Looks Ominous.

It is to be hoped that the strike at Southampton is not the beginning of that gigantic maritime strife which has been threatened for many months past. It would be a pity to mar the Coronation rejoicing by a great international strike which would tie up the chief shipping of the world. Its effect might be far-reaching, for not only would those passing to and from along the sea ways be inconvenienced, but it might have the effect of driving food prices in Great Britain to famine rates. For it must be remembered that Great Britain is dependant almost wholly on sea borne traffic for its food. What might happen in war if the sea-ways were not maintained by a supreme British Navy, may be demonstrated convincingly by a great maritime strike.

The horrors of the cotton famine are not yet forgotten in South Lancashire, where millions were kept out of work, because of the cutting off of the supply of raw cotton grown on American cotton fields for the Lancashire cotton mills. This occurred when the North blockaded the ports of the Southern States in the Civil War. It may demonstrate to Great Britain the risk of depending so much on the outside world for that which keeps up its vitality and feeds its millions.

M. G. B. Parade.

The largest number of the Methodist Guards Brigade has come time paraded in the armoury last night. A number of gentlemen sympathizers with the Corps were present, and at the conclusion of drill the lads were addressed by Major Hutchings, who denied the rumor that had been circulated to the effect that the Guards would disband owing to the inter-brigade dispute. We hear that innovations will be made which will add greatly to the strength and efficiency of the Guards.

Not Salts, Oil or Pills But 'Cascarets'

No odds how sick your Stomach; how hard your head aches or how Bilious—Cascarets make you feel great.

Cascarets act as a bowel tonic, not as an irritant. They are vegetable. Their action is natural. Their effect is the same as the effect of some foods. They are gentle; no gripping. They are pleasant; no dreading. They are convenient; no waiting.

One old way was castor oil. The effect was to grease the bowels, and for a single day. Oil never causes the bowel muscles to act. Other ways were pills, salts and cathartics. The effect was the same as pepper in the nostrils. They flooded the bowels with fluid. Those fluids were digestive juices. And the waste to-day means a lack to-morrow.

We knew that the method was wrong. That the after-effects only weakened the bowels. But we had no gentle laxative in the old days. So we waited as long as we could, then took a big dose of physic. The method to-day is to take one Cascaret at a time—just as soon as you need it. Then the bowels are always clean. They cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store.

The very latest in English Silver. No trouble to choose the Wedding or other Gift. Prices to suit all pockets. Just opening at TRAPNELL'S.—June 10, 11.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

The king sits high on his nobby throne, and knights and ladies of high degree will smile or blush at his highest tone and bow and grovel and bend the knee. There's glowing splendor on ever hand, CORONATION it is a stirring and dazzling scene; and peers and princes of every land have come to jolly the king and queen. But the face of the monarch is sad and worn—the face of a man who has seldom laughed; perhaps he thinks it a thing to mourn that he was called to the reigning graft. Perhaps he envies the man who digs the man who dwells in a humble cot, with his muley cow and his bunch of pigs and his apple tree and his garden plot. He may have dreams of a quiet life, after from diamonds and thrones and silk, with his barefoot kids and his happy wife, who sings while skimming the morning milk. To ride to town on a load of hay and get two pun at the village scales may seem far better than holding sway o'er England, Scotland, and Cork and Wales. To live your life in the blinding glare that beats for aye on a throne and crown—ah, better to ride on an old roan mare, and carry three dozen of eggs to town! The faces of kings are always sad, their eyes are heavy, their whippers gray; their souls are sick of the reigning fad—they'd like to ride on a load of hay.

Dreadful Accident.

Passengers who arrived by the s.s. Fogota this morning tell of a dreadful accident that occurred to James Lane, of Pool's Island, last Tuesday. He was out shooting sea birds in a punt with Thos. Wick and Missach Down. He had the gun cocked lying on the thwart. He was in the act of hauling his oar across to take up the gun and fire at a bird when the motion of the boat brought the hammer in contact with the side of the thwart and striking it down on the cap the gun went off. The contents, a heavy load of bird shot, entered his back just below the right hip. His companions thought at first that he was killed. He swooned, but recovered when they gave him a drink. They then stripped the wound, weather turned very cold and the wounded man suffered terribly from the cold. He had to be lifted out of the boat like a dead body. He was taken to his home and Dr. Smith and Dr. Jamieson were both called. After working two hours over him they succeeded in extracting the bullet. He was all the shot. They dressed the wound, and Thursday when the Fogota was coming back the crew heard that Lane was doing well and had a good chance of recovery. The doctors said that the effects of the chill on the long return journey was almost as bad in its results as the shot wounds.

Diana From the Straits

The S. S. Diana, Capt. Jos. Blandford, arrived here from the straits at midnight. The ship left Monday week and had partly fine weather on the run down. She met the heavy arctic ice midway between Baccallen and Green Bay on to Groat's Islands, and took the run inside thus avoiding the necessity of penetrating the ice. The ice extended down to Red Bay and she reached Blanc Sablon on Friday the 2nd inst., leaving Lance au Loup on the return run on Wednesday at 2 p.m. She had a good run up and called at Wesleyville yesterday where she took a new motor launch in tow for Mr. Tasker Cook. She met some schooners going down the straits near Blanc Sablon and also passed the Beothic in the straits. She forced through about 30 miles of ice coming back between Red Bay and the south of Groat's Islands. She landed 260 fishermen for Job Bros. at Lance au Loup, Forteau, Greenly Island and Isle au Bois, and reports that cod has not yet made its appearance in that section.
