The Ontario Travelers' Association, which has been busy all this week can-Vassing for funds for the Children's Aid seas, found the wife critically ill, and partially demented over the absence of her husband. Seated before a stove, in which the fire had died, she held an infant clasped in her arms, and two other children, 3 and 7 years of age, were sobbing at her knee. Neighbors had been unable to take any measures to relieve the children or care for their mother. Through kindly treatment she mother. Through kindly treatment she was persuaded to go to a hospital for treatment, and the three little children were cared for at the Children's Shelter. The Children's Aid then arranged to receive and answer her mail, and to bank her assigned pay and separation allowances, pending the return aration allowances, pending the return of the father. The city sent a second notice that tax payments had been defaulted but proceedings were halted. The father was not advised of the situation. uation at home, to spare his feelings. When he arrived the Children's Aid handed him a check for all the money sent to his wife. The wife had by that time recovered, and was ready to leave the hospital, while the children were the hospital, while the children were well clothed and well fed, and were restored to their home. The soldier's first action was to pay the taxes and hospital expenses from the funds held for him by the society. "I am glad," he said, "that you took charge without letting me know what had happened If I had thought that my home had gone to pieces I would have despaired of setting matters right, and would have jumped overboard fro the transport.'

"No good turn was ever done for me No good turn was ever done for me before. I will do something worth while in this world now that I have been given a chance," said little 16-year-old ward of the society who had been led tstray by her own father. A boy of 9, his feet sopped, and almost bare, stood forlorn in the hall of the home of his uncle, when a Children's Ald officer stepped in. That day the child had been taken to the police station by his uncle, who wanted to have him sent to an industrial school. The police refused, because he had done no wrong. His father, whose wife had died, did not want him. Neither
