

George was mentioned as being out of the question as far as McNair was concerned, he was most emphatic in his manner, his remark being: "Good God, man, could anyone tell revenge so far as to kill a baby?"

George F. Patton, McNair's counsel, also bore marks of the fray. McNair had three very noticeable bruises on his head and face.

Mayor Appala.

Just before midnight the crowd having not materially decreased in size, Mayor Foley mounted the dais, and made a public appeal to the crowd to disperse and permit British justice to prevail. He was repeatedly interrupted, one remark being: "British justice costs money. Give him to us. We can save a lot of expense."

Rev. Canon Fisher attempted to pacify the crowd. In his address he expressed his conviction as to the prisoner's guilt, but asked that the law be permitted to take its course, that the man was nevertheless entitled to a fair trial.

"Hand him over to us. We'll give him the kind of a trial he deserves," was the most determinate of hundreds of shouts, and another rush was made for the entrance to the building.

Shortly after noon today the town of Thorold presented a general appearance of a fair being in progress. Hundreds of men and boys occupied places of vantage around the N. S. and T. station, where David McNeal was expected to arrive from Windsor and take the preliminary hearing on the charge of murdering four-year-old Margaret Boucock.

The town hall was crowded at 1.30 p.m. with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner.

"Wilson's note to Italy," he said, "is on a par with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

"Wilson's note to Italy," he said, "is on a par with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

SERBIA DECORATES FIVE CANADIANS

Honors Mewburn, Fiset, Gwatkin, Biggar and Noel Marshall.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—Captain A. V. Sferovitch, consul-general for Serbia, has announced that decorations have been conferred on officers of the Canadian permanent force by the Serbian government, they are:

Major-General Mewburn, former commander of military units, Officer of the White Eagle of Serbia.

Major-General Sir Eugene Fiset, Grand Officer of Saint Sava.

Saint decoration on Major-General W. G. Gwatkin, chief of general staff.

Major-General Lyons Biggar, a recent pronouncement on Russia, who designed to do the same thing to the Soviet regime as his anti-armistice notes to Germany did to the Kaiser, in the opinion of Dr. Wolfgang von Kapp, German revolutionist leader, who drove the German government from Berlin March 13 this year.

Kapp, who was just returned from Moscow, where he discussed economic proposals with the Soviet government, predicts that "White Wilson succeeded in betraying the German people, he won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

"Wilson's note to Italy," he said, "is on a par with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

"Wilson's note to Italy," he said, "is on a par with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

DR. KAPP SCORES THE WILSON NOTE

Says He Betrayed Germany, But He Will Not Betray Russia This Time.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—President Wilson's recent pronouncement on Russia, who designed to do the same thing to the Soviet regime as his anti-armistice notes to Germany did to the Kaiser, in the opinion of Dr. Wolfgang von Kapp, German revolutionist leader, who drove the German government from Berlin March 13 this year.

Kapp, who was just returned from Moscow, where he discussed economic proposals with the Soviet government, predicts that "White Wilson succeeded in betraying the German people, he won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

"Wilson's note to Italy," he said, "is on a par with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

"Wilson's note to Italy," he said, "is on a par with his wartime anti-peace propaganda. Wilson successfully played this game on the Germans and unseated the Kaiser. Then, however, he betrayed the German people. He won't succeed in betraying Russia in a similar manner."

AFRONTED LORDS, NOW BARRED OUT

Prominent Irishman, Privy Councillor, Refused to Make an Apology.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

London, Aug. 16.—Alexander M. Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, and a privy councillor, has been debarred from the privileges of the house of lords by a resolution passed by that body today. Action in the matter was requested by Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, who declared that Mr. Carlisle's letter in reply to a demand sent him for an apology for an "affront" to the house "aggravated rather than lessened his recent insult to the lords."

Standing behind the rail at the steps to the throne when the house of lords passed the second reading of the Irish crimes bill on Aug. 9, Carlisle protested: "If you pass the bill you may kill England, not Ireland. No reply was made to him, and he left the house."

Earl Curzon, a few days later, acting on the request of the house of lords, sent a formal demand for an apology for "a serious affront to the dignity of their lordships." To this Mr. Carlisle sent what amounted to a refusal to apologize, saying that if he had offended he would be ready to make ample apology, but if it was solely regarded as an affront to the house of lords, then the case is different.

Mr. Carlisle's position as privy councillor gave him access to the space in front of the throne.

ARMORED SHIPS PATROL VISTULA

Will Prevent Bolsheviki From Crossing River in Move to Encircle Warsaw.

Warsaw, Aug. 16.—An armored flotilla is patrolling the Vistula river, between the Warsaw and Thorn, to prevent the Russian-Bolshevik from crossing the stream in his movement to encircle this city. Many of these boats saw service along the Pripet and Dnieper rivers, some having been captured by the Bolsheviki, and moved to the Vistula by railroad.

Soviet cavalry is working westward along the Prussian frontier, and was reported at various points northwest of Warsaw today. These horsemen are a force of constant annoyance, many of them equipped with machine guns, and equipped with the tactics adopted by General Budenny on the southern Polish front in raiding districts, endeavoring to drive in behind the Polish lines and spread consternation among the peasants. Estimates of the numbers of these raiders vary, but it is reported there are several thousand of them, some of whom were infantrymen, who have taken horses from peasants and moved forward.

It is known the Bolsheviki had a cavalry division upon their extreme right, and it is this organization that has been making headway, and against which armored motor-boats and other fighting craft are prepared to battle in the event of the cavalry trying to force the Vistula, sever the Warsaw-Danzig railway, and possibly totally isolate this city from the outside world.

