

AN EXCITING MOMENT IN BIG POLO MATCH

Break play near the side board. Captain Cheap of the Hurlingham team (English) in the foreground. The play in the first day's match showed the English poloists excelled the Meadowbrook (American) players, but the superiority of the American ponies gave the cup defenders sufficient advantage to win.

WOMEN PLAY BASEBALL DESPITE SKIRTS

MRS. WEITZEL, FIRST BASE. PITCHER PEALE. Philadelphia, June 8.—Beliefed, suburb of Philadelphia, has a regular home-to-goodness team of young women ball players who go at the national game with vim and abandon if not with big league skill. The club is composed of Country club members and plays with teams made up from the masculine members, who don skirts to make things more equal. Two of the best players on the team are Miss Corrie Peale, the pitcher, and Mrs. L. R. Weitzel, first base woman.

A STAR SECOND SACKER

OTTO KNABE. Otto Knabe, the whirlwind little second baseman of the Philadelphia national league team, just now playing an up and down again game with the Giants for first place in the National league, went to Philadelphia from a American Association. He has played consistent ball of the highest order and is an important cog in the run-making and run-killing machine used by Charley Dooin.

A Fine New Yacht.

A handsome new yacht, built by the Boston Yacht Club, was launched yesterday morning. The name of the vessel is the Wanderer. She measures fifty-five feet over all. The boat is fitted out handsomely and will be a valuable addition to the already large fleet of river pleasure craft.

Joseph Craig, painter, received word on Thursday of the death of his nephew, Robert J. Craig, at his home in Somerville, Mass.

He was the son of John W. Craig, formerly of St. John. He was in the 41st year of his age and is survived by his father and mother, his wife, who was a Miss Grant of this city, one brother and four sisters.

THE PRIZE RING

A list of the fighters who have seen their best days and who may quit the big clubs before 1911 is over would probably comprise the following: Boer Unholz, Dave Dasher, Matt Baldwin, Biz Mackey, Al Delmont, Willie Lewis, Dixie Kid, Mike (Twin) Sullivan, Al Kubiak, Battling Nelson, Dick Nelson, Jimmy Walsh and Danny Webster. There are a few more who might also be mentioned, but they are not so very well known outside of their own native hamlets. Boer Unholz was knocked out recently by Jack Redmond, a demon fighter who couldn't destroy a helpless cripple with his fists. Redmond hit Unholz twice in the stomach and the Boer lay on the floor and groaned weakly. Unholz has been in the game nearly eight years. Dasher is a Veteran. Dave Dasher is a veteran who will never go any higher than he is at present. He is still a good tough boy, but he has passed the stage where he can get big money. Biz Mackey of Ohio has been on the down grade for three years and is now nearing the bottom. He gave Al Delmont a fight in New York some weeks ago, but Delmont is not what he once was. Danny Webster of California once looked like the best bantam in the world and later was good fighting around 110 and 120 pounds, and although now he can't be classed as a hasbeen, he's beyond redemption as a first-rater. Al Kubiak was touted as a heavy-weight champion when he cracked out of the lumber camps of Michigan a few years ago, but his fighting has never won him any gold medals. All he is now is a trial horse, although he can put up a good third-rate exhibition.

WOLGAST PILES UP BIG BANK ACCOUNT

Los Angeles, Cal. June 8.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, who on Saturday last stopped Frankie Burns in sixteen rounds at Francisco, with his manager, "Cherokee" Tom Jones, is taking a rest of two weeks. The champion figures to start training at Seal Rocks the latter part of June for his scheduled fight July 4 with Owen Moran.

"We bet heavily on Wolgast's chances against Burns," said Jones. "At the odds we gave we stood to lose $2,470, but as it was we cleaned up $5,000. From Coffroth we received $7,500, so, with our expense allowance, we got away almost $14,000 to the good. Burns covered up and it was hard to get to him. What is more, I told Ad to take his time, for we believed we had a tough younger and weren't going to take any chances. Ad will be in grand form on July 4 and Moran will go the same route.

On Road To Wealth. When a young man sidetracks a respectable behaving automobile and buys a new machine simply that he may be in style, the natural conclusion is that he has more money than he knows what to do with.

Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast has turned in his order for a ninety-horsepower, four-cylinder, open-top, and handed his old one over to his bride with the remark that speed and style were two things that he was determined to have.

This purchase caused the champion to flash his bank book, and a peek into the same revealed the fact that the little titleholder, under the management of "Cherokee" Tom Jones, is rapidly accumulating a fortune, and will soon have to be rated among the world's most wealthy pugilists.

Wolgast has been so busy the past few months that he has kept the record keeper dizzy trying to keep track of his battles. At the finish of his scheduled July 4 engagement with Owen Moran the champion will have boxed seven times since the first of the present year. For those seven battles he will have received something like $61,323, and adding his expense allowance, Ad's net earning will be close to $55,000.

After recovering from the effects of his broken arm Wolgast's first ring appearance was against "Knockout" Brown. The two met in a six-round decision bout in Philadelphia, and the stinging line of criticism hurled at Ad for his mediocre showing upon this occasion carried with it a financial hail of $5,500. A return ten-round battle was staged between Wolgast and Brown in New York, and while again failing to impress the Eastern critics as a true champion, Ad added $5,000 to the family bank roll.

