Panda field hockey to improve

by Alan Small

The Panda field hockey team hosts the first conference tournament this season, starting Saturday and going to Sunday in the Universiade Pavilion.

The Pandas are fresh off a second place at the U of A Invitational tournament last weekend. They shut out Calgary in their first game 1-0 as returnee Bev Wolfert scored for Alberta. They went up against York University in their second game of the tournament and managed a tie. York is one of the perennial contenders for the CIAU championship. Karen Rowland and Bakewell Trophy winner Liz Czenczek scored for the Pandas. In their last two games, the Pandas were stopped by the Alberta Select squad by scores of 1-0 and 2-0. In the second game, Panda assistant coaches Deb Covey and Shona Schleppe acted as turncoats and scored the goals for the Select squad.

Last year, the Pandas started to turn the corner after being perennial doormats in Canada West. Dru Marshall was awarded the Canada West coach of the year as she directed the Pandas to a third place finish in Canada West. Although their record in Canada West was 2-7, one must consider that all of the conference tournaments were away from the friendly confines of the Butterdome.

The University of Victoria, CIAU champions in two of the last three years will undoubtedly be the team to beat in Canada West this year. They went undefeated last year in conference play and also did not allow a goal against. UBC will also be a factor as they were Canada

West champions two seasons ago. Matter of fact, both BC universities have shared top billing in Western Canada field hockey since 1975. Both have won the CWUAA title six times since then. With a little arithmetic, you can see that no other team has won in Canada West in that time. Alberta last shared the field hockey crown in 1973 as they tied with UBC that year.

Alberta, Calgary and Manitoba are hoping for different things this year. They all start their assault on the BC field hockey mountain this weekend in the first of three field hockey tournaments.

If Alberta is to be successful this year, they will lean heavily on the services of Liz Czenczek, last year's most outstanding female athlete at the U of A. Czenczek was also a CWUAA all-star and CIAU all-star. She represented Canada at the Pan-American games in Indianapolis this summer.

Women's soccer goes for No. 1

by Alan Small

The Panda's soccer club gets rolling on another season this weekend as they host the Alberta Cup tournament Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Faculte St. Jean field.

They actually started their season last weekend by handing their alumni squad a 5-0 defeat.

The Universities of Calgary and Lethbridge will be the guests of the Pandas at the Alberta Cup this weekend.

Last year, the Pandas had no trouble with the University of Lethbridge, as they defeated them all three times they faced them. Calgary though, was a thorn in the Pandas' side last year as a 1-0 loss in the Canada West tournament ended up haunting them as they lost the Canada West title to their arch-rivals UBC only on a goal differential.

UBC is the other thorn for the Pandas, as for the fifth time, last year, they were second in the conference. All five times, they were second to UBC.

The Pandas will have more at stake this year, as for the first time, a CIAU tournament will take place and for the first time, a Canadian university champion will be crowned.

But, UBC will still be there and will still have to be beaten if the Pandas are to take any championship.

Last year, the team was loaded with rookies, and eleven players from last year's squad are returning. Canada West all-stars Laurina Kendall (keeper) and stopper Cindy Annala are among the returnees. Also back are leading scorer Iris Diachuk and most improved players from '86, Sheryl Ferry and Janis Underdahl.

The loss of three veterans, Debbie Snow, Lisa Hamdon, and team MVP Carol Brown will definitely hinder the Pandas' chances.

Joining coach Tracy David on the staff and in a playing capacity will be Sylvie Beliveau who will line up at midfield. Returning to the team this year will also be Angela Wildemann, who two years ago was the team MVP and was a Canada West all-star. She missed all of last year due to injury.

The Panda's first game of the tournament this weekend will be Friday at 6:30 when they play the Calgary Dinnies. They take on Lethbridge on Saturday at 10:00 am. The final game goes Sunday at 10:00 am. All games are at the Faculte St. Jean field.
