

My canvass of Yarmouth was not so successful as on some former years: I failed to find some of our old supporters, while others complained of the scarcity of money. I notice also a slight falling away in the subscription of the Ladies Association.

I would like to see BARRINGTON, SHELBURNE and QUEENS Counties take that position on our lists which might be expected from their large population of Protestants, but it seems most difficult to get a hearing or obtain the help of willing hands in gathering funds for Bible circulation in dark heathendom.

Bridgewater has advanced considerably on her last year's contribution, and I have no fears of that Branch so long as it may continue under the management of the very estimable ladies who yet form its committee.

Some years ago a Branch was formed in New Dublin, which proved almost barren. However, in 1894, the promise of its revival was given, and during my last visit I was delighted to receive from the Rev. Henry Crawford, its new President, the sum of $27.30. In accomplishing this desirable change, he was cordially assisted by Rev. Mr. Richardson from pulpit and platform.

La Have Branch has again showed up favorably, and as henceforth, if possible, I intend to hold at least two meetings during my visit. I trust to see a constant increase in the contribution of that populous district.

I was delighted to see such a large assembly at Lunenburg. The Sunday School room of the Episcopal Church was crowded to the door, every available foot of standing room being occupied. I am aware that the music rendered by Mr. A. R. Morash and his orchestra was the chief attraction on that occasion; yet what influence can be more appropriate than sacred music in gathering an audience for the rehearsal of the Bible's historic triumphs. Lunenburg's contribution has again exceeded a hundred dollars, and I trust that all her future contributions will indicate her growth in liberality keeping pace with her commercial prosperity.
