The subject of the session was "So-ial Prophylaxis." Dr. Rosalle Slaugh-er Morton, a delegated representative com the American Society for Sanitary from the American Society for Sanitary and Moral Prophylaxis, was the principal speaker. In terse, clear language Dr. Morton told of the terrible inroads of scourges due to immorality and the necessity of beginning with the youngest of children to instil into their minds a pure conception of the truths of life. Other speakers were Mrs. Charlotte Gilman and Mrs. Florence Kelley, both of New York. Mrs. Gilman said every marriage certificate should be accompanied by a bill of health from a physician under state authority.

Mrs. Kelley thought there should be a stricter enforcement of the laws already on the statute books. "It is a pitiful, a shameful thing," said Mrs. Kelley, "to see the reluctance with
