

THE MOTHERLAND

Latest Mails from ENGLAND IRELAND and SCOTLAND

ARMY.

A most emphatic protest has been made against the tactics adopted by a certain section of the English press in assuming the Jesuit priests of France to be responsible for the Breton... The following letter in reply...

HERBY.

The Rev. Hugh McCooey, P.P., Ballinacree, who died at the parochial house, was a native of the parishes of Donnoose, County Armagh. Father McCooey had reached the age of seventy-five...

A deplorable outrage was perpetrated at St. Basil's Catholic church, in the village of St. Johnston, near Londonderry. A large crowd had just been completed over the apex of the main gable...

The departure of the Annonciation of ten priests for the Australian mission in the dioceses of Melbourne, Perth and Ballarat. Like the three that have gone to South Africa...

Six of the young priests have gone to Melbourne, three to Perth, and one to Ballarat. Of the six who have become subjects of the Most Rev. the two last...

The priests who have gone to join the Mission in Perth under the Right Rev. Dr. Gilmore, are Father Brennan, and Father Keogh, of the diocese of Elphin; and Father Verdier, of Cloyne.

The meeting to protest against the Transvaal was proved one of the largest and most orderly gatherings held in Dublin for some years. It was to all intents and purposes called by a newspaper paragraph...

I understand from your letter that we might have reckoned on your presence, but that it appears to you that the movement has been turned into a party demonstration. I know that nothing of the kind has ever been done or even attempted...

ma's voice carry over the whole of the throng. The resolutions were received with the greatest enthusiasm... The speaker congratulated the meeting that the platform had been so well filled...

It is interesting to learn that three young Irish priests sailed from Southampton for the Cape, bent on a mission of peace and apostolic charity. They go to take up missionary work in the Eastern Province...

The following letters are the principal contributions to the Parnell fund. The first is from Mr. J. H. Harrington, of the Parnell Memorial, Dublin, Sept. 21, '99.

My Dear Lord Mayor, I have received your letter of the 21st inst., conveying to me the invitation of the Executive Committee to speak at the laying of the foundation stone of the Parnell Memorial...

When I consented to act on the Committee for raising a monument to Mr. Parnell, I was fully aware of the fact that the movement would be kept strictly apart from sectional differences amongst Nationalists...

Upon the comments of the Independent I do not think it is necessary for me to say much. The English gentleman who control that paper can know very little of the man who has been called the English gentleman...

I cannot think that such proceedings are calculated to make the movement a National one or to secure its success. I remain, yours sincerely, JOHN DILLON.

Under the circumstances I respectfully beg to invite you, in justice to the committees, which are all of a mixed political character, as well as for the reason that you imply a breach of my personal assurance to you, to point to any act of the committees, or of any member of them, which attempted to give a sectional aspect to the proceedings...

It is interesting to learn that three young Irish priests sailed from Southampton for the Cape, bent on a mission of peace and apostolic charity. They go to take up missionary work in the Eastern Province...

The following letters are the principal contributions to the Parnell fund. The first is from Mr. J. H. Harrington, of the Parnell Memorial, Dublin, Sept. 21, '99.

My Dear Lord Mayor, I have received your letter of the 21st inst., conveying to me the invitation of the Executive Committee to speak at the laying of the foundation stone of the Parnell Memorial...

When I consented to act on the Committee for raising a monument to Mr. Parnell, I was fully aware of the fact that the movement would be kept strictly apart from sectional differences amongst Nationalists...

Upon the comments of the Independent I do not think it is necessary for me to say much. The English gentleman who control that paper can know very little of the man who has been called the English gentleman...

I cannot think that such proceedings are calculated to make the movement a National one or to secure its success. I remain, yours sincerely, JOHN DILLON.

Under the circumstances I respectfully beg to invite you, in justice to the committees, which are all of a mixed political character, as well as for the reason that you imply a breach of my personal assurance to you, to point to any act of the committees, or of any member of them, which attempted to give a sectional aspect to the proceedings...

