INGERSOLL WON FROM ST. THOMAS

Locals Took Sixteen Hits Off Killingsworth in W.O.B.L. Game.

The Ingersoll base ball team took sixteen hits off Killingsworth yesterday and won a league game by a score of 15 to 1. The Saints should have been shut out, their only run being made on two bad throws. Owing to the threatening weather only a small crowd witnessed the game. The weather man threatened rain all day and a light shower when the game had reached the third innings stopped the play for a few minutes. There was not enough rain fell, however, to interfere with good ball, which was played by the local nine.

Killingsworth pitched for St. Thomas and to say that he got "his bumps," is putting it mildly. The locals gathered sixteen hits, including two two-baggers and a three-base hit. They pounded the ball to all quarters of the park. When the local batters did not get safe ones they were driving the ball at the fielders. Only one batter was retired on strikes. The Saints did not give their pitcher good support or the score might have been kept down. Wild throws were numerous. Graney the coming (?) National Leaguer, had three bad throws. McDonald "fell down" on two chances at third and Killingsworth also had his troubles fielding his position. Of course the locals were hitting the ball so hard that the fielders were getting some hard chances.

Organ did the twirling for the locals and he "got even" for his defeat at St. Thomas a couple of weeks ago. He allowed the Saints nine hits, but they were kept so well scattered that they did not figure in the score. Eleven batters were retired on strikes and he allowed only two batters to walk to first. The team gave him good support in the field and their batting was a feature of the game.

The St. Thomas team scored their only run in the sixth innings. Killingsworth reached first on a slow one to Weldon. He attempted to steal second and Tripp threw high to second, the ball going out to Fitzmorris in centre field. Killingsworth made for third and the centre fielder made a bad throw to that bag and the pitcher crossed the plate before the ball was recovered.

The locals started in to score in the first innings. Weldon started off with a safe hit. Williams bunted the ball, beat out the throw, and Weldon went to third. Williams stole second while Robert was striking out. Then Bell hit safe and Weldon and Williams scored. Tripp followed with a two-bagger and Bell scored. O'Neill hit another safe one and Tripp crossed the plate. Organ reached first on the pitcher's error and O'Neill went to second and scored on Fitzmorris' hit. Ross flied out to the right fielder and Weldon put one up for Hawkins and the agony—for the St. Thomas players—was over for that innings. In the third Tripp reached first on McDonald's error and scored on O'Neill's two-bagger to left field. The fourth was a repetition of the first. After Williams had gone out via pitcher to first base Robert, Bell, Tripp, O'Neill and Organ hit singles and Fitzmorris endged the hitting with a three-bagger. This batting streak gave them five more runs. There was nothing doing in the next three innings. In the eighth hits by Bell and Organ, coupled with two bad errors, gave the locals four more runs.

NOTES.

The locals have hit their gait.

Sixteen must be our number. Sixteen hits last Friday, and the same number yesterday.

The local players are requested to turn out to practice at Victoria park Thursday evening as soon after six o'clock as possible.

The sporting writer on the Sentinel-Review makes this comparison:—"Finan, the pitcher, who did slab duty for Detroit held Ingersoll down 13 to 3 last Wednesday. The locals gave him the short end on Saturday, 6 to 2. See the comparison?"

Brantford beat Woodstock on their own grounds. St. Thomas turned Brantford down by a score of 20 to 8 and Ingersoll walloped St. Thomas 15 to 1. Now what time is it? S. R. sporting writer please answer.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE NORTH-WEST

The Labor Market Overcrowded, Says W. D. Trott, Who Has Just Returned From the West.

