PRICE MOVEMENT
FAVORED SPECIALS

(McDougall and Cowans.)
New York, August 15.—The mid-day recovery went further in the early afternoon but the market became extremely dull. Price movements, although generally upward, were in regular and tended to favor specialties. Crucible Steel was up 3 1/2 points at one time. Flour, U. S. Steel moved less than a point. Several specialties among them, I. D. advanced several points above last night's close but moderately and sold off more or less in the late trading.
Sales, 775,000.

FARMER JOE.

Farmer Joe wore russet breeks,
Farmer Joe was curly;
Farmer Joe had ruddy cheeks,
And his hair was curly.
Better man than Farmer Joe
Never shouted "Tallyho!"
When the air was crisp and free
And the leaves were falling.
Red and gold, from hedge and tree,
And the hunt was calling.
Better man than Farmer Joe
Never rode to "Tallyho!"

Open heart and open hand,
Hearty laugh and mellow;
Born and bred upon the land,
Simple, honest fellow.
Better man than Farmer Joe
The old hunt will never know.

BRINGING UP, FATHER.

Miles and Miles of Smiles

Have you ever stopped to think that others see you as you see them? This is hard to do when driving, but next time you're out for a spin, just "take in" the motorists who meet. If you think they wear "funny" expressions, remember, you may look "funny" yourself. These motorists wear faces to suit their moods, and so do you.

There's the man whose expression spells despair. Have you stopped to consider the strain the poor fellow is under? He is constantly in dread of his tires failing him. "Poor chap," you say, "he looks aged with worry."

Then there's the man with the smiles, lots of them, miles of them. HE KNOWS that whatever place he starts for, his tires will take him there and back without trouble. Ask him what tires he uses—"Maltese Cross" he says.

Every mile is a mile of smiles for the motorist who uses Maltese Cross Tires.

BUY WHITES

That is the advice of the experienced truck user. His reasons are—

- because they cost less in the end.
- because they can be depended upon in any emergency.
- because he is sure of service one, five or ten years hence.
- because the depreciation is small—and the re-sale value always high.

The largest buyers of White Trucks are firms who keep accurate cost records—the result is that they know they are saving money by using White equipment.

For steadiness of operation, the books will also show the highest percentage of days on duty. Idle trucks mean money lost to the truck owner.

The makers of White Trucks are pioneers and leaders in the industry. They have had the most experience in knowing the problems of truck building—their organization is prepared to give service as long as the life of the truck.

White Trucks are built in four sizes—body types suited to any service.