I understand from your letter that we might have reckoned on your presence, but that it appears to you that the movement has been turned into a party demonstration. I know that nothing of the kind has ever been done or even attempted...

It is interesting to learn that three young Irish priests sailed from Southampton for the Cape, bent on a mission of peace and apostolic charity. They go to take up missionary work in the Eastern Province...

The following letters are the principal contributions to the Parnell fund. The first is from Mr. J. H. Harrington, of the Parnell Memorial, Dublin, Sept. 21, '99.

My Dear Lord Mayor, I have received your letter of the 21st inst., conveying to me the invitation of the Executive Committee to speak at the laying of the foundation stone of the Parnell Memorial...

When I consented to act on the Committee for raising a monument to Mr. Parnell, I was fully aware of the fact that the movement would be kept strictly apart from sectional differences amongst Nationalists...

Upon the comments of the Independent I do not think it is necessary for me to say much. The English gentleman who control that paper can know very little of the man who has been called the English gentleman...

I cannot think that such proceedings are calculated to make the movement a National one or to secure its success. I remain, yours sincerely, JOHN DILLON.

Under the circumstances I respectfully beg to invite you, in justice to the committees, which are all of a mixed political character, as well as for the reason that you imply a breach of my personal assurance to you, to point to any act of the committees, or of any member of them, which attempted to give a sectional aspect to the proceedings...

It is interesting to learn that three young Irish priests sailed from Southampton for the Cape, bent on a mission of peace and apostolic charity. They go to take up missionary work in the Eastern Province...

The following letters are the principal contributions to the Parnell fund. The first is from Mr. J. H. Harrington, of the Parnell Memorial, Dublin, Sept. 21, '99.

My Dear Lord Mayor, I have received your letter of the 21st inst., conveying to me the invitation of the Executive Committee to speak at the laying of the foundation stone of the Parnell Memorial...

When I consented to act on the Committee for raising a monument to Mr. Parnell, I was fully aware of the fact that the movement would be kept strictly apart from sectional differences amongst Nationalists...

Upon the comments of the Independent I do not think it is necessary for me to say much. The English gentleman who control that paper can know very little of the man who has been called the English gentleman...

I cannot think that such proceedings are calculated to make the movement a National one or to secure its success. I remain, yours sincerely, JOHN DILLON.

Under the circumstances I respectfully beg to invite you, in justice to the committees, which are all of a mixed political character, as well as for the reason that you imply a breach of my personal assurance to you, to point to any act of the committees, or of any member of them, which attempted to give a sectional aspect to the proceedings...

It is interesting to learn that three young Irish priests sailed from Southampton for the Cape, bent on a mission of peace and apostolic charity. They go to take up missionary work in the Eastern Province...

The following letters are the principal contributions to the Parnell fund. The first is from Mr. J. H. Harrington, of the Parnell Memorial, Dublin, Sept. 21, '99.

My Dear Lord Mayor, I have received your letter of the 21st inst., conveying to me the invitation of the Executive Committee to speak at the laying of the foundation stone of the Parnell Memorial...

When I consented to act on the Committee for raising a monument to Mr. Parnell, I was fully aware of the fact that the movement would be kept strictly apart from sectional differences amongst Nationalists...

Upon the comments of the Independent I do not think it is necessary for me to say much. The English gentleman who control that paper can know very little of the man who has been called the English gentleman...

I cannot think that such proceedings are calculated to make the movement a National one or to secure its success. I remain, yours sincerely, JOHN DILLON.

Under the circumstances I respectfully beg to invite you, in justice to the committees, which are all of a mixed political character, as well as for the reason that you imply a breach of my personal assurance to you, to point to any act of the committees, or of any member of them, which attempted to give a sectional aspect to the proceedings...

Mason & Hamlin Co. NEW YORK. CHICAGO.