caused by coffee upon the poorer grades of coffee, but this is an error, as the following proves: "I have used every kind of the best grade of tea and coffee that came from a first-class grocer, but never found one that would not upset my nervous system and it was not until I began to drink Postum that I had relief from the terrible attacks of nervous stomach headache from which I had suffered for 20 years.

"I had tried all kinds of medicines, but none helped me.

"Soon after I stopped drinking coffee and began to drink Postum the headaches grew less and it was not long until I was entirely cured. She never had a return of this distressing trouble, for nowadays I never drink coffee, but stick to Postum.

"As soon as my wife saw what Postum had done for me she gave up coffee, which she had drunk all her life. This was six weeks ago and she has a good healthy color, she sleeps well, too, something she could never do while she drank coffee. We consider Postum a household necessity in drink in place of coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Some people are inclined to think that because Alfred Lyttelton, a cricketer and tennis player, has been made Secretary for the Colonies, a slight has been cast on the lands beyond the seas. That may be hasty judgment. Premier Balfour doubtless did not choose his secretary for his cricketing ability, and it is fair to assume that he has won his position by display of merit.

The Hon. Alfred Lyttelton is the eighth and youngest son of the fourth Baron Lyttelton, by his marriage with Mary, daughter of Sir Stephen Lyttelton, Bart. of Harwarden. Lord Lyttelton was married on the same day as the late Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone, who married Sir Stephen Lyttelton's elder daughter, Catherine. The Lytteltons are a family of the late Sir F. H. Doyle, who was present, described the Lytteltons as being both beautiful women. The friendship between the two families so allied was warm and constant and continued unbroken through all political changes. Mr. Lyttelton is a member of the House of Commons, and he is a member of the House of Commons, and he is a member of the House of Commons.

Great Cricket Player. He is not the least of the Lyttelton brothers, who have all made their mark in the chronicles of sports and pastimes. Tall, strong and active, he was a distinguished cricketer at football, running, and all many exercises.

Thus, while the Lyttelton family has never taken any exercise, his successor, Mr. Lyttelton, is one of the greatest athletes in England. The Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, who is a member of the House of Commons, and he is a member of the House of Commons, and he is a member of the House of Commons.

His Firm Views. He holds definite views on the fiscal question, and he is a member of the House of Commons, and he is a member of the House of Commons, and he is a member of the House of Commons.

HOUSE OF COMMONS. Ottawa, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The House was interested in estimates all day.

On No System. In the course of the discussion in the house this afternoon upon the multitudinous small votes for wharves in the Province of Nova Scotia, Mr. Borden pointed out that the wharves in the Province of Nova Scotia were for the purpose of the fisheries, they were approved by the opposition. But the objection was that they were not under the control of the government, but rather of the private companies.

Mr. Borden asked if the government would enable the splendid fisheries provided for the coast to be shipped to other parts of the country. He thought that the government should be able to do this, and he thought that the government should be able to do this.

LOST $750,000 IN STOCKS

From the inception of the Great Fingill Consolidated Company, he was its trusted employee, acting as secretary, and his ability in the financial world was highly spoken of. About five years ago he became the secretary for a number of other Western Australia gold mining companies having their headquarters in London. As a matter of fact Messrs. Rowland, Morgan & Co. were the representatives of all the companies of the kind, and he was their secretary.

At first, it is said, he played the stocks with his own money. He was more or less successful until about a year ago, when he became a heavy investor in certain mining stocks along with a number of friends. The market at the time was anything but favorable to him, and to save of instant ruin he lent borrowing from the funds entrusted to his care. The market grew worse and he lost heavily, and he was being compelled to pay back his indebtedness. But the fates were against him. When the end of the year came for a statement to be made to the different companies he realized that the market was anything but favorable to him, and he was being compelled to pay back his indebtedness.

Heintzman & Co. Piano

is well merited. The range of this piano is tremendous. Its capabilities of expression embrace every height of joy to the depths of the darkest despair. As an accompaniment to the voice it has no equal. It is strange then that this piano, possessing as it does, a brilliant tone quality and an artistic appearance, should captivate the admiration of all musicians! It fills an honored place in the best Canadian homes.

