

---

lasting honor, to have sketched out a future possible condition of the civilized world; to have illumined the steps of mankind, towards the summit of earthly perfection; and to have delivered his sentiments with that independent freedom, which becomes the enlightened age we live in, and which thrives so luxuriantly in the congenial soil of America.

---