status outside of the United Kingdom, yet the history of Canadian legislation was a record of attempted, the abortive, obstruction on their part.

"The policy of this association," said the speaker, "should be firmly to resist every attempt at official aggression by non-Canadian societies. In like manner, our Canadian societies must not meddle in non-Canadian business."

Mr. Fisk's paper dealt with bylaws, examinations and legislation. He gave his opinion that foreign, and also Canadian accountants, under provincial or Dominion degrees, should not be admitted to any other provincial society until a full year of practice had elapsied in such province. It was even more necessary that British or American