More than ever before impressed with its beauty, fertility and many advantages, I return to Ontario after a visit of about six weeks duration, to the north-west. Asked as to my impression of the North-west country, I will say that one returns to Ontario after a visit there with varied impressions, the most predominant of which is the great superiority which this country possesses over the North-west. One of the most striking things there is the great number of English and Scotch mechanics and laborers who have been induced to emigrate to the North-west by the misrepresentations of railway, steamship and Dominion Government agents, and who find on their arrival that there are about three men for every job open. I have met and conversed with dozens who were told in the old country that they had only to get to the North-west when they would find plenty of people eager to employ them at big wages. Many of these have left good jobs in the old country and their intense disappointment at finding they have been duped for no other apparent purpose than to find business for the transportation companies, or to be a prey to the people of the North-west towns, while their money lasted, was painful to witness. This cannot fail to do this country an injury in the long run, as they are returning not by ones and twos, but by hundreds. These men are not a thriftless or lazy lot, but some of the best types of the North English and Scotch workmen, and who had not come here with the intention of farming. Many of these are going back with very bitter feelings against Canada, who have seen only the worst part of it.

The town of Edmonton, where I spent several weeks, is overrun with men vainly looking for work. Some of these were taking things as jolly as possible under circumstances in which there certainly was credit in being jolly. Others were feeling very downcast and looked so, but all spoke in bitter terms of the way they had been deluded. Not that there is no work going on there. There is perhaps as much building going on in Edmonton at the present time as there has been in Ingersoll for the past five years. But there are so many to do it. This state of affairs calls for immediate remedy. Dominion Government agents in the Old Country should be instructed, instead of to send people there to prevent them from going, and should be in constant communication with reliable agents in the chief North-west centres, as to the condition of the labor market there. The amount of utter unreliability of much information coming from that country is really astonishing.

As for the agricultural possibilities of the country, I may say that while there are many parts of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Eastern Assiniboia, where those going out with a full understanding of the conditions that confront them, and with ample means to start farming on a large scale, will do well I could not recommend any to go to the vicinity of Edmonton, Alberta. The season there is simply too short to mature grain. Wheat they don't pretend to raise. Oats and barley are sown in quantities. Seed has to be bought in most cases, the immature and frost bitten grain being, of course useless for seed. The trouble of late years has been the great amount of cold, wet weather during the summer months, the thermometer generally standing on such days at about 42 degrees. I shall not forget the disappointment of a Scotchman, who was my companion, who came out to inspect the country before bringing out his family and making it his future home. We arrived in Calgary about 5.30 on the morning of May 25th. There had been a severe frost the previous night, and everything was covered with white frost and thick ice was on the water. "Aye," he said, shaking his head, "I don't like that. However, I have met with some from east of Wetaskiwin and Leeombe, Alta., who have gone into raising cattle, sheep and pigs, and growing coarse grain, who have done very well, and express themselves as being quite satisfied with the country.

The town of Edmonton possesses many advantages. Good coal exists in large quantities and can be bought

RETURNING TO LAND OF HIS BIRTH

Mr. Patrick Magill Will Spend the Remainder of His Days in Ireland.

On Tuesday next Mr. Patrick Magill, who has been a resident of this section for over thirty years, will leave for Ireland, the land of his birth, where he will spend the remainder of his days. Mr. Magill has met with a good measure of success in Canada and he has also won many friends.

That Mr. Magill is held in high esteem was evidenced last night when he was honored by a large company of friends who assembled at the residence of Mr. Henry Gregg, Canterbury street. During the evening the following address was read by Mr. H. P. Shuttleworth, and Mr. Henry Gregg presented Mr. Magill with a gold chain and locket and a pipe.

To Mr. Patrick Magill,—

Dear Friend: As you are about to leave our neighbourhood to return to the land of your birth after thirty years' residence here, we cannot allow you to go without at least conveying to you our regret at your departure. You have quietly gone about your work without antagonizing your neighbors and we believe we can truly say that you leave without an enemy. We hope your life may be long in the old land, and that you may enjoy good health and prosperity in the years to come. We now ask you to accept these small tokens as further evidence of our friendship and respect.

Signed on behalf of your friends,
H. P. SHUTTLEWORTH.
HENRY GREGG.

Mr. Magill replied in very suitable words stating that he would always cherish the gifts he had received.

Mr. Magill is a brother of the late Adam Magill, of London.

While there they were parties in a gathering in which, in one family five generations were represented. This is so rare an occurrence that we have secured from Mr. Gray permission to publish the names of the family in which such an unusual evidence of longevity is found.
