Amazons of Ulster---Ready For War

Here are some real militants, perhaps the first of the kind the world has ever known. The upper picture shows a company of women drilling in Belfast, determined to take their part at the front of a battle over Home Rule results. The women drill every evening with Sir Edward Carson's masculine defenders, and have displayed a sense of military tactics that is amazing. Below the women of the signal corps—yes, they have organized all departments of an army-are practicing with their apparatus.

GROOMING THE RAINBOW FOR VANCOUVER ROW

Hull Had To Be Strengthened Before She Could Sail From Esquimalt.

VICTORIA, July 20.—The cruiser Rainbow is preparing to leave at midnight for Vancouver, after taking aboard her new crew.

Because of the present state of the hull of the Rainbow there was some doubt expressed at the navy yard in Esquimault this morning that the vessel will be able to sail for Vancouver to take a hand in the quieting of the apery Hindus on hoard ing of the angry Hindus on board the Komagata Maru.

Following the receipt of orders rom the naval department at Otjtawa to have the cruiser Rainbow provisioned and made ready to proceed to Vancouver at a moment's notice, the coaling wharf at Esqui-mault presented this morning a scene of much animation. Bluejackets and longshoremen were busy getting the ship ready. Several divers donned their suits and went below to look over the bottom of the cruiser. She has been riding at her buoy for some months, and her hull is very dirty and a slight leak was discovered. The submarine workers removed some of the sea growth and repaired the hull in good shape.

Upon her return from Vancouver the Rainbow, if she survives the fight with the Hindus, will be placed in drydock for repairs and a thorough overhauling made, and will then proceed to Behring Sea to execute the patrol in compliance with the international sealing treaty. naval volunteers will join her for the

VIME. CAILLAUX'S DRAMATIC STORY

Thrilling Recital On Stand by Principal in Great Parisian Trial.

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, July 20 .- Mme. Henriette Caillaux, the wife of Jos. Caillaux, once Premier of France, and former minister of finance, occupied the prisoner's enclosure in the Assize court at the Palace of justice today, and recited in dramatic manner the circumstances. leading up to the shooting of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, with whose murder on March 16 she is charged.

It was only after she had concluded her narrative, and was asked, if there was anything she would like to add that she cast restraint aside, and with accents of genuine emotion thrilled her listeners and elicited mu-murs of applause. Then she described vividly the protracted agony she had endured because of the calumnies against herself and her husband.

Feared For Her Name. "For three months I mounted Calvary," she said. "Such I do not wish to my worst enemy. No one can imagine what I went through. I feared for myself, for my husband, for my child. I feared for myself, because if part of those letters were published, the world rather than have been the my deepest innermost secret would be displayed before the world, my woman honor stand stripped and naked. "I had always been taught that a woman's honor consisted in having her life as open as possible. I was reared by aged parents. 'My father was the from whom she had sought informaon of a rich bourgeois of the period of 1830, devoted to the ideas of that epoch. My poor father, who last year old me that a wife, who had a lover was a woman without honor, never would have set foot in my house had he snown of my laison with M. Caillaux. 'We were reproached with being of the bourgeoisie. It is true. I do not blush for it. I am a bourgeoise. When the letters were purloined, M. Caillaux and myself felt alike; we would have preferred to renounce our great happiness rather than see our inner life that is how things are, then I will smash blazoned to the world. Alm at the Republic. "I feared the publication of the letters di account of the society we frequented. We had many friends, especially among the embassies, and in Austro-Servian political situations caused further nervousness and selling on the stock exchange. Consols fell three-sixtenths and home mile followed such as the publication of two letters, addressed to two different women, signed 'Thy those circles people wished to humiliate che stock exchange.
