CARLETON VOTERS SUPPORT THE EMPIRE

expenditure in wages of $400,000 more. This agreement is intended to compel the provinces to repeal the act prohibiting the export of pulpwood on Crown lands. But the New Brunswick that prohibition will be maintained so long as I have anything to do with the government, added Mr. Hazen, amid applause.

To benefit U. S. Mills.
Mr. Knox, secretary of state, said he was in favor of reciprocity, because he wanted to see the American millers control the grain trade of the continent. Coming across from England, some months ago, I met a man from Minneapolis, interested in milling, who told me reciprocity would be a great thing for his city. It would enable the millers there to get all the Canadian hard wheat they wanted, and by mixing it with their softer wheat, secure the best quality. This would increase the business of the American millers and American workmen at the expense of Canadian.

It would also mean that the flour would be shipped over American railways and through American ports.

Turning to the $0,000,000 market argument, he pointed out that as there were 32,000,000 farmers in the United States, producing a surplus of $45,000,000 worth of food-stuffs for export, this free market dissolved into thin air.

Going about the province he had met many farmers, but none who thought reciprocity would benefit them. On the contrary, they felt that the United States farmers would be able to swamp their home markets. Then they naturally feared the competition of the great agricultural countries coming under the favored nation's treaty.

In conclusion, the speaker said that the indications from all parts of Canada pointed to a landslide, the effect of which would be to establish clean and efficient government in this country. (Loud applause.)

John Killen.

John Killen was the next speaker. He said he had not appeared on the platform the other night as a representative of the Liberal party in the United States, but he thought he had as much right to express his personal opinions as Mr. Pugsley or anybody. He then repeated the substance of his speech at the smoker in the Queen's rink, pointing out how Mr. Pugsley as leader of the local government had refused the workers a workable Compensation Act.

Mr. Powell, the next speaker, was given a rousing reception. Tomorrow, he said, the Conservative party in Canada will enter into the promised land.

There are two things in regard to reciprocity which I wish to impress on your memories. Some of the Liberal leaders claim that the reciprocity agreement would tend to increase the profits of the farmers. If it enables the farmers to get higher prices will not it hurt the workers by increasing the cost of living? (Hear, hear.)

What of St. John?
Another effect which the leader of the government claimed would follow reciprocity was that it would help north and south like a mill race. That being so, the oceanic trade through St. John would be affected. The C. P. R. spent $200,000 in St. John, the other steamship lines spend a similar amount. That is nothing to what looms up in the future.

But this trade upon which so many workers in Carleton depend will be seriously injured by reciprocity.

Continuing, the speaker pointed out that the United States would capture our hard wheat, and convert it into flour, to the great advantage of her railways and shipping ports. Lord Mount Stephen was reported to be in favor of reciprocity, but the fact that Mount Stephen had sold out his holdings in the C. P. R. and invested in Jim Hill's railways was significant.

That $5,000 Note.
The speaker then referred to the $5,000 note, "Frank Smith in his affidavit," he said, "has been to the line as close as he could. Mr. Smith and bookkeeper, other agent of Scovell Bros., were in the Bank of Montreal on Aug. 30; they deposited a $5,000 American note. They did it so quietly that they were seen by three well known citizens. That money has since been drawn out for corruption purposes."

Continuing, the speaker said that today Mr. Pugsley's newspapers were charging that Mr. Borden is in league with Bourassa. This was another calumny. Bourassa was an independent Laurier.

Laurier Responsible.
As a matter of fact Sir Wilfrid himself was responsible for the Nationalist movement. He has always been a Nationalist—looking forward to an independent Canada. More than once in public speeches he had declared that the independence of Canada was the goal of his aspirations.

One great argument of the Liberals is that as a result of a mistake in printing, the United States customs tariff Canada had been able to send considerable quantities of cream into the American market. That was symbolic of the whole pact. Americans would get the cream and Canadians would have to be content with the skimmed milk.

Sure Majority.
In conclusion Mr. Powell said he had word from Toronto that the Conservatives were absolutely positive of carrying Ontario by a majority of 60, and that the indications of a conservative victory were very bright all over Canada.

