Pens were not affected to so great an extent, the decline being only 3c, in sympathy, doubt-dess, with outside markets.

The falling off in beans was caused by lower values outside; $\frac{1}{2}$ was the top price at the close of the week for best quality; ordinary unnicked samples about $50 per bushel.

Barley receipts were light, some proor grades selling down to $0 and $2c; bright lots ran up to $\frac{5}{2}$ per 100 pounds.

Wheat was in good demand, and sales ranged from $70 to $8c by the standard bushel and from $\frac{5}{2}$ to $15 to $150.

Oats were in fair supply, and the demand was steady; sales at 90c to 95c, the latter for extra dry.

A New Daily in Chatham

A New Daily in Chatham.

The Planet has made a long stride ahead by publishing a daily edition in Chatham, commencing on Saturday last. It may not be the Planet's blame that the Saturday edition did not reach this office until yesterday morning, but if the number was promptly mailed, the Government it supports is behind the times in the matter of promptitude. The Planet daily is a very creditable production. Its contents are newsy and its typography is excellent. The Banner is a splendid weekly, and if its publisher leaves the daily field in possession of the Planet, the new venture should succeed.

Result of Indulging in Strong Drink.

Belleville, Dec. 24.—John Seargeant, of Kingsford, had a terrible experience in Tyendinaga township a few nights ago. He was returning home from Lonsdale considerably under the influence of liquor. When some six miles from home he tied his horse to the fence, and going into S. Ford's barn disrobed himself and went to sleep on the floor. The night was intensely cold, and the next morning Seargent was for a time scarcely able to move. He contrived to walk home, when a doctor was called in. One foot was amputated at the instep, and the other leg was taken off at the ankle. Afterwards two more inches had to be taken off, and now the victim of his own imprudence will likely die. He was at one time'an ordained minister, and was well educated. In a few years his wife will fall heir to $60,000.

Einding-Twine in Fodder.

A correspondent writes: Please say that I lost a $250 calf by bindingtwine. It is true the twine was not cut up; the calf chewed it up out of its bedding, but I caunot think it a safe article of diet. Why not have the twine removed before putting straw in cutting box? I will give my experience for what it is worth. The calf in question was a heifer, if was months old. She began to droop, and then to purge violently, as though from acute in digestion, and then, by degrees, wasted away, and, after some weeks, died in great pain. She was so perfectly free from every other symptom of disease that I hoped to save her up to the last, and, when she died. I had her opened. In her stomach was over a yard of binding-twine, which had evidently produced constant irritation of stomach and bowels. No other possible cause of death was present, though the examination was made by a first-class veterinary surgeon.