Crossing the continent, Wolgast "stopped" George Meemic in nine rounds at Vernon, and for so thoroughly whaling his old-time enemy the champion was given $8,154 in good California gold pieces.

Anton LaFrance thought he stood a chance with Wolgast, and so did several thousand San Francisco sports. They paid their money to the promoter in anticipation of seeing a new champion, but Wolgast was under wraps and took to the Pullman with $7,500 sewed in his inside vest pocket as a rib tickler.

New York was clamoring for another chance to see Wolgast. One Round Hogan had impressed the Broadway boys by his fight against Brown, and several same gentlemen gave it as their opinion that Hogan could strangle Ad's championship prancing inside of 10 rounds. Wolgast knocked Hogan as stiff as a foot of rubber hose in two rounds, and was able to sit up afterward and sign a receipt of $5,500.

What Ad got for Saturday's showing is mentioned above.

Owen Moran the Englishman, is looked upon as having a better chance than any other living 112 pounder of removing the crown from Wolgast's head. Jones, fully aware of this fact, named $12,500 as his price for sending Wolgast in against the Birmingham boy and held out until Coffroth came to the front and paid this sum to bind the champion to appear against Owen on the afternoon of next July 4.

Adding these sums and we get the $61,323 total for Wolgast's labors for six months. All of which goes to show that being a top-notch boxer is a good business, and that Ad is justified in changing his automobile whenever he so desires.

ENGLISH CHAMPION WANTS THE GIG

Right away Matt Wells wants some American cash. The man who beat Freddy Welch for the Lonsdale belt and the title of lightweight champion had no sooner landed from a liner than he was matched.

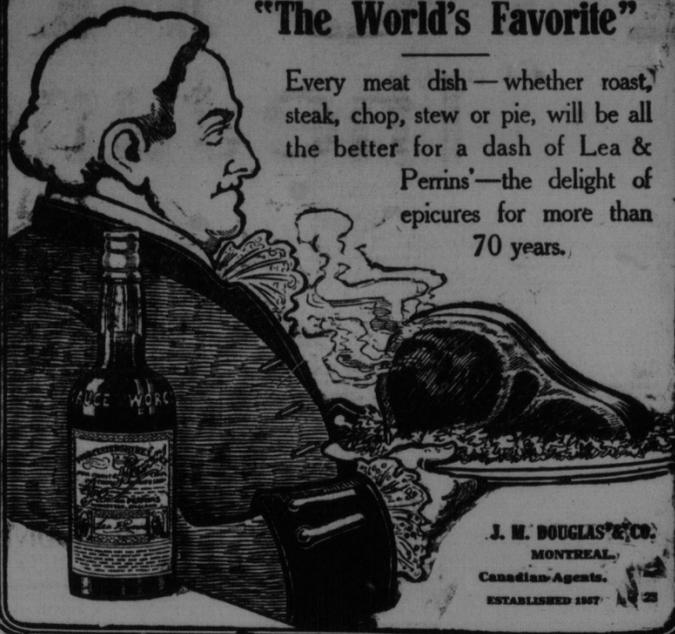

Wells has been doing his training at Chester, Pa., and has been accommodating to photographers. Here he is shown jumping, something he is very fond of. When training Wells wears heavy woolen gloves to protect his hands.

IN THE COURTS

Estate of Thomas Hastings. Return of citation to pass the accounts of Leonard P. D. Tilley and John Thornton, the executors. The accounts having been passed the claim was then taken up of James L. Hastings for board of the deceased at Wickham and care of him during his illness, amounting to $1,349. The executors having disputed the claim, they and the claimant leave the decision to this court on adjournment at 1 o'clock until the afternoon, M. G. Teed, K. C., proctor for the executors; Dr. Wallace, K. C. and J. A. Sinclair, proctors for the claimant.

King's Bench Division. In the King's bench division yesterday morning before Mr. Justice Landry, the case of Alexander vs. Belleisle was adjourned until after term. Dr. W. B. Wallace, K. C., appeared for the plaintiff and J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., for the defendant. In the King's bench division yesterday morning before Mr. Justice McLeod, the matter of the claim of Herman Good and others under the woodmen's lien act, yet the Dominion quit Lumber Co., in liquidation, was settled on appeal. Some time ago the matter was tried before Mr. Justice McLeod. This is a claim of certain lumbermen against the company. His honor held that while it was intra vires of the local legislature to pass the woodmen's lien act, yet the Dominion act relating to winding up of companies overrules the provisions of the former, and accordingly decided against the claims. M. G. Teed, K. C., appeared for the liquidators; Fred R. Taylor for the Bank of Montreal, mortgages of logs, and Dr. W. B. Wallace, K. C., for the claimants.

ler. The bride was attended by Mrs. Edward Kennedy, while E. T. Kennedy supported the groom. Little Margaret Kennedy acted as flower girl. The many beautiful wedding presents received show the popularity in which the bride and groom were held in the city, and elsewhere. The bride's father presented her with a building lot fronting on Taylor Lake, where the couple intend erecting a bungalow. The groom's present to the bride was a substantial cheque, and to the bridesmaid and flower girl cheques also. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan intend to live at 147 Brussels street.
