

NEWS NEWS

Editor - Julie Hirschfeld
 Editor - Nujma Yaqzan
 Deadline
 Wednesday Noon

Africa Week

This year, Africa Week, running from Monday 13th February through the 18th, will explore the theme 'Africa in the 21st Century'. According to the organizers of the event it has become increasingly important to dismantle many of the inaccurate myths about African Society that still prevail in the Western World. Through a series of seminars and displays along with their traditional gala night of music, food and dance, the African Student Union hopes to present an informative and entertaining series of events on the campus.

Highlights of the week include seminars on the Music of Africa (14th February) and on the Environment and Economy of the continent (16th February). There will be a grand Cultural Bazaar on the 15th which will be held in Room 26 of the SUB. The climax of the week - Africa Nite '89 will take place in the SUB Cafeteria on the 18th, starting at 6:30 pm. Tickets will be $8.00 for adults and $5.00 for children. The seminars will be held in Sing 150 and SUB 103 respectively. All are invited to participate in this very important event.

Tickets will be on sale in the SUB offices.

Tax Info

Within the next 30 days, the Registrar's Office and the Business Office will issue a combined tax certificate, to all full and part-time students. The "TUITION AND EDUCATION CREDIT CERTIFICATE" could be of significant value to both students and parents, as it is transferable.

The CERTIFICATE will indicate (Section A) tuition fees paid during the period May 1 to December 31, 1988. The student should be aware that last year's tuition receipt covered a 12 month period ending April 30, 1988.

The number of months the student was in full-time attendance will be shown (Section B) in order to calculate the Education Credit.

Certificates will be mailed to all part-time students and 1988 graduates, using the home address. The local address will be used for full-time graduate and undergraduate students currently in attendance. It is therefore important that your address be correct with the Registrar's Office.

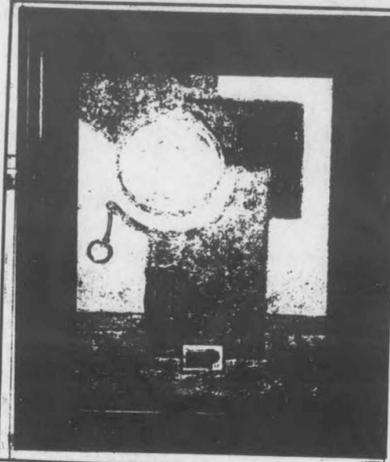

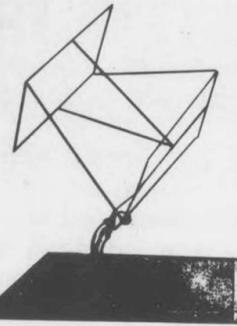

Photo by Jayde Mockler

Winning Art Work at New Talent '89

Forestry News

To dispel the notion that universities are out of touch with the world around them, the faculty of forestry at the University of New Brunswick has retained an executive-in-residence.

"There are two main objectives I would like to fulfill during my term at UNB," said Knut Grotterod, the executive who began the three-month position in early January. "I want to encourage improved communication between the university, industry, government and independent research organizations, and prepare students better for the workplace."

Dr. Grotterod is uniquely qualified to fulfill these objectives. Perhaps best known as the former chairman and CEO of Fraser Inc. in Edmundston, N.B., he is currently the president and chairman of Incutech Brunswick Inc., chairman of the Research and Productivity Council and the Alberta Newsprint Co. Ltd., and a member of the UNB Board of Governors. Dr. Grotterod retired from Fraser Inc. in 1987 after 14 years with the company. Prior to that he was the vice-president and general manager of Nova Scotia Forest Industries in Port Hawkesbury, N. S.

In 1987 the University of Maine conferred an honorary doctor of science degree upon Dr. Grotterod who holds a degree in mechanical engineering from McGill University.

