BIG FIGHT AMONG SAILORS ON THE STEAMSHIP ETOLIA

English Pugilist and Another Member of the Crew Had a Mill Which Ended in General Row --- Case Heard in Police Court This Morning.

This morning the cries of murder! police! murder! brought three policemen to the steamer Etolia and from there took three of the seamen to central station in order to prevent further trouble.

This morning in the police court all three prisoners were charged with assaulting and beating William Henry Ward the second officer.

One of the men arrested was the chief steward, Wasselwitich, who said he was an Englishman. His father was a Russian, his mother English and he himself was born and brought up in England. In answer to the charge Wasselwitich replied "It's an infamous falsehood."

Henry Mills, cook, was also locked up and in answer to the charge he replied "It's a lie."

The third one arrested was Alert Stockton, the second cook. He replied to the charge: "It's a lie."

Captain Jones said that the Etolia was lying at the I. C. R. wharf. He had trouble before with the chief steward and had intended leaving him off the past voyage. The chief steward, he said, told him that he intended taking the cook and the second cook away from the ship with him but they turned traitors.

The captain said that he forgave him for that and took him on this voyage.

The complainant in the case said that he was the acting officer on the Etolia. This morning about one o'clock the carpenter came to him and said that the chief steward and cook were causing a mutiny. He sent the watchman ashore for the police and he came back and said that he could not find one. The captain went ashore and got Officers Ross, Perry and White. Perry caught hold of the chief steward and White and Ross brought the cook and second cook ashore.

The complainant said that the chief mate was indisposed in the hospital and he was taking his place. Last night the carpenter told him that sailors were causing trouble in the fore-cabin. The carpenter told him that one of the men attempted to stab him. The chief officer heard another uproar and on investigation he found the Russo-Englishman in it. He refused to crawl into the bunk and attempted to strike him. The witness got a "half Nelson" hold on him and throttled him. Mills came out and struck the witness over the back with a deal and Ward ran up the ladder. Mills followed and received a kick in the stomach for his trouble. Stockton ran out to help but did not take any active part in the scarp. The chief steward called the chief officer some offensive names.

Officer Perry told about Officers Ross, White and himself being called to the ship and making the arrests. He arrested the chief steward on the wharf and his prisoner called the second officer some very bad names and said he would "punch his mug." "You can't punch nothing," replied the second officer, so the policeman said.

The second officer said that the chief steward attempted to climb the ladder and continue the fracas but he fired a shot over his head and Wasselwitich yelled "murder! police!"

The cook came using the deal end on the complainant and as it was said that he admitted last night to Officer Ross that he had struck Ward with it, the case was postponed until two o'clock this afternoon, when Ross will be present.

Stockton was allowed to go as he did not appear to have taken any active part in the fight. All the men admitted drinking and when the case appeared in court this morning his feet were clad only in carpet slippers.

IN ADMIRALTY

Yesterday afternoon in the admiralty court judgments were delivered by Mr. Justice McLeod in the cases of Wry vs. S. S. Oromo and Pouliot vs. Stmr Lady Ellen.

In the first case mentioned the plaintiff claimed $750 damages for injuries received about two years ago at Long wharf, while unloading the steamer.

Mr. Justice McLeod found upon law and facts for the defendant for costs.

In the case of Pouliot vs. S. S. Lady Ellen, the plaintiff obtained a judgment for $1200.

The plaintiff, captain of the Ellen, went to Dalhousie but was ordered to Campbellton by the owners of the steamer. He called back that the weather was not so good. The judge held that the master was responsible for the freight and passengers and ordered correctly.

J. D. Hazen, K. C. and W. H. Harrison, appeared for the plaintiff; W. A. Mott, of Campbellton for the defendant.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of trade this afternoon, three applications for membership will be considered. There are also three vacancies in the council of the board caused by the death of Samuel Schuchard, the departure from the city of John E. Irvine and the resignation of E. L. Rising. There are twenty-four nominations for these positions, from which three will be chosen. It is likely also that harbor improvement matters will be discussed.

A PLEASANT OUTING

A jolly party left the city last evening about 8 o'clock in two large hackboards, and spent a very pleasant evening at Kamp Kumfort, Renforth. There were about thirty in the party, the young ladies being members of the public hospital staff who were entertained through the instrumentality of Arthur F. Stillwell, one of the Kamp Kumfort members who was recently a patient in the building while undergoing an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Stillwell took this means of showing his appreciation of the care he received at the hands of the nurses. The evening was pleasantly spent with cards and dancing, after which the boys served supper and a return was made to the city in the small hours, all voting the trip a most enjoyable one.

PEANUTS FOR ALL

A dull report and a shower of hot-roasted peanuts caused no little excitement in the vicinity of A. J. Russell's candy kitchen, on Jeffrey's Hill, last Saturday afternoon when his new peanut roaster exploded.

The apparatus was "brand new" and cost Mr. Russell quite a sum of money. Shortly after its arrival at the store that morning it was set up and put in operation. All went well until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when people who happened to be around were startled by the report. The paint was badly bursted the glass broken and the small boys were given a rare scramble for peanuts.

Robert Thomson and family have moved to Rothesay for the summer.

A NORTH END COMPLAINT

An Adelaide street property owner complains that a number of outhouses in the vicinity of Newmarket, Victoria and Adelaide streets require the immediate attention of the board of health authorities, as their present condition is a menace to the health of the community. He adds also that several of the residences in the locality should be connected with the main sewer pipe.

With reference to the outhouses, he claims that the odor is so offensive that he can rarely if ever open his bedroom windows. This state of affairs, he adds, has continued for some time, and although he has laid information with the board of health, according to his own statements, they have given the matter very little attention.

THE METRIC SYSTEM

Prof. McLellan of the University of Toronto will arrive in the city on Friday, the 15th of June, and will lecture in the evening before members of the local board of trade in their rooms, Prince William street, on the metric system.

Prof. McLellan has given this matter considerable attention and it is expected that his address will be a very instructive and interesting one.
