STAR VS. WHITE APPEAL

dence was fully made clear to the court.
The ore found going on was 280 feet long, continuous and in place. Then Mr. Sizer submits another alternative

Mr. Atwater's inabaility to tell the difference between quartzite and por-phyry was noted by counsel, who said it accounted for the plaintiffs not laying much stress on Mr. Atwater's testi-

Taking up the claimed difference between Bochmer and Elmendorf, Mr. Bodwell said the difference if any was not in anyway inconsistent with the one theory advanced by both. Bochmer said his theory was merely a possible explanation of the branch spurs or fissures going out, on the course of the main Star vein he is clearly in line with Elmendorf. It was a good sample of Mr. Bochmer's absolute honesty as a witness, his sincerity not being appreciated by Mr. Davis, who could only understand cast-iron experts of the Sizer both records esablished will be passed benderstand cast-iron experts of the Sizer 1 1 188

The position of the porphyry mass exactly accounts for the twisted and turned line of the Star vein as shown, The twists and turns laughed at by the plaintiffs, is exactly what would be expected under the observed geological conditions as shown in the evidence.

Professor Parks' plans of the different mine workings, showing the wans throughout, and particularly at the turns, where they could be seen today and had been seen by the chief justice were dwelt on at length as doing away with Mr. Davis' contention that only the ore with an apparent turn was found Mr. Bodwell said he would stand on Elmendorf's description of what could be seen at the mine, would stand on this testimony on Elmendorf's veracity and ability, as being an absolutely correct statement of fact.

If Mr. Elmendorf's veracity was conceded there was an end of what the plaintiffs' contended for, an end of "ingenuity born of despair," as the chief justice says in his judgment. Counsel then read many extracts from the evidence showing that the Star vein could be traced on its bended course as White Bear, milled 500 the evidence showing that the Star vein shown on the main plan. Many other references were also given, nearly an our being taken up in giving the pages of the evidence where testimony on cer-tain points could be found. The long barren stretch on No. 5 level some 1200 by counsel. On the surface this space reduced to 400 feet. In the intersurface the 1200 feet was also greatly reduced. As a matter of fact, the ore runs in pockets, sometimes found on one level but not above, sometimes above and not below, so that the actual barren stretch in the vein, at all levels, is not 1200 feet, but much less, not more than about 400 feet.

The more or less sharp discussion which took place at the first trial between Mr. Sizer and the chief justice after the visit of inspection to the mine, and the cross-examination of counsel, which followed, were gone into at length by Mr. Bodwell, who declared it proved the anihilation of Mr. Sizer and all his evidence. This last evidence was all on what happens in the first bend in the vein, where the chief justice be-came convinced that the ore did bend around and that the plaintiffs' theory

'ingenuity born of despair.' Mr. Bodwell then stated that he would be unable to conclude his remarks at the present session and the court adjourned at 5 o'clock until Monday morn-
