COLLEGE SPORTS AT SARATOGA.

BOAT RACING.
The college boating events which, last year and year before, created so much excitement all over the country, and attracted tons of thousands of visitors to Saratoga, have fallen decidedly flat this season. The cause of this is somewhat difficult to explain, but it is true that but few seem to take any interest whatever in the contests. On Tuesday, when the minor events should have been rowed, the lake was too much disturbed by the wind, rendering several short postponements necessary, and finally the entire programme was bodily thrown over until Wednesday. Fortunately for those who had suffered the disappointments of Tuesday, Wednesday dawned calm, and the lovely lake was as peaceful as an infant asleep. At 10:35, the University Race was called, and six crews being in line—Cornell, Harvard, Columbia, Union, Wesleyan, and Princeton—the word was given and they were off. Cornell, with a splendid stroke, at once pushed into the lead, the Columbia following. At the close of the first mile Columbia had obtained the lead, the Harvard second, Cornell third, and all doing their best work. Between this and the two-mile, Cornell spurted and retook the lead, Harvard passing Columbia. These positions were held to the finish, Cornell winning in 17:01½; Harvard 17:07½, Columbia 17:18½, Union, Wesleyan, and Princeton coming home in the order named. The single scull was one more bright laurel in the green wreath which crowns Cornell, their trusty sculler Francis winning this race, against three competitors, in 13:42½, Danforth of Harvard second, Farmley of Princeton, and Weeks of Columbia third and fourth. Again, in the third race, the Freshman, Cornell carried her end to the front, Harvard
