York city there was a skirmish and a lot of shooting between the police and a gang of railway thieves. On Ward's Island a prison keeper kicked in two ribs of a helpless pauper. A man named Cunningham committed suicide by jumping into East River. A servant girl committed suicide by hanging herself with a clothes line. In Arizona Territory an Indian who was in prison for murder, stabbed his wife to death in his cell, and was immediately shot dead by another Indian. In Philadelphia the wife of a merchant, on account of a domestic quarrel, swallowed a dose of laudanum, on hearing which the husband attempted to drown himself in the Delaware River, but was rescued. At Troy, N. Y., a father and son were burned to death in a barn which had been fired by some tramps. At a horse race near Auburn a jockey was killed by a runaway horse. Out in Iowa the notorious Barber brothers were taken from prison by a mob and lynched after a desperate fight. Down in Vicksburg a negro was murdered in prison by a gang of lynchers. In North Carolina a father and son named Shields killed a man named Sitton because he had in the latest stellife of these, In the same State, during the course of a murder trial, two negro witnesses were sent to prison for perjury. In Georgia, another negro, on returning home, after witnessing an execution, gave his wife and child such a terrible hacking that they are probably dead by this time. In Reading, Pa., two highwaymen were captured and sent to prison. In Kansas City a theatrical manager was shot dead by a newspaper reporter. At St. Louis a murderer named Whitney was lynched. HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer. The Crimes of a Day.

The New York papers of the 9th inst. were anything but pleasant reading, except for those persons who have a taste for tales of bloodshed and crime. Murder, robbery, hanging, suicide, lynching, perjury, almost every crime in the calendar is mentioned, and the details of each case published in full. Column after column is laden with the terrible narratives, which most painfully set forth "the wrong and outrage with which earth is fill'd." Without attempting to enter into the details a glance at the head-lines will be sufficient to show the number and nature of these recorded crimes. In New York city there was a skirmish and a lot crimes such as larcenies, burglaries, assaults, etc. There is no doubt much to be admired and much that is good in the American system of government, but there must also be something wrong when one day produces such a crop of crime.

A bulkhead running in an unbroken line from bow to stern would do more to strengthen a vessel than any other device, and this or some other means of overcoming their great defect must be adopted. In a great many cases, however, if the ordinary bulk-heads were constructed as they should be, and properly attended to, the result of a collision would not be what it has been of late. When the question of safety is compared with speed alone the latter good quality, even in this age is of secondary importance, and should be looked upon in that light.

very materially, and the intention of the company is to reduce the time of the passage to five days at sea. The terminal points of the line are to be Milford Haven, the great harbor on the west coast of Wales, and Montauk Bay, the most easterly point of Long Island, and they thus intend to combine the fastest of ocean steamers, with shortness of distance and the best possible railway time. There appears to be but little doubt that they will by this means be enabled to reduce the time necessary to cross the ocean by at least twenty-four hours. An enormous amount of ingenuity has been expended of late, in endeavors on the part of inventors to increase the speed of ocean steamers by transferring them into monstrosities, such as the luckless cigar ship "Meteor," and a perfect host of double and treble ships, not forgetting those that were to walk and roll upon the waters, have been proposed. In the past, however, every increase in speed and efficiency has been obtained, not by any great and wonderful discovery, but by long experiment and a steadily increasing knowledge of the principle of flotation, and the results of the past can in this case be looked upon as an exceedingly good forecast of the future. While increased speed is a great gain, it should not and must not be obtained at the cost of a decrease in safety. Recent events have proved that the modern steam vessel be built far more strongly even than their sides, and if these new steam vessels are to be successful they must be so built as to be unsinkable even if cut into two danger from collision, but it must be added that steam has greatly reduced the loss of life and property from the other dangers of the sea. The weak point in modern steam vessels arises not from their model but from their construction Their enormous size makes it doubly necessary that their water tight bulkheads should be built far more strongly even than their CHARREN
