They arrived in Toronto on the 16th September, 1847, and experienced a series of trials. Bishop Power died a few days after their arrival of the malignant fever which was then raging, and they were thus thrown upon their own "cources. Three of them fell victims to the fever, and the sv vors would have been without a home had not a charitab, oul given up his own house to accommodate them. In __3, however, they took possession of a new house built for them by Blshop Charbonnel.

The Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph came to Toronto from Philadelphia on the 7th October, 1851, at the request of Bishop Charbonnel. The foundation comprised four Sisters—Mary Antoinette Fontbonne (Sister Mary Delphine); Thecla Bomine (Sister Mary Mattha); Sarah Margeron (Sister Mary Alphonsus); and Ellen Dinan (Sister Mary Bernard). Only one of the founders, we believe, now survives,—Mother Mary Bernard, Superior of the Orphanage of the Sacred Heart at Sunnyside.

"The Institute of Our Lady of Charity of the Refuge." A branch of this Order, which is better known as the "Monastery of the Good Shepherd," has been established at Parkdale since 1875.
