CONCERNING CANDIDATES

The Standard recently named a provincial government ticket for the constituency, and asserted that the ticket had been formed by a small group of men. Indeed it intimated that this method of nominating candidates was always adopted by the Conservatives. Nobody gave any serious attention to what the Standard said about the alleged government ticket, and now it repeats the assertion. It also pretends to believe there will be a third party, composed of bolters from the government party.

In its transparently artful and foolish way the Standard is trying to make capital for the group that looted the lunatic asylum, the railway contractors and the barmen, the liquor dealers and the fomenters of prejudice among Liberals. When the time comes to hold the provincial elections a convention of the government party will nominate its candidates, and they will be supported by so many of those who formerly supported the Standard's machine-made candidates that a government victory will be assured.

The Standard would be giving some real news if it would give the names of the opposition candidates the machine has selected. Has it found anybody willing to go before the people and shout for a return to office of the men whose record in the Valley Railway, the crown lands, the patriotic potato deal and other matters was revealed by royal commissions? If there are any such persons, the people should not have the knowledge concealed from them for a moment. They should be warned at once.

ROADS AND AUTOMOBILES

There are quite too many automobile accidents to be charged up against the state of the roads. The roads are far from perfect. An immense amount of work has been done on them, but they were in such condition when Hon. Mr. Veniot became head of the department of public works that it will still take a long time and a large expenditure to put all of them and all parts of them in good condition. The like is true in regard to bridges. The work is being done, however, and whoever travels through the country and is honest pays tribute to the minister for the extent of the improvement already made. He himself would be the last to say that there are no bad places in the roads that he does say, and with justice, that he only began looking after the roads two years ago this month, and that in all only about ten months of work have been possible since that time. In an interview in today's Telegraph he tells what has been done on the trunk roads of the province, and it is a record of which he has every reason to be proud, for a great deal of work of a heavy nature has been done. He is also able to quote the Chatham World, which is not a supporter of the Foster government, and whose editor sharply criticizes the Standard for its senseless misrepresentation in discussing the roads.

To refer again, however, to the question of automobiles, the number of accidents and non-accidents brings out very clearly the fact that there must be a great deal of incompetent as well as reckless driving. The only remedy for that appears to be a system of licenses and public opinion is steadily moving in the direction of such a provision in our laws.

PRINCIPLES AND LEADERS

The Toronto Globe has this interesting paragraph in an article on the political situation in Canada:

"There is no need for Liberal-Unionists to say that they would rather return to their old political home than dwell in the tents of Conservatism, were it not that they distrust the present leadership of Liberalism. Men die, principles live. Let Liberals stand by their principles and they will find men to give expression to political Liberalism in parliament and in the government of the Dominion and the provinces of confederation."

But if there are those who distrust the present Liberal leadership the Globe sees no reason why they should enter the Conservative camp. On this point it says:

"Liberal-Unionists who have no confidence in Sir Robert Borden as a great political leader and who would like to know something about the 'real' progress, sane Conservatism, which is to be the dominating policy of the government will not dance very merrily to the piping of Mr. Rowell when he invites them to follow him into the Conservative ranks. They may not be in love with the present leadership of Liberalism, but they are not prepared to scuttle the ship in order to rid themselves of the little group of men who at the moment hold the bridge. Political leadership in these days of weathercock opinions is notoriously ephemeral. The great man of today is neglected and forgotten tomorrow. To only a few, like Macdonald and Laurier, have been given the qualities of mind and heart that enable them to hold sway over their parties so long as life lasts. There is probably not a single member of Sir Robert Borden's government who will be among the political leaders of Canada fifteen years from now. The changes in leadership among Liberals are likely to be no less marked."

Thus it is principles and not men

The Globe would have the Union Liberals regard in shaping their future course. It points out that "all over the country Conservative party gatherings and Conservative newspapers are serving notice upon the Liberal-Unionists that they must accept the main tenets of the Conservative political creed." Of the situation in Toronto, the Globe says:

"Members of the Central Conservative Association of Toronto are said to be 'sizzling hot' with condemnation of the decision to form a permanent Unionist party. The name Unionist is already over the door of the Association's rooms, and members want to know on whose authority the change has been made. And yet some Liberal-Unionists think the Conservative party had a lovely funeral at Ottawa, with Mr. Rowell reading the burial service."

There is still no declaration of future policy by Sir Robert Borden, but it may be inferred that he will adhere to the Conservative tariff policy and that will provide the clash of principles which will divide the country into opposing parties, as before the war. In still another article the Globe indicates another direction in which there should be a sharp line of cleavage, for the patronage evil is one which the Liberals should resist with all their power. The Globe says:

"The Conservative Ward Associations of Toronto have been in low spirits since the Union government turned its back on patronage. Having supported Union in the elections they feel that the Liberal-Unionists took an unfair advantage of them by persuading the government to renounce the good old plan under which ward politicians and local party bosses became persons of some importance. The defection in these circles was very frankly expressed at the meeting of the Fourth Ward Association on Tuesday night. 'There is no young man that we can ask into our Association and say, "We can assist you to get a position in any government office,"' lamented one of the speakers. He seems to fear the association cannot be kept going by the glorious history, traditions, and principles of the Conservative party unless it has jobs to offer. In the next election you will have to pay to get a worker his price," he added. If there is no pay, will the boys strike? To the Ginger Group the abolition of patronage is of course another proof of the debilitating effects of the injection of Liberalism into the veins of the Conservative party. They are indulging in no cant about a union of hearts. 'Back to the cream!' cried a diner at the Rogers banquet in Toronto. It is the motto of the Old Guard. On the patronage question it demands a return to the status quo ante bellum. On protection it wants a Hamilton's gallows tariff even if the Liberal-Unionists hang themselves."

