Opening of the Institution

This morning the opening exercises of the Deaf and Dumb Institute were held in the chapel. Thirty six new pupils have entered this term. Superintendent Mathison in a brief address welcomed the old pupils back and the new ones to the Institution, spoke words of encouragement to all and outlined the rules and requirements. Each of the other masters said a few words of welcome and one or two visitors were introduced. The pleasant heartedness evident among both pupils and teachers affords a strong subject matter for many pleasant reminiscences and the surprising facility with which the work is resumed, everything being in its usual running work in less than a week, is incontrovertible evidence of the thorough organization and system with which the Institute is governed. Belleville Ontario, Sept 24th

There is a time to every purpose, says the Good Book, and when strength and energy and courage have been refreshed through weeks of repose and recreation, the duty call must needs be received with cheerfulness and enthusiasm. It was supremely gratifying to have yesterday witnessed the activity permeating the above establishment when, classification having been carefully made by the Principal, the first formal blow for freedom—yes, from the saddest of bondage that of an untutored mind—was struck. Teachers and taught seemed to vie in earnestness, and if from this determined beginning we may from a judgment as to ultimate results, we can without hesitancy, even at this date, look to a most satisfactory issue of the year's labors.

Important repairs have during the summer been made. The chapel, which heretofore was dark and dingy, now radiates in the light of heaven, which is freely admitted through a well-devised skylight rising from the centre of the roof, and looked quite dainty in a fresh and genteel toilet of paint. The Gibson hospital has been tastefully fenced in and together with its symmetrical proportions and neat surroundings, presents a happy face to the family group of buildings sacred to silence. Chisel and brush have in fact been a little everywhere and if more can be done to make things brighter and healthier we confess we know not how. The session, therefore, opens most promisingly, and of this we are particularly proud, for we cannot look at those two hundred and fifty deaf, deserving children without thinking of the sublime mission their education implies or ignoring the responsibility resting on those who have this grave task in hand. Anchor is weighed. The bark is well equipped. May the sea be calm, the winds fair and the voyage prosperous.—Intelligencer, Sept 25th.

Deaf Mute Wedding.

An interesting event took place at Micksburg on Wednesday afternoon, says the Pembroke Observer of last week. It was the marriage of two deaf mutes, and the bride and groom were a word deaf mutes; there were also two deaf guests, making in all six mutes present. They were all young, intelligent and well educated, having been pupils of the Institution at Belleville, and all six had graduated. The bridegroom was Mr. M. L. Hodgson, of Fitzroy; the bride was Miss Jessie Mick, of Micksburg; the bridesmaid was Miss Laura Baker, of Belleville; the groomsmen Mr. John Patrick, of Fitzroy, and the guests Messrs. A. F. Franor and Chas. Mielontz, of Pembroke. The ceremony was performed in the Methodist church, where a large number of friends were present to witness it. The Rev. Mr. Cornell officiated, and the mode adopted was this: Each sentence in the ceremony was written out and submitted to the bride and bridegroom, and after reading it they wrote their answers underneath, then another portion of the ceremony was written out and submitted, and so on to the end. After the marriage there was a banquet at the residence of the bride's parents, and the next morning the bride and bridegroom left for their splendid home in Fitzroy. The event has created much interest, the bride having many relatives over a wide area (Pembroke, Stafford, Ramsay, etc.) while the bridegroom has very extended connections in Carleton county.—Carleton Place Herald.

To Parents and Friends:

The pupils have all returned, who are coming, with one or two exceptions. The prompt manner of their arrival enabled us to make a classification immediately after the opening, and now the classes are in good working order.

General good health prevails. Parents and friends of pupils are informed that our invariable custom in the past will be strictly adhered to in the future in regard to children. When a child is sick, daily notices will be forwarded, stating the case as it is. No facts the friends ought to know will be kept back. If you do not hear from me you may be positive your child is well.

Thirty-six new pupils have joined our happy family. Some of them felt quite at home on their arrival and others shed bitter tears for those at home; I am glad to say all are now reconciled, contented and happy with only an occasional relapse into loneliness on the part of a very few. Inquiries relative to pupils are required to be sent to the Superintendent. All letters are answered promptly. When you feel uneasy about your child do not hesitate about writing do so at once. I know I would feel concerned about my children if they were away from me and would like to hear about them occasionally.

With kind regards,
Yours faithfully,

R. Mathison
SUPERINTENDENT.
