alt heart trouble—the heart nerves—and restores them. Then that is the end of heart diseases.

For the heart itself has no more self-combeat by a stender nerve so tiny that it is scarcely visible to the naked eye. Yet ten beast by a stender nerve so tiny that it is scarcely visible to the naked eye. Yet ten beast by a stender nerve so tiny that it is scarcely visible to the naked eye. Yet ten beast to expand and contract.

The heart is about the size of your first a dozen times, even, and your will see the monstrons labor this little nerve must do.

The heart nerve is only one of the branches of the great sympathetic nervous eloched with the others that weak system. Each branch of this system is so closely allied with the others that weak ness or irregularity at any point is apt to spread. Heart trouble frequently arises from Stomach trouble through sympathy and Kidney trouble may also follow. For each of these organs is operated by a branch of these same sympathetic nerves that operate the vital organs has a useful purpose as well. For what will cure weakness in one branch will surely cure weakness in one branch will surely cure weakness in one branch will surely cure weakness in every branch—what will restore one centre will surely restore them all.

There is nothing new about this—nothing any physiciah would dispute. But it related to the side nerves.
