

Carpentier, Punchdrunk and Staggering At Last, Loses Decision To Gibbons

Carp Shows Only Gameness In Running Long-Range Scrap With Phantom Tommy

Frenchman's Rapier Right Was Slow—Gibbons Lacked K. O. Punch.

CARP HURT ANKLE

Associated Press Despatch.
Michigan City, Ind., June 1.—That Georges Carpentier is a game fighter and can take punishment, was the agreement of experts who witnessed Saturday's ten-round international bout, won by Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, the decision being made by the judges who were the Indiana law forbids prize fights and decision bouts. For ten rounds the French rapier right was slow, and the punch in time to slap a bolt into Carpentier's ribs which raised a red welt, marking the point where further attacks were made when fighting was in vogue.

In the opening round, Georges lashed out with his famous sleep producer, but Tommy Gibbons, under the punch in time to slap a bolt into Carpentier's ribs which raised a red welt, marking the point where further attacks were made when fighting was in vogue.

Throughout the fracas Carpentier elected to fight at long range in the hope of outboxing his opponent and save himself from the hammer punches of the St. Paul battler. He was virtually on a continual retreat to escape the onslaught of Gibbons' big opportunity came in the ninth. After about one minute of boxing Carpentier stepped to the floor, Gibbons stepped back and gave him a chance to recover. When Carpentier arose he pointed to his left leg, indicating that he was hurt. He had been injured. He yelled to his corner, where Francois Deschamps, the excellent little Frenchman who has been Carpentier's manager during his entire ring career, was waving to him and shrieking in French, asking him to continue boxing. Carpentier stepped away and Gibbons rushed to the attack. He jabbed with right and left and swung a few lefts, Carpentier continued to break away. The Frenchman seemed punchdrunk, and he was limping badly, but Gibbons did not have enough to topple him.

When Carpentier staggered to his corner he was limping with the right leg and not the left. His face was bleeding from a few cuts and his hand and his hands gave him stimulants and smelling salts. Two men frantically rubbed his legs, both of them.

Carpenter staggered out of his corner when the bell rang for the last round. He limped badly. He said something to Gibbons, who stood before him smiling and unmarked. Gibbons smile changed to a loud laugh, and he rushed at the Frenchman.

It was a sorry showing that both made in the tenth round. Carpentier, tired and weary, limping around the ring, backing away from his adversary, would have been an easy mark for any boxer with a punch. He tried hard enough to make it win for him with a knock-out. He drove the Frenchman around the ring. He landed the left high. It struck above Carpentier's left eye and made a rash from the blood trickled into Carpentier's eye. He kept rattling Carpentier with rights and lefts and Carpentier continually fell back before the onslaught of the Frenchman. Now and then the groggy Frenchman would make a desperate swing with the right, just as he had made the eighth round. These swings passed over Gibbons, he always managed to duck under them.

Georges All But Out.
Carpenter was all but out when the bell sounded, ending the tenth and last round. Still, he was not out. He had taken the fight, and Gibbons offered him and still managed to stand. He staggered to his corner, his face bleeding and his shoulders bent, a strength-exhausted man. As the bell of France, the Greek god, fistie idol of a republic, he presented a sad figure.

A crowd of more than 24,000 fans crowded into the arena here, and reports today were that only 16,000 admissions were paid, many crashing the gates and the other being accounted for by passes. Gibbons received $81,781, including $5,000 for training expenses, while Georges drew down $70,000. The total gate receipts amounted to $227,797, according to revised figures made public today.

Georges, when both boxers were ready for the gong, slipped a rubber plate into his mouth to protect his teeth, but Gibbons promptly obliged. The plate was shown to referee Dickerson, who put it in his pocket.

Gibbons had to remove the tape from his hands prior to the fight, when Manager Deschamps excitedly called attention to a violation of an agreement to have both boxers enter the ring with hands taped. He made Gibbons untape the tape, inspected it, and then re-tape it.

"Monsieur is the best boxer I ever saw," Carpentier said after the fight. "I am sorry I hurt my ankle, otherwise possibly I could have made it a knockout."

"I believe I have convinced everyone that I am entitled to a return bout with Dempsey," said Gibbons.

CRUIK RECEIVES LAST KNOCK-OUT

So Says Gallant Frenchman After Taking Count At Frush's Hands.

Special to The Advertiser.
Paris, June 1.—Denny Frush American boxer today knocked out Eugene Cruik, former world's champion featherweight, in the eighth round of what was to have been a twenty-round bout. During the seventh round Cruik appeared to be a bit fatigued, and his aim was inaccurate. After two minutes of fighting Frush, after landing several jabs, sent over a right on a famous silver jaw of Cruik, who was knocked against the ropes and dropped to his knees for the count of nine. When he arose Frush delivered hard blows to the face and head, and Cruik again went to his knees and remained there for nine seconds. For the second time the Frenchman and his opponent were on the canvas. The count of eight had been recorded, and Cruik was unable to rise.