PIANO SALON, 115-117 King St. West, Toronto.

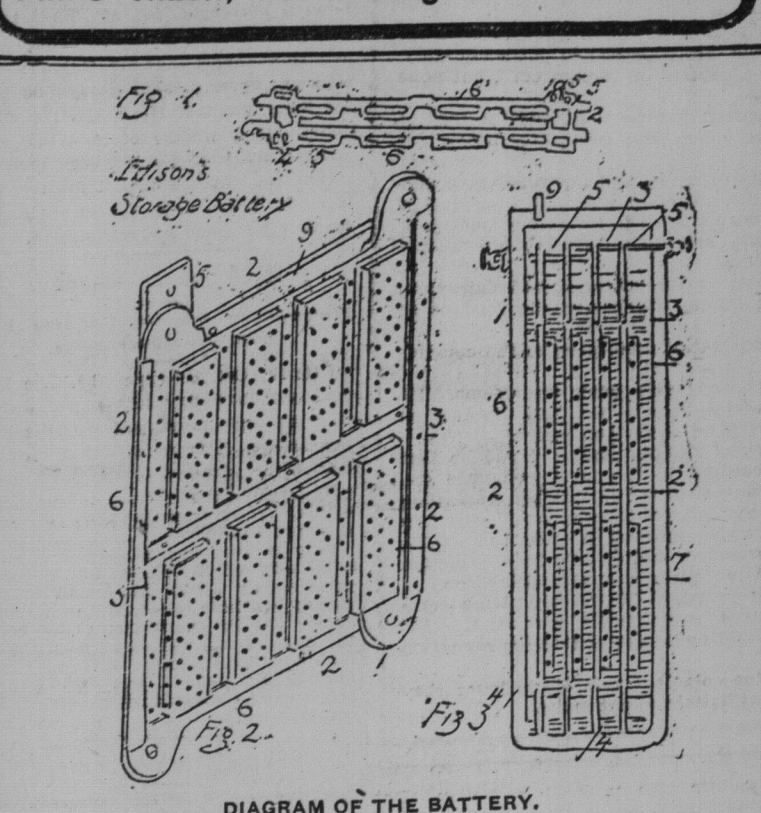

Figure 1 gives a perspective view of a plate; figure 2 a horizontal cross-section of a pair of plates, and figure 3 a vertical cross-section of a cell with two pairs of plates. The plate marked 1 is made of relatively thin sheet nickel. The lower parts of the plates are connected by industry rods, 4, passed through the holes, 5, in the holes, 5, in the plates, 6, on the upper parts of the plates are reservoirs or "pockets" marked 6, for the electrolyte.

Cadmium in very finely divided, fibrous and very pure condition, is obtained by electrolysis of a weak solution of cadmium sulphate between a thin platinum wire as cathode and a cadmium sheet as anode, using a strong current.

Finely divided copper wire is obtained by the reduction of fine carbonate with hydrogen. The finely divided copper thus obtained is poured under slight pressure into thin blocks which are the "pockets" accurate. The plates are then heated in a closed compartment for six or seven hours, to not more than 260 degrees centigrade, until the copper is changed into the black cupric oxide. The cupric oxide blocks are next reduced to metal electrolytically, and are then changed into the red cuprous oxide by charging.

After the pockets have been filled and the plates of equal size have been connected together, they are placed in a case, 7, which contains an electrolyte 10 per cent. solution of pure hydrochloric acid. During the charging of the cell cuprous oxide is formed and water is decomposed. During the discharge cadmium oxide is formed and water is regenerated. As only a very small amount of liquid is required, it is sufficient to place thin sheets of asbestos or another light, powerful material, which is not attacked by alkalies, between the plates and to moisten with the electrolyte. The case may be sealed for liquids, the opening, 8, being required only for the gases which are formed when the cell is overcharged.

SAW KENNEDY BEFORE MURDER.

W. G. Elliott Thinks He Had Blood on His Hands Then.

Stratford, Oct. 6.—Joseph Kennedy's remarkable nerve, displayed at the adjourned inquest Monday night, is the principal topic of conversation on the streets, and everybody is impatient