CANADA ABOLISHES TRADE COMMISSION

To Be Wound Up About End of October—Concessions By Britain.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 16.—With the freeing of trade from governmental control exercised during the war, the necessity for the Canadian trade commission has practically ceased to exist and it will be wound up in all probability about the end of October. The British trade commission has practically ceased to exist and it will be wound up in all probability about the end of October. The British trade commission has practically ceased to exist and it will be wound up in all probability about the end of October.

ARTHUR PATRIARCHE PASSES IN DETROIT

Former Vice-President of Pere Marquette Railway—Spent Boyhood in Canada.

Windsor, Aug. 16.—Arthur Patriarche, dean of transportation in Michigan, former vice-president of the P.M. Railway, died at his home, 31 Palmer street, Detroit, today, of an illness of five months' duration. Mr. Patriarche was born in the island of Jersey, June 13, 1849. He came to America as a boy with his parents, who settled at Belleville. There he attended the public schools and later studied telegraphy. During the civil war he was operator at Hamilton for the Grand Trunk Railway.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

NOMINEES OF DRYS FORMALLY ACCEPT

Before an enthusiastic crowd of neighbors and admirers who overflowed the athletic field at Miami Military Institute, the Rev. Aaron S. Watkins, presidential candidate of the Prohibition party, and D. Leigh Colvin, his running mate, formally accepted their nominations, asserting the Volstead act, in their own words, is "terrible." Then they were to be up to Mr. Drury, and Mr. Biggs, and the government and the legislature which they control, to deal with the situation.

It is a fine state of affairs for a high constable to say that he is unable to do anything; all he can do is to sit quiet and say "Amen" to what a newspaper relates to be the state of affairs on roads in and out of Toronto, and The World believes.

Do the women of this province who now have votes intend to sit quiet after the confession of High Constable Phillips as to this "terrible condition of affairs?" Perhaps they will send a delegation to see Mr. Drury, Mr. Raney and Mr. Biggs. On Saturday last Major Branton, police magistrate for the county of York, sentenced one Alexander McKee to 30 days' imprisonment and ten lashes for assault on a young girl. He induced her to enter a car which he hired, and which bore to Detroit, Mich., with him, and tore the clothes off her body. High Constable Phillips, who was the man who brought her to the station, said that the women of the city and county have to say to this "terrible condition of affairs," "What are we to do about it? Will you help us? Will you help us? Will you help us?"

"A TERRIBLE STATE OF AFFAIRS"

Continued from Page 1.

parties, and lodge complaints with the police. But in the name of heaven, are not the police for this very purpose, and do not they go out and patrol the cities to protect the public and get the names of those who break the law? This is a fine idea of police duty that High Constable Phillips has, that the public must be the police, and that the public must take the numbers, and that the public must pay the information and do all the prosecuting. What is Mr. Phillips for? To tell the public what a World reporter go in each car and see whether there will be any clean-up in a few days or not of the "terrible conditions" which he has made.

If Mr. Phillips has not the money at his disposal for this purpose let him confess that neither the townships nor the county will give him the money to make the roads endurable for ordinary citizens. And if Mr. Phillips' men on the roads report every night with joy-riders, are so narrow that two vehicles cannot pass in safety, especially if one of them contains horse-drawn men and women, let him go to the Hon. Mr. Biggs, commissioner of highways for the province, and tell the whole story that he cannot get the money from the municipalities; that the good roads we have are so narrow and so infested by disorderly people at night time that it is both dangerous for the public to go along these roads, and that the condition of affairs, to use his own words, is "terrible." Then let him go to Mr. Drury, and Mr. Raney, and Mr. Biggs, and the government and the legislature which they control, to deal with the situation.

WILDEST CLAIMS MADE BY AGENTS

MADE BY AGENTS MAYOR CHURCH SAYS

(Continued from Page 1.)

the stories told by noteholders of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company regarding claims made by its agents. Mr. Benton said one noteholder reported that an agent of the company told him that the company was bonded for $50,000, and had a deposit of $50,000 in a bank in Quincy, Mass., where the noteholder lived, to back up its operations.

Another noteholder from Haverhill, Mr. Benton said, informed him that "an agent of the company told him on August 10 that the company had just received $3,000,000 from Europe, and that it had turned over a million dollars to the government to show its good faith."

Noteholders of this company and of the Securities Exchange Company, operated by Charles Ponz, who was still in jail tonight, continued to fight the attorney-general's office in large numbers today, and others made remarks to the attorney-general by mail. The office had examined enough unpaid Ponz notes to bring his liabilities up to $2,100,000, and the tabulation is complete.

A sidewalk hearing on the state's deposit of $125,000 with the Hanover Trust Company, Ponz's chief depository, which was closed by the state bank commissioner last week, was the appearance of a widow at the office of the state industrial accident board today with a cheque for ten dollars that bank. This represented her weekly allowance from a trust fund, granted her under the workmen's compensation law, for the death of her husband. She was informed that there was no way for her to cash the cheque until after the bank's affairs were straightened out.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

London, Aug. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question in the house of commons today, concerning Labor's ultimatum against war on Russia, declared that any attempt to dictate the policy of the government or parliament by industrial action struck at the root of the democratic constitution of the country and would be resisted by all the forces of the government's disposal. Loud cheers greeted the premier's reply.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that the government's policy concerning Russia and Poland differed in no way from the Labor policy, and said: "This swing there, and the hammer at the open door" by labor, members of government departments and foreign missions.

MANITOBA HARVEST BEST IN FIVE YEARS

"Tremendous Crops" Along Line of C.N.R. in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Harvesting is now in full swing in all parts of Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan, according to the Canadian National Railway's weekly crop report, issued