STORY OF SPLENDID BOYS. -Let me tell you about three splendid THE' SUMMER RULE. - Every THE SUMMER RULE, - Every way in which houses and apartments can be made more comfortable dur-ing the heated term should be stud-ied and achieved, if possible. One wo-man, who has room enough for the purpose, replaces the heavy uphol-stered furniture of the living-room of the city home in May every year with light wicker and rattan furni-ture, storing the sets punsed through boys I knew once on a time. Their father died, and their dear mother was left to bring them up and to earn the money with which to do it. So these young fellows set in to help her. By taking a few boarders, doing the work herself, and practicing strict economy, this blessed woman ture, storing the sets unused through kept out of debt, and gave each of strict economy, this blessed woman kept out of debt, and gave each of her sons a thorough college educa-tion. But if they hadn't worked like beavers to help her sbe never could have done it. Her oldest boy-only 14- treated his mother as if she were the girl he loved best. He took the heavy jobs of housework off her hands, put on his big apron and went to work with a will; washed the potatoes, pounded the clothes, ground the coffee, wait-ed on table-did anything and every-thing that he could coax her to let him do, and the two younger ones followed his example right along. Those boys never wasted their mo-ther's money on tobacco, beer or cards. They kept at work and found any amount of pleasure in it. They were happy, jolly boys, too, full of fun, and everybody not only liked, happy, jolly boys, too, full of son sees the gas ranges and stoves and everybody not only liked. improved and simplified until even respected and admirred them. All the average kitchen maid is becom-girls in town praised them, and on't know any better fortune for oy than to be praised by good s, nor anything that boys like of the year.

They all married noble and true They all married noble and true women, and to-day one of those boys is president of a college, goes to Eu-rope every year almost, and is in de-mand for every good word and work; another lives in one of the most ele-gant houses in Evanston, and is my "beloved physician," while a third is a well-to-do wholesale grocer in Pueblo, Col., and a member of the City Council. because the average stew is opounded of cooked meat, which com that any number of you are good and in at night you forget to say "Good evening, sir." Sometimes when mo-ther has been shopping, and passes you on the corner, carrying a parcel, you do not step up and say, "Let me carry that for, you, mother," but keep on playing with the other boys. Sometimes when mother or sister is doing something for you, you call out. "Come, hurry up!" just as jf you were speaking to one of your boy companions. Sometimes when you are rushing out to play, and meet a lady friend of mother's just coming in at the door, you do not lift your cap from your head, nor wait a moment till she has passed in.

is nearly over, takes the letters to the post when the post office is clos-ed, is still asleep when she ought to have been at work, is at work when it is time for her to be in bed. In this way all her occupations get in-to confusion, and every one who has to do with her is put out. People who never keep time seldom succeed in life, the world leaves them on one side, and all they do is to swell the ranks of the d'scontented. Do not put off till evening what you can and ought to do in the morning; do not turn the day's work into night work; if you want a walk, but it is not ne-cessary for you to go out, wait for a more convenient time. night you tore up that last will and testament I paid the lawyer $50 to draw up." "Why, Pat," replied Nora, "that is onl' a black street dress and its awfully cheap." "Yes. dear," he answered, "I don't know about the goods, but you was in it—and if it hadn't been for you I wouldn't be here now to see you walking up the aisle all in white with the bride's veil hiding your heautiful face. We'll keep the old black dress won't we dear." As a matter of course the blushing bride said "Yes." And then—well the organ played the sweetest of all sweet marches, and they walked up to the chancel rail. Five minutes later Nora was Mr. Flaherty's wile and Mr. Flaherty was at peace with all the word and really in love with his own wile. Do you blame him?—J- Tanner, in the Intermountain Catholic.

A Priest's Story.

This story was related by the late Father Smulders, C.S.S.R., whilst in New Orleans, of a colored man who came to a watchmaker and gave him two hands of a clock, saying : "I before I quit using them I was feel-ing better and stronger than I had done for years. Every symptom of the weakness that had followed ia grippe was gone, and my back which had bothered me for so many years was almost as strong as in boyhood. I have since done many a hard day's work, and been exposed to bad wea-ther. but without any evil effects, and I can truly say Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored me to vigor-ous manhood." ous manhood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure such Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure such cases as the one noted above because they create new, rich, red blood, thus strengthening weak and shatter-ed nerves. They do not purge and weaken like other medicines, but strengthen from the first dose to the last.