In the eighth Frush sailed in to the Frenchman, landing at will on the face and body, and in the ninth round he and his eyes staring, finally went to the canvas from a hard right to the jaw. He was all out. He attempted to rise, but was unable to do so. After the referee had counted him out, Frush said the referee was right to his feet. In the preliminary the French boxer Paulino knocked out Arthur Townley, who had been the champion of the world, the trick in one minute and 20 seconds, whereas last month in Vienna, it required two rounds for Georges Carpentier to dispose of him.

Cruik's battle with Frush today was considered by the sporting people as the turning point in the former world's featherweight champion's career. It meant his return to oblivion, or a resumption of his standing as one of the foremost fighters of his class. Cruik, who had been the champion of the world, was surrounded by his wife and a few friends in his modest little home near Montmartre Hill this evening.

"You won't see me getting knocked out any more," Cruik said, "I have been champion of the world, and that is good enough."

Orients, Knights of Columbus Take One-Sided Engagements

Three Forest City Hurlers Fail To Stop March of K. C.'s To 17-0 Shutout—Errors Costly To London Views.

Topheavy scores were well to the fore in the local inter-club league games on Saturday, when the Orientals defeated the London Views 14 to 1 at Queen's Park, and the Knights of Columbus blanked the Forest City crew 17 to 0 at Sunshine Park.

Hard hitting on the part of the Orientals, who gathered 14 safeties, and errors by the London Views account for the result at the east end diamond. At Sunshine the K. C.'s, playing errorless ball for the entire nine innings, rapped out 16 hits, including one homer, two triples and two doubles, that had the opposition running itself ragged.

The Knights had everything their own way after the third, when they put one run across in the next inning they added five more, and from then on it was a runaway. McVicar, who started for the Forest City, surrendered to the heavy gunning of the K. C.'s, and was followed in turn by Hazelgrove and Leung, both of whom, however, failed to stem the onslaught.

The Forest City hurlers, in right for the Forest City Club, provided the London Views with a most costly lesson in all seasons. Both these lads picked off numerous drives and high ones that had the London Views in a state of confusion. Benny Jacques, in right for the K. C.'s, made his entry into local inter-club baseball by hitting a home run, pulling out a homer and beating the throw home by millimeters, with a slide that would have looked good in the Polo Grounds.

Nine Hurlers Used in 27-10 Melee At Buffalo.

Associated Press Despatch.
Buffalo, June 1.—The Orioles turned on the champion Skeeters today and defeated them, 27 to 10. The contest was halted by rain in the first half of the ninth, in which the visitors added two runs to their total, but the score reverted back to the inning previous. Jersey City.....010 211 10—6 12 1
Baltimore.....002 000 12 6 2
Zellars and Freitag; Ogden, Wesloski and Cobb.

NEWARK WINS, 12 TO 3.

Reading, June 1.—Newark defeated Reading here today, 12 to 3. The Bears scored ten runs in the first inning off Tuero and Marmax, a pair of errors helping in the big rally. After that Clark hurled a good ball.

LEAFS VICTORS.

Syracuse, June 1.—A sensational batting rally in the seventh inning which netted six runs out of six hits for Syracuse fell just short of the lead which Toronto had set up, and the Leafs won, 7 to 6, here today. Three doubles and three singles, plus two passes, gave the second largest crowd through the ballpark since the season's start. Syracuse.....000 000 060—6 11 3
Thomas, Doyle and Stange; Frankhouse, Maine and Mita.

Bird, the Soldiers' clever forward, was very fortunate, indeed, that he did not get marching orders, as Referee Parr cautioned him on several occasions.

Allan Russell was in splendid form for the Saints at center-half and played a wonderful game, while Perkins also performed well.

Regan, the new Saints' forward, has the advantage of making good, as some of his work showed that with a little more team play he will be a good addition to the forward line.

The goal that Dicks equalized with was a regular, indeed, that he did not get marching orders, as Referee Parr cautioned him on several occasions.

Watkins, in goal, played a splendid game and saved a penalty from Dave Wilson while Flansberg, the Soldiers' right-back, and Sert, Davis also played good games.

Maple Leafs play their Connaught game in Toronto on Saturday. Guns are their opponents.

Congratulations to the C.N.R. on their showing at Merritton. Now London and a great game should be seen, as Merritton has a good team.

The replay will take place at the C.N.R. grounds next Saturday, and a great game should be seen, as Merritton has a good team.

Knoves was the hero of the London team, saving a penalty near the finish, and also saving the rebound kick.

Players this season are causing very little trouble to the council, which speaks highly for the game, although a St. Thomas player was reported in a recent game by the referee, and was censured at the last council meeting.

This season is proving one of the best as players and officials are working harmoniously together.

Skidmore is, without a doubt, a valuable player for the Leafs. It is brains as well as feet that this talented young man utilizes when playing.

The player should first place his foot firmly on the ground. The backswing should be a little more upright than usual, so as to enable one to hit the ball first and the ground after, keeping the foot short. The eye must be kept steadily on the ball until it is hit.

What points are to be kept in mind when playing a ball from very soft ground?

Answered by JOHN BLACK

"The Carpentier" whose great-gameness and mastery of golf make him feared at all tournaments. Particularly competent on approach shots.

In playing a ball from soft ground.
