

At Evening Time.

The little birds now seek their nest;
The baby sleeps on mother's breast;
Thou givest all Thy children rest,
God of the weary.

The sailor prayeth on the sea;
The little ones at mother's knee;
Now comes the penitent to Thee,
God of the weary.

The orphan puts away his fears;
The troubled hopes for happier years;
Thou driest all the sinner's tears,
God of the weary.

Thou sendest rest to tired feet;
To worn-out toilers, slumber sweet;
To aching hearts, repose complete,
God of the weary.

In grief, perplexity or pain,
None ever came to Thee in vain;
Thou makest life a joy again,
God of the weary.

We sleep that we may wake renewed,
To serve Thee as Thy children should,
With love, and zeal, and gratitude,
God of the weary.

Short Prayers.

A short prayer will often reach farther than a long one. Most of the prayers given in the Bible were short ones; and the Saviour specially guards us against "long prayers" and "vain repetitions."

Says Dr. Parker of London: "I once heard Mr. Spurgeon offer a prayer that some of us dare not have offered. Mr. Gough was lecturing in the Tabernacle. I was on the platform, and some of us would have prayed for Mr. Gough in some such terms as these: 'Do thou bless our dear friend, now venerable in years, who has come from a distant but sister country whose institutions we commend to thee and to thy blessing, and who is here to-night radiant and useful to do us all good.' Mr. Spurgeon simply put out his arm, and said, 'Lord, bless our friend Gough!' How extremely shocking! But how extremely memorable and quotable! Telegrams ought to be brief."—Selected.

You Don't Have to Swear Off

Says the St. Louis Journal of Agriculture in an editorial about No-To-Bac, the famous tobacco habit cure. "We know of many cases cured by No-To-Bac. One, a prominent St. Louis architect, smoked and chewed for twenty years. Two boxes cured him so that even the smell of tobacco makes him sick." No-To-Bac sold and guaranteed; no cure, no pay. Book free. Sterling Remedy Co., 374 St. Paul St., Montreal.

What you want when you are ailing is medicine that will cure you. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and be convinced of its merit.
