"August Flower"

What is
It for?
This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is August Flower for?" As easily answered as asked: "It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this trifling.
We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

GENERAL NEWS.
Since the organization of Yale College 15,300 students have graduated, of whom 7,800 are living.

London devours every year 400,000 oxen, 1,600,000 sheep, 500,000 calves, 400,000 hogs, fowls innumerable, and 9,800,000 gallons of milk.

A novel electric locomotive has been out in France. The engine generates its own electricity. It carries a boiler and steam engine. The latter is coupled direct to a dynamo. The current is led from the latter to four motors, each locomotive axle having a separate motor.

The Steamer Vega, which arrived at New York last week, from Lisbon, brought the orang outang and black mandrill purchased by United States showmen. The orang was captured last January in Papua, an island of the Eastern Archipelago. It was captured in the wilds of this extensive island, and is a veritable monster, and said to be the only black adult in captivity in the world. It could not be brought to this country earlier on account of the winter climate. The animals arrived in good condition.

An unparalleled mistake has just been discovered at the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary. It is nothing more nor less than the President Cleveland has pardoned the wrong man. That man is Will Skinner, a moonshiner from northern Alabama, whose pardon arrived Monday morning. The mistake was caused by the fact that two brothers, Will and Jack, were sent up at the same time for the same offense and for the same length of time, 18 months. The authorities at Washington, by a singular mistake, made out a pardon for Jack, but got Will's name on it and the latter is now free.

Don't do it at the wrong time. Never ask a subscription of a hungry man; never try to interest a man in Foreign Missions when he is chafing after a train; and never make a morning call on a woman in the midst of house-cleaning, whose husband is sick, whose girl has left her, and whose baby has just swallowed a button and you are a bottle of ink, and endeavor to enlist her sympathies in behalf of a poor woman who wants to go to Vassar.

Don't do it at the wrong place. Never try to entertain a bank teller at his window; never take advantage of a fearful man; never get a young couple together to arrange for a sojourn; never inject your views on second probation, or the seventh chapter of Romans, in the midst of the business meeting; never take a beam out of your neighbor's eye when there's a crowd looking on. You might get a cinder in your own.

Don't try to please before you walk.
Don't be in too great a hurry to show Methusalem how the thing should be done. The world was here ages before you came, and never knew you were coming. It will be here ages after you have gone away and maybe it won't know you were here. Hold up your head and step high; that's right. But keep close enough to the earth—which is the humble planet the rest of us inhabit—to have something to put your foot on when you set it down.

Don't sing long-time hymns to common metre tunes: "Who does? Oh, long older and wiser and more experienced than you youngsters. I have heard common-metre sermons preached from long-metre texts by short-metre preachers, to peculiar-metre congregations, and the effect is a fudge that makes the organ shudder. Keep your ears open and you'll catch yourself at one of these days, unless you should die a great deal younger than you are now.

THREE GATES.
If you are tempted to reveal A tale some one to you has told About another, make it pass.
Before you speak, three gates of gold.
These narrow gates—First 'tis truth That is the needful; in your mind Give truthful answer. And the next Is last and narrowest: 'tis its kind!

THE BIG CAMPANIA
NEW YORK CROWDS ADMIRING THE NEW CUNARD—SOME NOVELTIES IN HER MACHINERY.
[New York Sun, May 1st.]
The New Cunard Campania, which arrived on Saturday evening and anchored over night below Liberty Island, came up at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and was warped slowly into her dock. After her passengers had left her the Cunard pier was closed and nobody was permitted to board her, or even to look at her except from the street bulkheads, which were fringed with folks from everywhere in the neighborhood from sunrise until sunset. Everybody was impressed by her bigness and her grace. Her huge funnels, 21 feet in diameter, caused more wonder than any of the other gigantic things about her. All her big boilers could be packed into one of her funnels. The Cunard's new, where the forward lookout is stationed, is 100 feet above the water. Here, on clear days, the lookout can see 15 miles.

A late copy of the London Weekly Tribune, brought over on the Campania, tells some interesting things about her. It says—As boats have increased in size and power the test of the measured mile has become of less value, and at times inconvenient to those who happen to be on the shores at the time of trial.
A vessel of the size of the Campania, driving through the water at a rate approaching 27 statute miles an hour, produces a wave that plays havoc with the fore-shore; so, after making one or two runs on the first days of the trials, with results of about a knot more than the contract, the Skeeltonic mile was abandoned for the long distance trials. Frequent runs between the Clock light and the Cumberland gave over 22 knots, and a longer run, round Alisa Craig, approaching 25 knots, or 27 1/2 statute miles.
The Umbria, when tried on the mile on Oct. 9, 1884, made 20.18 knots, so that the Campania may be taken to be at least 2 1/2 knots faster. It is found as speed is increased that the disparity between smooth water and Atlantic steaming is lessened, provided the hulls of the boats are properly fashioned to deal with heavy weather.

