"Do It Now!"

BY RUTH CAMERON.

net. Do it now and you'll do it: do it tomorrow and you won't do it. You promised me when I gave you the money to fix up that coop that you were going to make a success of this, and you know I told you that you'd never make a success of this or anything else until you learn to do things now, not 'pretty soon' or 'to-morrow'.

"Come, son," as he still hesitated, "you can have that letter ready for the noon mail, and you ought to get the bulletins by next week."

The prospect of quick results kindled the boy's enthusiasm and he disappeared into the house. "I suppose it was a little thing to make so much of," his mother apologized, "but it isn't the bulletins I care about. What I want is to help him to learn to do things at once."

It certainly didn't seem to me "a little thing to make so much of." I wish there were more mothers like her. If there were, there would be more efficient citizens in the world.

To my mind, the two most valuable habits from the point of view of efficiency are the habit of concentration and the habit of doing-it-now. Give a man with great talent and without these habits, and a man of less ability but possessed of them, and I think the latter would win out very time.

Any man or woman who has the do-it-now habit will make twice as much of himself or herself as without it, and the best thing is that it's never too late to acquire it and never too early to help your children acquire it.

Special to The Evening Telegram.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.

General Felix Diaz, who arrived here to-day from London, says that all reports received by him concerning the prospects of his election to the Presidency of Mexico are favorable. He believed the chances of his election were good. He says that he expects Huerta will be neutral and expresses the utmost confidence in his own ability to restore order in Mexico, in case he should be elected. He declares any strong President can do so. He refused to express any opinion concerning President Wilson's policy, saying he was with information on the subject. He reiterated that he had no political mission in Berlin.

MONTAUBAN, Sept. 4.
Small flocks of military aeroplanes, steered by French aviators, are now on the wing from every point of France to this centre, where they will gather in great numbers to take part in the autumn manoeuvres, which start on Sept. 9th. Upwards of 100 flying machines of various kinds are to be attached to the armies, the greater part of which, comprising 100,000 men, of all arms, are concentrated along a parallelogram running from Montauban to Agen on the north and from Auch to Toulouse on the south. President Poincaré with a brilliant staff will attend. British and other military attaches will be present.

SIGMARINGEN, Germany, September 4.
Manuel, former King of Portugal, was married here to-day to Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of Prince William Hohenzollern. The religious rites began at 11.30 a.m. The road to the Roman Catholic Parish Church, over which the bridal party passed from the palace, was covered with flowers. On both sides soldiers and school children were drawn up.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.
Wood pulp and paper, destined for the United States but transhipped at some intermediary point, will be admitted from all European countries having favored nation treaties with the United States. Assistant Attorney General Denison, passing upon the question, raised by Norway and Sweden, to-day advised Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that such shipment was legal.

ROME, Sept. 4.
The general condition of Pope Pius is good, according to his doctors. They think that though he is troubled by an occasional cough he will be able easily to overcome the affection and will be assisted by the favorable climatic conditions now prevailing.

BREIT, Germany, Sept. 4.
Two officers of the German Army flying corps were killed here in an aeroplane accident to-day.

Bay de Verde Jubilant!

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The news that Sir Robert Bond will assume Command-in-Chief of the Battle of the Ballots at the ensuing general election, has electrified the whole District of Bay de Verde, from Freshwater to Grate's Cove.

We did not doubt the return of the Opposition candidates, but with Sir Robert Bond leading the united forces of the Opposition, victory is doubly certain for the Opposition candidates. We have been anticipating this happy condition of matters and now that we experience the realization of our fondest hopes, a jubilant feeling prevails.

The news has cast a gloom over the few hard-shelled Tories. They realize their days for family grants, hush grants, graft and boodle are numbered.

Bay de Verde is determined to show that unscrupulous politician J. C. Crosbie, that they will no longer be fooled into voting for one who would, assassin-like, incite desperados to acts of violence and lawlessness.

We would warn Crosbie that certain contemptible actions of his are known and although we don't intend to kick him over the wharf, in a more effective way he will be kicked into his political grave. If he contests Bay de Verde district in November, Victory for the Liberal-Union candidates is certain, and all Grabbals will get their true deserts from the hands of an outraged but determined electorate.

Bay de Verde, UNION MAN.

Dyspepsia

Dyspepsia is a periodical upsetting of the digestive apparatus which is succeeded by a lively sense of remorse and a determination to Fletcher everything on the menu, from oysters to ice cream. It is caused by the food running in to a sharp pain and calling loudly for help, and is harder to cure than the habit of tipping up the soup bowl.

The two things which give the medical profession more trouble than anything else are dyspepsia and bad bills. Very few doctors are able to recognize dyspepsia at the first glance, but are just as liable as not to prescribe for dislocation of the hip. When a man who is entertaining a sad-eyed attack of dyspepsia gets to his family physician and is treated a few times for water on the knee cap without securing any practical results except a statement made out on four sheets of foolscap paper, he will lose faith in medicine and allow the osteopath to play a few lively tunes on his spine.

Dyspepsia is generally preceded by a premonition that something is about to occur that cannot be relieved by anything except slow starvation. A man will go along for years eating mayonnaise salads, prime ribs of beef au jus, hot biscuit and superheated panaches, in a trifling, care-free manner, when all of a sudden, he will pause in the middle of an apple dumpling and exchange words with a new kind of pain. This is the first stage of dyspepsia, and is always succeeded by a milk and egg diet or the genial influences of the mud bath.

Whenever a physician focuses a case of dyspepsia he advocates a change of climate and advises the patient to eat nothing that tastes like food. Dyspepsia has a very enervating effect upon the appetite, and will reduce it to the point where it can flirt with anything but the malted milk tablet. It is a disheartening sight to see a tall, broad-shouldered captain of industry leading his appetite up to a capful of bouillon and two soda crackers, just prior to going out and applying the screws to the ultimate consumer, but this is a form of retribution which nobody should complain about.

The Sleeping Babe.

By Thos. R. DeLaney.
Sleep on, fair child of God, sleep on.
Peace shines from thy soul;
Asleep on a mother's tender breast
Breathing accents of thy goal.

Sleep, for a world is thine
In rest of ignorance supreme;
And through the day, the night
Thine eyes are closed in unknown dream.

And dost thou not behold those angels near
Guarding thee, the while?
Asleep, fast, fast asleep in undeveloped sense,
Thou'st speakest not, but I have seen thy smile.

How lovingly and tenderly cradled, too
A son, a daughter, with maternal care;
Dear babe, how well for thee
Creator God has left His image there.

Sleep, pure infant, sleep,
And who is there that cannot feel
Gazing 'pon loved baby's face
Fond embrace?
Tucked neatly in a cot, or in a mother's
"God embrace?"

Blessed one from on high,

To MESSRS. C. F. BENNETT & CO.,
Agents Phoenix Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn.

Gentlemen,—I beg to tender you my most sincere thanks for your liberality and promptitude in settling my claim for loss sustained by the recent fire which occurred at New Gower Street on Thursday morning, the 29th inst.

Your readiness to meet my claim and the liberal manner in which your representative acted have greatly relieved me and have tended to lighten the burden which would otherwise have been heavy.
