Mr. Errington has informed a pondent that he is about to leave the but he declines to explain the reason contemplated departure, or how leave to be about to supplement this dry information that he will leave the about the anouncement that he will leave the anouncement that he will leave the anouncement that he will leave the supplement that he will be su abled to supplement this dry informately by the announcement that he will leave in disfavor with the Vatican, if not absolute disgrace. For a long time past the strength of an open letter of remendation granted him by Lord Granat his own express solicitation, Erringmanaged to dazzle the eyes of the Vatofficials, and even the Pope himself, deall the disavowals of the English Granett. It is perfectly true that he attent the Vatican reception with the cardinates same footing as a properly normal ambassador. Recently, at diplomatiners, he same state the Vatican master of ners, he sat next the Vatican master of monies, immediately after the cardinal ambassadors. He has, however, overrehimself in trying to overreach the Co and with his vaulting ambition of fallen. On the other hand, I have ind recent letter from the Propagar the recent letter from the Propagan the Irish bishops was communicated dir or indirectly to the Loudon Times by Errington, who had a copy of the lett-his pocket before Archbishop Croke no other prelate received theirs. The im-ance of this fact cannot be overrated, certain that but for Mr. Errington's indiscretion and breach of confidence letter would never have been published in the semi-official Moniteur. Car in the semi-official Moniteur. Carlo Jacobini and the Pope are both deeply; censed at what is, to say the least, a graoffence against ecclesiastical etiquette is doubtful whether the amateur dul-mill be pardoned.