Here is an interesting suggestion from Halifax. The Chronicle says: "The Playgrounds Commission recently conceived the idea of swearing in a 'junior patrol' to protect the property of the playgrounds of the city. A patrol consisting of twelve boys with a 'chief' and 'deputy' was accordingly formed at the Sunshine playgrounds, and so successful has been its work that last night a 'patrol' for the Central playgrounds was formed on similar lines. On joining a patrol the boys take the Scout oath."

There is now a prospect that the housing commission, having the money at its disposal, will get down to active business, and that a considerable number of houses may yet be erected this year. Once a beginning has been made the work will doubtless expand rapidly. There is no prospect of an early decline in the cost of building, and delay in the hope of greatly reduced cost would not be justified.

The Soldier Day parade promises to set a new standard for such events in St. John. All who can should lend hearty assistance in everything relating to the success of the celebration. The decision of the labor men to take part in the parade is another assurance that it will be an imposing one, for the unions can turn out great numbers of men.

The Sackville Post calls attention to a problem that grows steadily more serious in this province when it says: "Some of the schools of the province are not likely to open very promptly next term, the simple reason they will be without teachers. The daily papers already contain many teacher-wanted advertisements. One St. John daily carried over forty such advertisements yesterday."

NO SIGHT SEEN IN EUROPE TILL NOVEMBER

Washington, July 29.—Relaxation of restrictions on the issuance of passports to European countries, except Germany, Austria and Russia, is announced by Secretary Lansing.

While passports will not be issued until after Nov. 1 to persons wishing to visit Europe solely for pleasure, the department, beginning immediately will issue passports without restriction as to sex or age on statement that the proposed visit is "legitimate and reasonable."

The department, however, in view of the crowding of transatlantic steamships, advises all persons planning to visit Europe to ascertain in advance from steamship agents whether they will be able to obtain passage. Such persons also are advised to inquire of the consuls of the countries which they proposed to visit, whether they will be able to have their passports issued therefor.

Secretary Lansing said that issuance of passports to persons planning pleasure trips to Europe would begin on Nov. 1, unless reasons now unforeseen prevented.

"O' GIERGION OF ULSTER"

Royal Black Preceptory of North America in Session in Ottawa—Soldiers' Positions

Ottawa, July 29.—The Royal Black Preceptory of British America opened its annual convention last night with Sir Knight John Smith, Winnipeg president, presiding. The Grand Orange Lodge of British America will open its annual meeting on Wednesday. A provincial Orange lodge of ladies was formed last night. In his review of the year's work, Mr. Easton said:

"The work of reconstruction, of which there seems to be various forms, will be a failure unless we have co-operation between the men who have returned and the government or their commissions. The men who have fought and won and have returned to us no longer able to work should have sufficient pensions meted out to them, which pensions should not be tainted with any tinge of charity. The great wrong in the returned men in this dominion is due to the fact that the alien soldier, in a good many cases, has got his job and holds onto it. Now that he is returned we must see to it that the man who sacrificed everything for democracy did not do so in vain."

Referring to the situation in Ireland, Mr. Easton said that the sentiments of the New York County Children's Aid Society, and had been placed in the home of the Nutters, who were very much attached to them. Usually Mr. Nutter accompanied the boys to the pasture, but this time he and his wife were picking blueberries and the lady thought they would provide a surprise for them by putting the cows in the barn before they returned home.

ANGRY BULL GOES BOY THROUGH HEART

Saco, Me., July 29.—Pursued by a bull which he had struck with a stick when he and Wesley Smith, aged twelve, went after the cows in the pasture of George Nutter on the Buxton road, Frank Nutter, aged thirteen, stabbed his side and the animal pored him through the heart, killing him instantly. Lifting the boy's body on his horns, the bull threw it on one side.

Chick's companion ran to his side, and finding him dead, told some neighbors who hurried to the scene and got the body from the pasture.

The two boys were charges of the New York County Children's Aid Society, and had been placed in the home of the Nutters, who were very much attached to them. Usually Mr. Nutter accompanied the boys to the pasture, but this time he and his wife were picking blueberries and the lady thought they would provide a surprise for them by putting the cows in the barn before they returned home.

Believes End Of The World Is Near

James Moore Hickson, "healer," who has been in Boston for some time, declared the other day in an interview that he believes the end of the world is quite near. "The return of the Lord is drawing nigh," he said. "The signs of the times clearly demonstrate it. Read the Bible. The prophecies are being fulfilled. Look at the war we have gone through. See all the struggling yet going on. What of the massacre of the Armenians? If we were as unfortunate as to be among those people, we, too, might believe the end of the world is here."

"Another proof is the return of the world to the three planes of education and training. We are a trinity and there is a trinity of planes: the mental, physical and spiritual. For many years they have been eliminated and forgotten the spiritual and trained along the other two. What is the result? We see it all around us. People are now learning we must have the three and are returning to the spiritual again."

In the Chautauque tent on the High School grounds yesterday afternoon an able address on "Serbia Triumphant" was delivered by Sergt. Ruth Farnham of the Serbian Army.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by the Ross Drug Co. in St. John and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.
