All Covered With Eruptions - Could Not Work, the Suffering Was So Creat-Hood's Has Cured.

"I was all run down with complaints peculiar to my sex, and I broke out in sores on my body, head, limbs and kands, and my hair all came out. I was under the doctor's treatment a long time without benefit. They called my trouble eczema. Finally I began taking Hood's Barsaparilla, and after I had used three or four bottles I found I was improving. I kept on until I had taken several more bottles and the sores and itching have disappeared and my hair has grown out." MRS. J. G. BROWN, Brantford, Ontario.

MARK LANE EXPRESS REVIEW. London, Jan. 10 .- The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the wheat market, says: There is an im proved outlook in France, where the wheat had a poor start in October and November. The thaw in Central Europe has not been unmixed with advantage: but the snow is still thick on the wheat fields eastward of the Vistula and Carpathians. Argentina will have about 3.000.000 quarters to export.

Opposition Piggery Charges Completely Refuted by Independent Witnesses.

Every Carcass Was Inspected Carefully by the Dominion Inspector -Cleland Calls St. John a Bully.

Toronto, Jan. 10 .- In the piggery inquiry on Saturday, the government kept its promise, and put in evidence which seems effectually to discredit Mr. St. John's case. The man who received the hogs at the Central Prison, a butcher of 30 years' standing, swore positively that not one of the 97 was unsound, and that if there had been any signs of disease he could not have failed to see them. Another important point as to which there has been some doubt hitherto was cleared up. It was shown that Dr. Sweetapple inspected the hogs after all of them had been taken to the Central Prison for cold storage. His certificate of soundness, therefore, ap plies not to a few of the hogs, but to the whole of them. The government called Chas. Moore. who has beeen employed eighteen the government slaughter house. Moore testified that he had been a butcher for 30 years. He received the hogs at the cold storage house at the Central Prison. He received them from Wm. Newton. The delivery was finished about 7 o'clock on the evening of Tuesday. July 14. 1896. The hogs were put in cold storage; all except some four or five that were hung in the slaughter house. Dr. Sweetapple inspected the hogs first about 1 o'clock on Monday, the 13th. At that time there were some 0 hogs in storage.

On the Tuesday evening Dr. Sweetapple inspected the hogs a second time. This time the doctor was accompanied by Hunter, the government cattle buyer. Moore was not present at the Mr. St. John questioned Moore closely on this point, and told him that Dr. Sweetapple testified that he had not January is the month we lay the foundation for a great season's business in Sweetapple had said that he had made Subsequently, as will be seen, Dr. Sweetapple accepted Moore's correc-

The hogs were all carted away by Harris, the butcher, on the following morning, Wednesday, the 15th. The four or five hogs in the slaughter house were not examined by Dr. Sweetapple. Moore, however, examined them closely himself, and said that they were in good condition. "Would you eat them yourself?"
"Yes."

Harris, who bought the hogs, also examined the hogs. He examined every hog that he took away. Moore denied that the carcasses were mutilated. He denied that they showed spots. If there had been multilations or spots he would have seen them. He examined the hogs closely enough for that. Mr. St.John took the witness in hand and spent some time in the examina-tion of departmental regulations. Col. Matheson complained that the government officials sitting about the room were trying to prompt the wit ness, and he suggested that any such interrupter be expelled from the room. But Mr. Cleland declared that the trouble lay in the manner of cross-examination. He protested against the bullying manner adopted by Mr. St. This was a committee of the Legislature, not a court of law. The evidence was conflicting. The committee wanted to get at the truth, but it could never do so if the inquiry were to pursue the lines laid down by Mr. St. John. Mr. St. John treated the witesses as if they were criminals, or defendants in a divorce court. The storm blown over, Mr. St. John tried to find why Moore had no books to show the handling of these particu-

with deep muslin frill, trimmed with lar hogs. Moore replied that Hunter had told him all about the hogs; that fine Swiss insertion and embroidery, they had been slaughtfred at the piggery; that they had been sent to the prison for cold storage purposes alone. Therefore, as they were not to be distributed to any of the government's institutions, as is all meat slaughtered trimmed with wide linen Torchon at the Central Prison, there was no reason why he should make an entry

Moore declared most emphatically, COWN-Empire style of fine camand under rigid cross-examination rebric, reveres of insertion, yoke, colpeated and reinforced his declaration, that he himself examined every hog in lar and sleeves trimmed with fine the 97, and found no traces of disease

Roman insertion and embroidery, in any of them. Dr. Sweetapple was recalled by Mr. Harcourt, who asked him if placing the carcases in cold storage would have renoved any cholera spots that might have been on them. The doctor replied that the cold would have had no effect on spots, or, as he called them, "extra

> Mr. Davis asked Dr. Sweetapple as to Moore's testin ony that he had inspected the hogs a second time. He reminded the committee that, as he spected the hogs a second time. He reminded the committee that, as he originally testified, he had taken no memo as to the date of his visits to the cold storage. He remembered, however, that, having visited the cattle market one evening with Hunter, Hunter had driven him back by way of the prison. He now professed his entire willingness to accept the statement that he had inspected the hogs on the second evening. This is quite in accord with his original testimony, in which he said he was not quite positive as to the dates of his visit, and that if Hunter were to say that he had seen the hogs on the second evening he would not deny it.

Active Demand for Staple Drygoods.

Payments Generally Good -- Upward Tendency in Prices in Various Lines.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Bradstreet's review says: The new year opened with an active demand for staple goods. Drygoods travelers who returned on their routes this week have been taking liberal placing orders for spring goods and report the prospects for the balance of the season very bright. Stocks left in the hands of retailers from last year are small, and large purchases will have to be made. Values are generally firm for both domestic and imported More American cotton goods than formerly are offering here. Some houses are bringing in large quantites of American indignes wrannerettes tc., and as the American mills have changed their prices slightly to catch the Canadian trade, these imports will likely expand. Payments are generally good. The payments on paper maturing on the 4th were better than last year. Orders coming in here are mostaccompanied with cash remittances. Wools in better demand. Stocks here are small and prices firm. Hides scarce and firm. Leathers firmer, with upward tendency in quotations. Greceries and hardware fairly active and steady for most lines. An important feature in trade is the general disposition to shorten credits. Grain deliveries in the country are smaller, owing to poor roads. The export demand for grain is not so active. Numbers of orders for Northwest, British Columbia and Klondike trade are coming in here, and ome factories are working over-time on these orders. Money here is about ½ cent higher for call loans, at 4½ per cent.