The 12 large boilers, double-ended and having furnaces in each end, are 18 feet in diameter and 17 feet long. They are to a pressure of 165 pounds to the square inch, have been tested to double that pressure, and have, all told, 102 furnaces. They are, as all almost everything in the boat is, the largest yet made. The coal consumption involves a supply of 2,900 tons for the journey, and bank ers have a capacity of 3,500 tons. Of course, at slower speeds much less would be required.

The space occupied by the Campania's engines is not greater than that required by some of very much less power, and it has been found possible to pack into the hull of the Campania two sets of engines, side by side, each of which is greater in power than the engines of the Umbria, and at the same time to provide ample and even large space for access to every part of them. The pistons, piston rods, and connecting rods of the engines weigh about 120 tons. They have a stroke of 69 inches, and at 81 revolutions, the normal speed of the engines, this enormous weight is moved a distance of nearly 1,000 feet each minute. The crank shaft is 26 inches in diameter, and each of the three interchangeable parts weigh 27 tons. These, with the thrust shaft, 14 feet long, make up a total of 110 tons for each crank shaft. The propeller shaft is 24 inches in diameter and is fitted in lengths of 24 feet, each length having two bearings, and the thrust block is fitted with 14 rings. The propellers are three-bladed, and each blade weighs eight tons, or 48 tons in all. A great novelty in this part of the machinery consists in the addition of what is described as an emergency governor. In the event of a fracture of the propeller shaft, or upon anything occurring which would result in the "racing" of the screw beyond, say, 130 revolutions per minute, the governor will act upon the reversing gear, place the eccentric links into mid gear, and thus stop the engines. This novelty has been designed to prevent such a catastrophe as that which occurred in the engine room of the Paris three years ago.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—South American Rheumatic Cure. In Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cured in remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits 75 cents. Warranted by

What are You Doing.
The number of persons committed to prison in Ontario in 1888 was 12,484; of that number 8,722 were females.
The Massachusetts Bureau of Labor has come to the conclusion that 84 per cent, of all the crimes committed in the State during the period of twenty years was caused directly and indirectly by liquor.

Reader, what are you doing to stay this tide of Intemperance that is sweeping over our land, and wrecking in its onward rushing course the fondest hopes of many a heart, burying beneath its relentless waves the poor and the rich, the ignorant and the learned, men of genius and of influence, and having its wake strewn with degradation and misery, heart-broken widows and waiting orphans? Are you sitting with folded hands looking idly on, and in effect saying, "What is that to me? Ah, it is much to you. It may seem as nothing to-day, but on the morrow that tide, rising higher and higher may cross the threshold of your home, and the dearest idol of your heart, as yet beyond your controlling influence, be wrecked body and soul. Why then sit you idle?
Up and be doing. There is a great work for you to do. Will you not commence at once! Oh! that some voice coming from a heart warmed and filled with true charity, with pity for the tempted and fallen, could rouse you to a true sense of your responsibility, and make you realize that an all-wise Judge will call you to an account, and ask what you did to save your tempted, fallen, being from the terrible course of Intemperance.

Bishop Foster, of the Methodist Church, United States, says: "If the Church will stand together one day at the ballot box, the liquor traffic will not stand one hour." Why does she not do so?

Mr. Mackay, the elect of the McOrrie Parish church, at a temperance demonstration in Glasgow, said he never had admitted, and never would admit a drunkard to Church membership. He would say to the drink-seller, "Make your choice; stand inside the Church with Christ and his people, or go outside with the devil and drink." Is any other position consistent with the law of Christ?

The Total Abstinence.
Young men are learning the every day commercial value of temperance.
The "good fellow" man is he who stays at the larder's foot, and his comrades profit by that object lesson. In no walk of life are the higher paths open if they were, not so very long ago, to the man who drinks. Business men, professional men, look upon an employee's convivial habits as a menace to themselves. What once found ready excuse now suffers not even toleration. And that is the reason common sense is every day forwarding the cause of practical temperance.—Kansas City Times.
