

effective instruments for Canadian participation in international organizations.

For Canadians to be engaged effectively, individually and as partners of their government, they need better information about their government's purposes and constraints, and they need opportunities to voice their concerns and bring to bear their expertise. Participants in the Forum overwhelmingly endorsed the proposition that partnership between Canadians and their government is an important part of meeting the challenges of the twenty-first century.