Rousing cheers for the King, Borden and Powell and Daniel brought the meeting to a close.

HER HANDS WERE RAW HAD TO WEAR RUBBER GLOVES "Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured the Eczema

Grande Ligne, Que., Jan. 2nd, 1910.
"My wife was troubled for three years with Eczema on the hands which made her hands almost useless. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, none of which had any effect. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves (she wore them every day). I met N. JOUBERT, who is always caused by impure blood—due to chronic constipation, indigestion or some weakness with the kidneys.

I persuaded her, as a last resort, to try "Fruit-a-tives." The effect was marvellous. Her hands are now cured. We both attribute our present health to "Fruit-a-tives."

WRITE TO BE SERVED ON M'ALISTER

Sussex, Sept. 20.—For days Liberals about Sussex have been hinting that the Telegraph was about to explode a bombshell into the Conservative camp in the shape of a charge that George W. Fowler had made a proposal to a man named Mayer, junk dealer, of St. John, that if Mayer would contribute $1,000 to Fowler's campaign fund, the suit entered against Mayer for $2,000 for money due on the Albert Southern rail would be dropped.

The story was so absolutely absurd that the Telegraph evidently got cold feet and would not publish it. Dr. McAlister however, appears to have exercised less discretion in the matter, and today George W. Fowler received the following telegram:

Hillsboro, N. B., Sept. 20th, 1911.
To Geo. W. Fowler, Sussex, N. B.
McAlister said here last night that your firm told Mayer that if he would put up $1,000 in election funds you would give him receipt for the three thousand five hundred claim. That Mayer put one thousand in the fund and you gave him the receipt for three thousand five hundred. Reply.
(Signed) W. B. DICKSON.
To Take Action.
Fowler at once wired W. B. Dickson giving the lie to McAlister and announcing that he would at once take action against the Liberal candidate. Today instructions have been given to issue a writ and heavy damages will be claimed against the man who gave circulation to the slanderous story. In face of the fact that both parties had refrained from personalities in the campaign, this eleventh hour attempt to injure Fowler and prevent him from replying to it, speaks for itself. It is understood that the writ will be served on McAlister at the earliest possible moment.

LOWELL'S CAUSE HOPELESS EVEN IN FAIRVILLE

The great meeting held last evening in Orange Hall, Fairville, was a fitting close to one of the most enthusiastic campaigns in the history of the Conservative party. Eloquent addresses by Hon. J. D. Hazen, Dr. Daniel, M. W. Doherty, Miles Agar, J. B. M. Baxter, were heard with enthusiasm by a large gathering.

Both in point of numbers and in enthusiasm the gathering proved most conclusively that the people of Fairville, while Mr. Lowell looks upon himself as a strong hold, are strongly opposed to reciprocity, and at the polls today will give the Conservative candidate a magnificent majority.

Manning W. Doherty was the first speaker of the evening and was given a grand welcome. In his characteristically able manner exposed the evils of reciprocity. He took up the issue of lumber as affected by the pact and stated that as far as a political axiom that the consumer pays the duty, the argument of pro-reciprocity speakers regarding the benefits that will accrue to the lumbermen of this country is mere sophistry. He then showed that while the national policy has proved beneficial to Canada, reciprocity instead of bettering the Dominion will have proved a retrogressive step.

J. B. M. Baxter, who followed, pointed out to his audience that in addressing them he did so, not in his official capacity of recorder. He referred to the argument of reciprocity advocates that one of the virtues of the pact lies in the fact that it can be so easily abandoned. This, however, Mr. Baxter showed to be one of the worst features of the agreement.

He then dealt at length with the effects of the pact on the lumber industry, and showed that as this commodity must in the course of a few years be exhausted in the United States, it is to the interest of Canada to hold fast to her forest wealth until then, when the States are above the present reciprocity pact, showing convincingly the detrimental effects on the industrial life of Canada, and in concluding assured his hearers of his confidence in R. L. Borden and his followers to win a glorious victory over the Liberal forces in today's battle at the polls.