Gordon Baskerville, dean of forestry at UNB, looks forward to the positive repercussions that Dr. Grotterod's presence will have on the faculty. "An executive-in-residence makes us more aware of how industry view problems and deals with them. This knowledge will not only help us to prepare research proposals, but also will help us structure the whole forestry program and the way we teach. The ultimate result will be to graduate professionals who can move comfortably from the university environment into the corporate world."

Dr. Grotterod will give several lectures and seminars in the faculties of forestry, engineering and administration. His purpose is not to teach courses but to enrich those being taught by others.

"I want to provide the students with an industrial viewpoint and give them the opportunity to understand better what they'll get into after graduating," said Dr. Grotterod. "They need to know how industry works, what the problems and opportunities are, and how to deal with the environment and politics within an organization."

In addition to his input in the classroom, Dr. Grotterod will be available as a consultant for both students and faculty members. Those wishing to contact Dr. Grotterod may reach him at (506) 453-4501. His office is located in room 101a of the new forestry building on the Fredericton campus.

New Talent '89

By Allan Carter

NEW TALENT '89 is one of the biggest art exhibitions ever sponsored by the Creative Arts committee and the UNB Art centre. This exhibition, which is put on every year at Memorial Hall, is open to any interested full-time students from UNB and STU. This year's exhibition was judged in three different categories, Poetry, Visual Arts and Music. The judging took place February 5th and the prizes were $75, $50, and $25.

From a field of fifteen writers, winners in the Poetry section were Kwame Dawes, Brent Dinsmore and Eric Hill.

Visual Arts winners were Barbara Bovaird, Troy Cole, and Huang Tang. Troy Cole entered the first sculpture the exhibition has ever seen. It is a free-standing iron-made sculpture of Atlas presenting a stylized cube. Other art composing the Visual Arts category is pencil, pen, and ink drawings, charcoal drawings, fabric, and photography, some presented on slides.

Music winners were Kirsten Burgess, Chris Crawford, and Kevin McGraw. The music is displayed written or it may be heard on tape.

Katherine Hicks, a student who keeps an eye on the art world feels "that the Art exhibition is receiving much support from the public and generally there is a fairly good turnout of people each day to view the works." Students are also active in organizing the exhibition. Two student 'monitors' during public hours are Perry Constantine, and Connie Holland.

Micheal Laulor, the intern curator and the judge for Visual Arts says there is "a lot of technical skill and talent" presented this year and "the question now is whether or not they are going to develop that talent further". He stated there "have been people (students) who entered in past years, that have gone on to become professional artists."

The main reason for the exhibition is the absence of a Fine Arts faculty at either university. This gives others an opportunity to see the student's work. "The public seems to enjoy it," says Mr. Laulor, "and feel it is time well spent."

The Exhibition is closed Saturday, February 18, but is open on its last day, Sunday the 19th, from 2 pm until 4 pm.

Other judges were Arlene Pach, a residence musician, and Prof. Robert Gibbs of the English department.

NEW TALENT '89 is an interesting and aspiring Art exhibition. It displays the skill and talent of artists, writers and musicians from the university population.

Annual Car Rally

By Julie Hirschfeld

On February 18, the Fredericton Motorsport Club is presenting the 29th edition of its annual Winter Carnival Navigational Car Rally. The deadline for entries is Tuesday February 14. Late registration will take place the day of the event at 1:00 pm at the City Motel on Regent Street.

Alvin Ashfield the WC Rally organizer says that "I have had several serious inquiries from university students and am looking forward to several entries."

The Rally has a long history, being held annually since 1960. Through the years it has been classed as a club event, a regional event and now a national national event.

A navigational rally is designed to be run at legal speeds over public roads, following a route given out at the start. Checkpoints located along the route keep up with the competitors' progress.

A crew of two can enter in any kind of vehicle and no special training is necessary. A $15.00 entry fee is all that is required to participate. There will be classes for both the experienced and the novice. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded to the winners.

"It's going to be great fun", says Mr. Ashfield, "and we hope that many university students will come out and enjoy it."

For entry information, call Alvin Ashfield at 450-2949.